UNDERTAKER ADMITS PLANTING DYNAMITE FOR MANUFACTURER

Mystery of "Planted" Dynamite During Famous Lawrence Textile Strike Cleared by John J. Breen

GIVEN $700 TO PLANT IT AMONG STRIKERS, HE SAYS

Undertaker Accuses Fred Atteax, Dyer Manufacturer, of Paying Him and Conspiring With Him

(By Associated Press.)

BOSTON, Mass., May 21.—Fred A. Atteaux, a dye manufacturer and codefendant with President William W. Wood, of the American Woolen company in the dynamite conspiracy trial, hired John J. Breen, a Lawrence undertaker, to "plant" explosives in buildings occupied by the striking textile operatives, according to Breen, who testified for the state today.

Atteaux, the witness said, gave him $500 before the dynamite was placed, and made the second payment of $200 some time later.

Breen testified that he said to Atteaux, "If I were fighting those fellows (meaning the strikers), I'd fight them by their own methods." Atteaux, he said, asked him if he meant dynamite, and he replied, "Dynamite or anything else."

Ernest Pittman, of Andover, a builder, who committed suicide when the grand jury began its investigation, was named by Breen as the person who delivered the dynamite to Breen and to Dennis J. Collins, the third defendant, who yesterday turned state's evidence.

MEANT NO INJURY?

On cross-examination the witness said he never had conspired with Wood, Atteaux or Pittman to injure any person or property.

The first testimony connecting either of the defendants with the dynamite, was given by John J. Breen, when he took the stand this morning. He testified bluntly that Atteaux had asked him if he could obtain some dynamite.

Breen said he knew both Collins and Atteaux. In January, 1912, the month of the textile strike, he met Atteaux at the latter's office in response to a telephone request. This was a few days before the dynamite episode. The call lasted two hours, the witness said, and the conversation was in regard to the Lawrence strike.

"Atteaux said he was glad to see I was interested in keeping the striking element quiet," said Breen.

"The next time I saw him was on January 19. I went to report the conditions of things to him. The conversation was about strike conditions. I said affairs at the mills were getting pretty hot. I added, 'If I was fighting those fellows, I'd fight them by their own methods.'

"'What do you mean?' he said, 'dynamite?'

"'Dynamite or anything else,' I said. "'Could you get some dynamite?' said he. I said, 'No.'

"Then he suggested that perhaps Mr. Pittman might get some."

The Pittman mentioned by the witness was Ernest R. Pittman, a builder, with whom the state alleges Wood, Atteaux and Collins conspired. Pittman committed suicide on the day he was subpoenaed to appear as a witness before the grand jury which was investigating the alleged dynamite plot.

"Atteaux telephoned to Pittman," Breen continued, "and an hour later Pittman arrived at Atteaux' office.

"Atteaux said, 'excuse us, John,' and he took Pittman into the corridor," said the witness.

"Pittman returned in about three minutes and said to me, 'Do you think you can do this business,' and I said, 'Yes, sir.' I am not sure that Atteaux was present at the time.

"Pittman said to me, 'I'll get some. Where can I telephone you?'

"I told him.

"Atteaux came in after Pittman left and said to me, 'Well, you can't do this for nothing.'

"I said, 'No, I will have to hire some one to help me.'

"'How much do you need?' he asked. 'Will $500 be enough?'

"I told him that would be enough. Atteaux then asked me about the police and I told him that Inspector Rooney was a friend of mine and would never suspect me when I gave him the tip about the dynamite."

Walter Wedgett, an expert on explosives, testified regarding the dynamite found at Lawrence.

From a bag he produced several sticks which he said resembled the dynamite he inspected. He explained that the sample did not contain dynamite. He also produced imitations of detonators and described the method of discharging them.

Dynamite that was thoroughly frozen, he said, was hard to discharge, but partially frozen dynamite was apt to be discharged unexpectedly and was more dangerous than any other form of the explosive.

It was very dangerous to have dynamite and detonators near each other. He described methods by which he identified the Lawrence exhibits as dynamite and detonators. As part of the tests he and State Officer Flynn exploded three of the dynamite sticks at a cemetery at Lawrence. One of the blasting caps used to explode the dynamite had been found in a package of dynamite that had been "planted."

Wedgett said that the temperature of an ordinary railway passenger car in winter would thaw out frozen dynamite in three-quarters of an hour.

Breen told of asking Collins to go to Lawrence with him. Later he met Atteaux at a street corner. Atteaux said: "Follow me, John."

PAID BREEN $500.

"I followed him," continued Breen, "and he dropped a package. As I picked it up, he said, 'Don't say I never gave you anything.' The package contained $500."

Breen made a second trip to the street corner, this time with Collins.

"I stood on the corner," said the witness, "until Pittman came up. He

FINGER PRINT EXPERT WORKS WITH DORSEY TO SOLVE MYSTERY

P. A. Flak, of New York, Visits Scene of Crime and Also Takes Finger Prints of Men in the Tower

BURNS INVESTIGATOR INTERVIEWS NEWT LEE

He Is Said to Be Convinced That Negro Is Innocent—Pinkertons Still Busy in Search for Additional Evidence

The employment by Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey of one of the best known finger print experts in the world on the Phagan mystery was Wednesday's principal development in the sensational case.

P. A. Flak, of New York City, noted criminologist, and a recognized expert on finger prints, was brought to Atlanta by the "Southeastern Banker" and introduced to Mr. Dorsey.

The expert and the prosecuting officer spent the entire day Wednesday in an effort to find the murderer of Mary Phagan through finger prints.

Together they visited the scene of the crime, and also the jail, where they are said to have secured the finger prints of Leo M. Frank, superintendent of the pencil factory, and Newt Lee, the negro night watchman, the two men held by the coroner's jury.

Finger prints, which may lead to the conviction of the murderer were found on the notes left beside the dead girl's body, and they were closely examined by Mr. Flak and the solicitor general.

Mr. Flak recently attended a meeting of the Georgia Bankers' association at Macon and consented at the request of representatives of the Southeastern Banker to come here and look into the Phagan mystery.

Solicitor General Dorsey and the finger print expert spent practically the entire morning Wednesday together.

With the solocitor genral, the city detectives and the Pinkertons practically ready for the grand jury hearing, which will commence on Friday morning, the latest addition to the ranks of the Phagan probers, C. W. Toble, of the Burns agency, is delving into the past of Mary Phagan and the seem-

SECRETARIES TO BE NAMED BY ASSEMBLY OF U. S. CHURCH NOW

Power Conferred by a Former Assembly Upon Executive Committees Is Taken Back by This One

KANSAS CITY GETS THE 1914 ASSEMBLY

Overture Prohibiting Use of Tobacco Among Ministers Is Turned Down—Gratification Shown at That

Southern Presbyterians in session at the North Avenue Presbyterian church, Wednesday morning, rescinded the action of a former general assembly by taking from the executive committees of the church the power to elect field and other secretaries, and at the same time resumed that power in the general assembly.

The action on the part of the present general assembly in adopting the report of the committee on bills and overtures, headed by the ex-moderator, Dr. Thomas S. Clyce, confirms overture No. 48 from the presbytery of Wilmington.

The overture follows:

"No. 48: The presbytery of Wilmington overtures the general assembly to rescind the action granting the executive committees the power to elect field and other secretaries and to restore that power to the general assembly." The committee's answer was, "We recommend that the overture be answered in the affirmative."

NO INTENSE FEELING.

Though the rescinding of this power of the executive committees brings a vast change in the manner of procedure of the assemblies and opposed stoutly by members and supporters of these bodies, there was none of the intense feeling that manifested itself at the conference of Tuesday during the debate on the "brief statement" and the report of the committee on foreign correspondence touching on the federal council which remains a part of unfinished business.

The discussions were conducted purely on a basis of a difference of opinion and theological lines played no part in the matter.

The adoption of the report of the committee on bills and overtures takes immediate effect upon the vote of the assembly. While the executive committees are shorn of their power to elect these secretaries, some of whom receive

SIMPLE EXPEDIENT OF DELAY IN EXCHANGE OF PAPERS, TO RELIEVE AWKWARD SITUATION

U. S. A. Assembly's Invitation to U. S. Assembly for Union, After Latter Had Declared for Delay, Will Be Solved So. "Brief Statement" a Notable Document—U. S. Assembly May Not Withdraw From Federal Council

By William T. Ellis

If the committee which invited the pan-Presbyterian meeting to Atlanta desired primarily to advertise the city, it could have chosen no better method; for the assemblies are daily putting the name of Atlanta into the head-lines of the nation's press. Yesterday was another copy-making day for the newspapers in two of the three assemblies.

The Presbyterians in the U. S. took a long, new step when they adopted a "brief statement" of their beliefs. This is designed to be the historic Westminster confession boiled down and expressed in the speech of today. If anybody wants to know what southern Presbyterians believe, he can find out in five minutes' reading. Of course, there was a great debate over the innovation, but the statement was adopted practically as presented by the committee.

Two critical questions which have been discussed for weeks past by the religious and secular press of the country were acted upon by the general assembly of the U. S. A. church yesterday. These were the Union Theological seminary matter and the home mission board inquiry. While technically the former issue was only one of possible relationship between the assembly and the seminary, it actually was considered as the question of Union seminary's theology.

So snarled up had the subject become in its parliamentary form that there seemed no way of arriving at a clear report upon it. Therefore, everybody welcomed Moderator Matthews' motion to commit the whole matter to a new committee of seven to report a year hence. Since this assembly has made so clear its views upon doctrinal questions, it is inevitable that the new committee will report in favor of dropping for the present the whole project of taking Union seminary stock into the fold. Meanwhile, 2,000 persons heard a vigorous debate of the old-fashioned sort.

HOME MISSION BOARD.

The widely circulated charges against the home board include too much centralization of power; too expensive administration; too many "departments;" too much money spent on Labor temple, New York. The executive commission, which has been inquiring into the subject in protracted sessions, made its report yesterday afternoon, and its recommendations were adopted so quick that Rev. Dr. James Weaver, of Colorado, the chief critic of the board, did not get opportunity to speak, atlhough he arose to do so.

The board is vindicated from the charges made against it. With particularity, the charges are declared

WILSON WARNS SISSON TO GO SLOW ON WAR TALK

Mississippi Congressman Is Warned to Make No Inflaming Speech on Japs

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—President Wilson today sent for Representative Sisson, of Mississippi, and urged him not to make any speech that would offend the sensibilities of Japan.

Mr. Sisson, who recently made a "war speech," had given notice of his intention to speak in the house Friday on the legal phases of the Japanese alien land question. He had a twenty-minute conference with the president during which, however, he assured Mr. Wilson that he would not discuss the pending negotiations or touch on anything of an incendiary character limiting himself to an argument on alien land ownership.

That was the White House version of the conference, though Mr. Sisson himself declined to make any comment, declaring merely that he would speak Friday.

The president is known to be anxious about discussion in congress at this stage of the Japanese question, especially involving any observations on racial discrimination.

It is indicated at the White House that the American note just sent, and the tenor of future exchanges, will be to assure Japan that the majority of Americans have a genuine respect and admiration for the achievements and character of her people. Public expressions that might give an opposite impression are regarded at the White House, at this time as seriously embarrassing the negotiations between the state department and the Japanese ambassador.

Japanese Government Has Sealed Its Lips on Answer

(By Associated Press.)

TOKIO, May 21.—The Japan foreign office is studying the reply of the United States government to its original protest in regard to the California alien land ownership legislation. It declares that, by agreement with Washington, the document will not be made public. The officials make no comment on the subject.

The Japanese public apparently is waiting for information before expressing its opinion on the American reply. In the meantime the press reiterates that the question goes deeper than the ownership of land or making of treaties and that it is racial discrimination, which must be wiped out by equal education and fusion of ideas.

Iichiro Toktomi, editor of the Kokumin Shimbun, writes:

"The loyalty of Japan should join forces with the liberality of America. By this means the Pacific would nobly justify its name."

On the other hand, much interest is attached to the formation of a new patriotic association by Count Shiganori Uesugi and other scholars "for the maintenance of Japanese individuality."

The founders declare that some of the Japanese are intoxicated with western civilization to such an extent that they are apt to forget their nationality and introduce dangerous thoughts into the minds of the people and interpret patriotism in a different way from that prevailing among their ancestors.

In some quarters it is alleged that this new organization is a political one, masquerading under the guise of patriotism, and that it has been created to fight the battle of bureaucracy against the encroachments of the growing democracy.

LOST ISLET OF CHRYSIS DISCOVERED NEAR LEMNOS

(By Associated Press.)

ATHENS, Greece, May 21.—A submerged island, recently discovered in the sea bed near Lemnos, in the Greek archipelago, has been identified by the government archeologist as the Islet of Chrysis, which was submerged at the beginning of the second century before the Christian era.

IF THIS IS DEATH, THEN NONE NEED FEAR IT, SAYS WALKER

Macon Banker Who Took Poison by Mistake, Has Another Wonderful Rally—He Describes Sensations of Death Bed

MACON, Ga., May 21.—"If this be death, then none need fear its terrors."

Thus spoke B. Sanders Walker today, as he begged his nurse to tell him exactly what passed between his physicians, who held a conference in one corner of his chamber.

The fact that he faced death was communicated to him directly after he swallowed poison by mistake last Wednesday. Since that time he has been the least perturbed of any about his bedside.

He has begged the doctors to allow him to talk. He expresses no fear of the consequences, be they what they may, and his nerve has never for a moment left him.

When at times life seems ebbing, he surprises his nurses by rallying and when they seem most concerned about his condition he offers words of encouragement assuring them that if he is dying that the sensation is not as unpleasant as it is generally pictured.

Sanders Walker, the young banker who swallowed poison by mistake a week ago, rallied this morning after a bad night and his condition has again puzzled his doctors.

The physicians gave up all hope last night and stated that the end was near.

Walker told them he was going to get well and it appears that this determination on the patient's part will have much to do with the outcome of the case. His pulse was 126, respiration 31, and temperature 99 this morning at 9 o'clock.

His family and physicians have practically abandoned all hope of his recovery, though they are unable to tell just when the end will come. Mr. Walker continues conscious and at times is able to sit up in bed and converse with the members of his family.

Attending physicians state that they know of instances where persons who have taken bichloride of mercury have lived for twenty-five days.

Telegrams are being received by the local doctors and members of the family from physicians all over the United States suggesting various sorts of treatment.

A number of these telegrams are addressed to Mr. Walker personally and are of the most encouraging nature.

It has been just a week today since Mr. Walker took the fatal dose of mercury, thinking it was an asperin tablet.

Two weeks ago Flossie Ragsdale, a young woman took bichloride of mercury with suicidal intent and died five days later at the Macon hospital.

Montgomery Doctor Says Walker Will Live

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 21.—Although B. Sanders Walker, of Macon, prominent Georgia banker, took a 7 1-2-grain tablet of bichloride of mercury, he will live because the strength of the tablet caused a reaction of the mercury diffused to all parts of the body and did not affect any one part, according to Dr. E. M. Sasvil, of Montgomery, new president of the Gulf States Osteopathic society, who returned to this city Wednesday from the meeting of the society in Birmingham.

Dr. Sasvil ridiculed the statement of Georgia physicians that Walker would probably die. He said there was little chance for his death after three hours from the time the drug was taken.

In discussing the case, Dr. Sasvil said that an ordinary dose of bichloride of mercury was from one fiftieth to one hundredth part of one grain, and that the effect of the 7 1-2 grains was to cause immediate reaction and to such an extent that Walker's life was saved.

If the version is correct, 7 1-2 grains of mercury will save a life when one grain will cause almost instant death.

HOKE SMITH CALLS UP KERN PROBE RESOLUTION

Georgian Calls Committee on Education and Labor to Consider Mine Investigation

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Senator Hoke Smith, chairman, called the committee on education and labor today to consider the Kern resolution to direct an inquiry into conditions in the Paint Creek and Cabin Creek coal fields of West Virginia.

With the resolution was an amendment by Senator Works to direct the inquiry into the working conditions which brought about the strike. Senator Kern had been assured that a favorable report would be made with a recommendation that a sub-committee composed of Senators Borah, Swanson and Shields conduct the investigation.

The report of the committee will come up in the senate tomorrow.

Finally the committee authorized a sub-committee of five to draft a new resolution directing a ninquiry by the full committee of education and labor, with a sub-committee to take testimony in West Virginia. The sub-committee, preparing the report and resolution to be given to the senate tomorrow, is composed of Senators Swanson, Shields, Martine, Borah and Kenyon.

Senator Kenyon said at the conclusion of the committee meeting that the resolution would be broad in its scope enabling the committee to inquire not only into conditions at the time of the strike, the extent of the military operations and court martials but also into working conditions of the miners. The sessions of the entire committee will be held in Washington.

G. O. P. CARRIES TARIFF FIGHT TO COMMITTEE

Senator Penrose Leads Minority of Finance Committee Urging Publicity

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The fight between Republican and Democratic senators over making public names of manufacturers who appear before senate finance sub-committees, and publishing briefs filed in protest against rates, was renewed today when the finance committee met.

Senator Penrose, who led the fight on the floor yesterday, resumed the minority leadership in committee. Chairman Simmons announced before the meeting that he never had been opposed to making public the names.

The committee also had under consideration a list of tariff questions to manufacturers, submitted by Senators Simmons, Stone and Williams, acting as a special sub-committee.

Democratic members finally decided today to hear no more manufacturers on the schedules of the Underwood bill after next Tuesday, and then begin actual work of revising the bill.

Chairman Simmons was authorized to make that announcement and he issued the following statement:

"The Democratic members of the finance committee of the senate desire that all persons who wish to confer with the sub-committees with reference to the schedules referred to them should do so before the close of next Tuesday. After then the sub-committee will begin the work of actually framing the schedules."

Senator Owen, after a visit to the White House said that he expected to introduce a resolution to amend the senate rules to prevent dilatory debate and filibuster.

CHARLES L. THOMPSON ANSWERS CRITICS OF HOME MISSION BOARD

Venerable Senior Secretary Defends Board's Administrative Methods and Is Given Ovation by U. S. A. Assembly

HE SAYS THE WEST IS LACKING IN GRATITUDE

Reminds Presbyteries Which Headed List of Critics That Some of Board's Hardest Work Was Among Them

A spirited reply by Dr. Charles L. Thompson, of New York, senior secretary of the home mission board of the northern assembly, to the criticisms of the board's administrative policy and methods, was the feature of the Wednesday morning session of the assembly in the Baptist Tabernacle.

Dr. Thompson said the board had done no work except work specifically directed by the assembly. He asked for the assembly's support in making this year the greatest in the board's history. He accused the western presbyteries, whence most of the criticism came, of ingratitude, because some of the board's hardest work has been in the west.

The prolonged applause which greeted Dr. Thompson's appearacne on the rostrum, and the ovation at the close of his speech, indicated that the majority of the assembly are not in sympathy with the criticisms of the board, but cordially approve its methods and are satisfied with the results it has accomplished.

The effort to reconsider the executive commission's report of its conclusions after investigating the board, which report was adopted Tuesday afternoon, was crowded out by the report of the board and the report of the standing committee on the board, which together occupied two and one-half hours of the morning session.

Moderator Stone fixed 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon as the hour for the motion to reconsider.

DEBATE A RESOLUTION.

The Northern assembly opened Wednesday morning with a lively discussion of the question, whether the assembly should recommend to pastors, sessions and churches that "during or following each sermon an appeal be made for the immediate acceptance of Christ as the sinner's personal Saviour."

Rev. C. A. R. Janvier, D. D., of Philadelphia, vigorously opposed the resolution. He said he favored the evangelistic note in preaching as strongly as any commissioner in the assembly, but he felt certain the recommendation would not be followed and he objected to placing pastors in the attitude of ignoring the assembly.

Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, of Philadelphia, objected to the resolution because, as he said, the evangelistic note must be placed on the pastor's lips by the Holy Spirit, and not by resolution or the general assembly. He said there is a time to speak, and a time to hold one's peace.

On vote of the assembly the resolution was adopted by a narrow margin.

Rev. Sartelle Prentiss brought greetings from the Associated Reform Presbyterian church. He made a stirring appeal for the church of Christ to unite in one mighty army to combat with a solid front the forces of sin and corruption.

HOME MISSIONS REPORT.

At 10 o'clock the report of the standing committee on home missions was taken up in its regular order on the docket.

Immediately several commissioners were on their feet, inquiring if there would be an opportunity to move a reconsideration of the executive commission's report, adopted Tuesday afternoon, in which the commission presented their conclusions on complaints against the home board's administrative methods.

Moderator Stone informed the commissioners that they would certainly have such an opportunity, at the proper time.

The standing committee's report, reviewing the work of the board during the past year, was presented by Dr.

JURY REFUSES TO SIGN VERDICT JUDGE ORDERS

Tennessee Judge Declares Prisoner Not Guilty Murder, Jury Dissents

(By Associated Press.)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 21.—Judge and jury clashed in the second division of the criminal court here yesterday and as a result a verdict acquitting a man of the charge of murder was made a part of the court record without the signatures of the jurors.

C. E. Murrell, railroad fireman, was on trial charged with having murdered Moss Todd and murderously assaulted the latter's son. Presiding Judge Palmer ruled that the evidence showed clearly that Murrell acted in self defense and directed a verdict of not guilty.

"Suppose we do not think he is not guilty?" suggested several of the jurors.

"But I do," replied the court. "Write your verdict accordingly."

After a hurried consultation with members of the jury, Foreman Cooney refused to write the verdict.

Judge Palmer explained that he could permit no other verdict to stand in view of the testimony.

"You have a right to your opinion," retorted Cooney, still obdurate, "but you are not he keeper of my consicence."

Finally, however, the verdict was written, but the jurors carried their point to the extent of not affixing their signatures.

On another charge, of carrying concealed weapons, Murrel was quickly declared guilty. He was released under bond pending an appeal.

FRENCH SOLDIERS RIOT OVER ENFORCED SERVICE

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, May 21.—Some French soldiers are displaying considerable opposition to the decision of the government to keep them for another year in active service instead of discharging them at the expiration of their two-year term. Demonstrations have occurred in a number of garrisoned towns. The government is acting with great energy in suppressing opposition.

A number of soldiers who took part in a demonstration at Tulon on Sunday were tried by court martial and sentenced to serve the rest of their terms with the disciplinary battalion in Northern Africa.

Fires Shot in Brain While Wife Is Ill In Adjoining Room

(By Associated Press.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 21.—While his wife lay desperately ill in an adjoining room, John I. Forniss, a retired capitalist, committed suicide in his apartments at a prominent local hotel last night by sending a bullet through his brain. Discovery was made at 5 o'clock this morning by the maid attending Mrs. Forniss.

Mr. Forniss was seventy-three years old, a Confederate veteran and a native of Wilcox county, Ala. He had been in declining health for some time. He left a note saying that nervousness was driving him crazy, and he was losing his mind. He asked all to pray for him.

The body will be interred here.

PENNSYLVANIA AROUSED OVER MURDER OF GIRL

Fourteeen-Year-Old Grace Johnston's Body Found in Clump of Woods

(By Associated Press.)

PITTSBURG, aP., May 21.—The murder of Grace Johnston, aged fourteen, at Blackburn, in West Moreland county, Monday has aroused the citizens in that section of Pennsylvania and last night and early today detectives from Allegheny county, members of the Pennsylvania state constabulary and officers from adjoining counties conducted a search for the slayer.

Two suspects, foreigners, were captured by state constables at midnight. A reward of $1,000 has been offered for the murderer and posters giving the description of a strange man seen near the place of the crime have been mailed to all cities in the state.

Grace Johnston left her home to attend school on Monday morning. When she did not return late in the afternoon a search was made and her body was found in a clump of woods near a railroad track. Upon examination it was ascertained that her death resulted from strangulation.

Bloodhounds were put on the scent yesterday, but lost the trail in the business section of Greensburg, the county seat of Westmoreland county.

GORDON INSTITUE PLANS BIG PROGRAM

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

BARNESVILLE, Ga., May 21.—Gordon institute is announcing the program of what will probably be the most brilliant commencement in the long history of the school. The standard was set high more than a half century ago and each succeeding year marks an ascending step.

The year just closing has been successful to a remarkable degree. The enrollment has been the largest in the history of the school and a spirit of earnestness has pervaded the student body. The May issue of the Trend Magazine of New York City, contains an interesting article from the pen of Congressman T. W. Hardwick, entitled "An Ideal School in the Heart of the South," in which he gives a faithful picture of Gordon, where he received his secondary training.

Mr. Hardwick still manifests his interest in his alma mater by offering annually the Hardwick medal for the best original oration delivered by a member of the junior class. No honor offered by the school is contested for more eagerly and earnestly. The present junior class contains some promising material and there will be a battle royal on the morning of June 3. There will be a number of notable events during the commencement, chief of which will be the sermon on Sunday, June 1, by Rev. R. E. Douglas, D. D., of Macon, and the literary address Tuesday morning by Judge Emory Speer, of Macon.

Bibb Jury Indicts Saloon Keeper Who Now in Ireland

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MACON, Ga., May 21.—The grand jury has indicted Hugh Devlin for a violation of the state prohibition law and he has not been in the United States in three years. Devlin formerly operated a saloon here at the intersection of Broadway and Bay streets. Three years ago he left Macon for his native home in Ireland, where he has since made his home.

Since he is now in Ireland, it will be impossible to push the charges against him.

A Severe Sickness Leaves The Kidneys Weak

After recovering from a severe spell of sickness some time ago, I was all run down and suffering from poor blood. I would have pains in my back and hips and my kidneys bothered me all the time. I started taking Swamp-Root upon the recommendation of a friend and found it was just what I needed. My blood became all right and after taking a few bottles, I was surprised at the effect it had on my kideys. They were entirely cured and I have much to be thankful for that your great remedy did for me.

Yours very truly,

WHY ALL JOURNAL READERS SHOULD JOIN THE BOOKLOVERS' CLUB.

An old-time Journal subscriber called at Booklovers' Campaign headquarters yesterday to get some information in regard to the plan, saying that he was not in last year's campaign and so far had not tried his hand at selecting titles to The Journal's prize pictures, saying that his knowledge of books was limited and that he figured that was necessary in order to win. As we have told our readers right along that it is not necesasry to know books in order to win, we were a little surprised to know that there were any Journal readers left who did not thoroughly understand that our Official Catalogue contained all the titles used and that each picture fairly represented the title and not a paragraph or any part of the story. When the plan was explained to him he could plainly see that his chances were just as good as the best educated man or woman who might compete with him for one of the prizes, and we supplied him with our new Catalogue and the Answer Book with the first thirty-five pictures, and he left us declaring that he was out for one of the big prizes. If there are any Journal readers who are holding back for the same reason this gentleman did, we hope they will come in and get the Catalogue and Answer Book and all the pictures and go in this delightful home game determined that part of that $7,000 is bound to be theirs.

The first prize is $1,000, the second $750 and the third $500. Any one of these prizes will make a rich reward for a few hours' pleasure in selecting the right titles to The Journal's prize pictures.

There are 747 prizes in all, so if you do not get one of the first three prizes you surely ought to get one of the others. And the nice thing about this plan is that you do not have to solicit subscriptions, advertising or BEG YOUR FRIENDS to vote for you in order to win.

It is a ladies' and gentleman's game with no disagreeable features connected with it. Just real pleasure in working out the titles with the aid of our new Official Catalogue.

COURT HOUSE WILL COST MILLION AND QUARTER

Fulton County's New Court House to Exceed Estimate, Interior Bids Awarded

A million and a quarter dollars is now the estimated cost of the Fulton county new court house, which is rapidly nearing completion.

Contracts on interior finishings, amounting to over $600,000, were awarded Wednesday morning at a special meting of the county board.

The awards for the interior work were as follows

Ornamental iron and bronze work, the L. Schreiber & Sons company, Cinnati, $118,614; marble and tile work, the Blue Ridge Marble company, Nelson, Ga., $159,500; mill work and glazing, the Robert Mitchell Furniture company, Cincinnati, $644,099; cork flooring, H. W. Johns-Manville company, Atlanta, Ga., $16,769; painting, William Wilson, Atlanta, $11,350; sheet metal, Dowman-Dozier company, Atlanta, $99,416; hardware, Beck & Gregg Hardware company, Atlanta, $11,165; elevators, the Otis Elevator company Atlanta, $39,263; directory, United States Changeable Sign company, New York, $1,640, and mail chutes, Cutler Mail Chute company, Rochester, N. Y., $1,550.

The last bit of concrete work was finished on the building a short time ago and now the marble workers are busy putting on the finishing touches to the exterior. The bare building, without any of the interior decorations and furnishings, alone costs more than half a million. It was first thought that the total cost of the building in its completed state would be held under the million dollar mark, but as the work progressed it soon developed that $1,000,000 would not cover the cost of a building which the county commissioners intend to be a monument to the county and the city as well.

Comissioner Shelby Smith, chairman of the board, states that when the building is turned over to the county complete, which will be some time in the early spring of 1914, there won't be another county building in the south that can compare with it.

It is expected that by next fall the first two floors will be ready for occupancy, and that many of the county officers will move into their respective offices and be transacting business by October. These officers will be on the first floor, and are the ordinary, the tax collector, the clerk, etc. The second floor will be the record rooms. The court rooms will be about the last part of the building to be completed.

The matter of awarding contracts to the different bidders on the interior work was left with the public buildings committee, and the special meeting of the board was held Wednesday to adopt their report. The architects of the building are A. Ten Eyck Brown and Morgan & Dillon.

Present at the special meeting were Commissioners Anderson, Smith, Turman, Kinn and Waters.

CLARK AND HIS WIFE AGREE ON SEPARATION

Augustus H. Clark, formerly connected with the local gas and railway company, who was arrested Tuesday on a charge of desertion when he returned to Atlanta to start suit for divorce against his wife, has agreed to contribute $20 a month toward the support of his spouse and two minor children pending the official separation of the couple.

The agreement between the Clarks was reached Tuesday afternoon, when Clark was brought before City Recorder Broyles. The latter told husband and wife to take a half hour in the office of Probation Officer Coogler and talk the case over. At the end of the debate a separation was agreed upon. Neither party would consider a reconciliation.

Clark's three-year-old son, Augustus Hamilton, Jr., recently figured in a kidnaping episode, which ended in the indictment of Clark's mother, Mrs. George S. Clark, of 144 Hill street, by the county grand jury.

Since his return Clark has said that he absolves his mother of all blame in the alleged kidnaping.

ATLANTA'S FLOWERS ARE ASKED FOR THIS SUNDAY

Next Sunday morning the First Christian church will hold their "flower Sunday" services. Each person attending that church is asked to bring an offering of flowers. After the flower sermon and services, the flowers will be made up into bouquets and carried to Soldiers Home, Grady hospital, Home for Incurables, Old Ladies' Home, Battle Hill sanitarium, and all of Atlanta's hospitals, and to other public institutions, including the Tower, federal prison and all the orphanages. Everybody in Atlanta who has flowers is invited to send them to the church early Sunday morning, and to participate in the plan to send a little happiness into the lives of the sick, the aged and those in prison.

NEW ORDINANCE SAVES SALOO NKEEPER KRESNER

S. Kresner, the first near-beer saloonkeeper to be tried under the new city ordinance legalizing the sale of beer C. O. D., was before City Recorder Nash R. Broyles Tuesday afternoon to face the allegation that he had delivered a quantity of near-beer to a residence near his saloon and had collected on delivery.

Kresner admitted sending the beer out but contended that under the new ordinance, which became a law yesterday, he had a legal right to do so. His contention was upheld by the recorder.

THEATERS

"Criticisms of initial performances at the local theaters are written by members of The Journal staff. All other matter appearing in this column is furnished by the theater managements."

ATLANTA—"The Deep Purple."
FORSYTH—Vandeville.
BIJOU—Vaudeville and pictures.

Some show this week at the Forsyth, is the declaration that is being made by the hundreds of theater-goers who have had the fun of witnessing the antics of Adam and Eve. The hit of the bill belongs to John Geiger, a violinist, who almost makes the instrument talk. When he commences his trick work, he has the attention of every ear in the house. His imitations of other musical instruments make his act of double value.

Adam and Eve, the clever fun-making monkeys have been taught some real tricks, and their "rough house stuff" has kept every gathering laughing even after they have started home.

Gallagher and Fields show how foolish two men can be, and still keep up dignity. "The Battle of Bay Rum" is funny because it is absurd, and there is enough real legitimate comedy to make the act one of the features of modern vaudeville.

It is announced that the headliner for next week will be the famous "Irish Queen," Maggie Cline. This famous artist was a performer before some of the present day headliners were born, and even at that there has never been but one "Maggie Cline." The other acts on the bill are of the highest quality, and a great show is assured.

"A Trip to Joyville," the first of the run of musical comedy tabloids with vaudeville to be served to the theater goers at the Bijou, is a clever entertainment. There is nothing in the slightest offensive, but there is much that is high grade entertainment, much that is pleasing and something to enlist and hold attention from the opening act until the last scene in a cabaret has ended. There are pretty girls in the company, and there are comedians who are a sure cure for any sort of old or new grouch.

The admission to a Bijou tabloid at matinee of either of the two night performances is 10 cents, and there are a few sections of front row seats held for night performances at 10 cents extra. The idea has caught the fancy of Bijou patrons and the play house is going to enjoy one of the most prosperous periods in its career.

M'CORMICK ALUMNI ARE ENTERTAINED AT BANQUET

The alumni of McCormick Theological seminary and a number of their friends were entertained Tuesday night by the Rev. George H. Atkinson, president of Albemarle Normal and Industrial institute, of Albemarle, N. C., at a banquet.

Several witty toasts were proposed and responded to by Mrs. Nettie Fowler McCormick, of Chicago, a noted woman educator; Dr. Walter W. Moore, president of Union Theological seminary, at Richmond, Va., and others.

OPEN AIR SCHOOLS ARE NEEDED, SAYS COMMITTEE

Joint Committee Will Ask City for $2,000 Appropriation to Build First

A committee from the Pan-Teachers' association and the Mothers' Congress during the present week will request from the finance committee of the city council an appropriation of $2,000 for an open air municipal school.

The committee some time ago raised $1,000 for this purpose, and it is estimated that with $2,000, which the council is asked to appropriate, a model open air school can be erected and equipped.

Members of the committee declared that there are more than 1,000 children in the public schools now whose physical condition is such that they should be in the open air instead of in the ordinary closed schools.

The committee at the same time will urge that in all schools to be built in the future by Atlanta, equipment for open air class rooms be provided.

The committee will point out that of such value are open air schools, that within the past five years their number in the United States has increased from 2 to more than 300.

The committee anticipate no trouble in convincing council that the health of the children of the city will derive the greatest benefit from the expenditure of a small sum.

It is the idea of the committee to locate the proposed model school in the vicinity of Grant park.

The committee which will go before the finance committee is composed of Judge E. C. Kontz, Dr. C. B. Wilmer, Mrs. T. K. Glenn, Hamilton Douglas, Mrs. James Little, Joe C. Logan, Mrs. J. Wade Conklin, Mrs. Victor Kriegshaber, Dr. Marion McH. Hull, Dr. Louis Stevens, Dr. Theo Toepel and others.

MRS. ALINE UNDERWOOD OF MEMPHIS SUCCUMBS

Death Came After Brief Illness—Funeral Arrangements to Be Announced Later

Friends in Atlanta of Mrs. Alvin H. Underwood will be shocked at the announcement of her death in Memphis Wednesday morning, after an illness lasting only a few days.

Her remains will arrive in Atlanta Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Mrs. Underwood, before her marriage, was Miss Amanda Laird, of Memphis. Surviving her are her husband, Mr. Alvin H. Underwood, formerly of Atlanta, but now of Memphis; her father and one child.

Mrs. Underwood, on her visits to Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Underwood, of Atlanta, made many friends here, who will be grieved deeply by her death.

ATLANTA BOY DISAPPEARS FROM BARNESVILLE SCHOOL

O. H. Starnes, the Atlanta grocer, is deeply concerned about the welfare of his son, O. H. Barnes, Jr., who disappeared from Barnesville on May 12, and who has not yet been located after a searching inquiry. Young Starnes was attending the Gordon institute there, says his father, and seemed to be perfectly satisfied and doing well. He had just returned from the camp of the school. Mr. Starnes has investigated matter thoroughly in Barnesville, without being able to find the slightest indication as to his son's whereabouts.

"We want any one who can tell us something about the boy, to write to me," says Mr. Starnes. His address is 245 Marietta street. "What we want to know first is whether he is alive and well."

Mr. Starnes describes his son as being about five feet, four inches in height, weight about 155 pounds, light brown hair, deep blue eyes. He was wearing dark glasses, a blue serge suit, and a gray cap, when he was seen last.

took me down the street and introduced me to a Mr. Rice. 'Mr. Rice has the package for you,' he said.

"I took the bundle and said to Mr. Rice, 'What danger is there with this?' He said, 'None; it's frozen solid.'

"I carried the bundle up to the corner where Collins was waiting. I said, 'Here's the dynamite. Be careful, even if Mr. Rice does say there is no danger.'"

Breen said that he and Collins went to Lawrence and to Breen's home. Here Collins opened the bundle and made smaller packages of the contents.

On the stand yesterday Collins, who has turned state's evidence, gave a similar version of the disposition of the dynamite in Breen's room, but denied that he knew the packages contained dynamite. He said that Breen told him only that it was "juice."

TOLD OF THE PLOT.

Breen saw the dynamite sticks made up in small bundles.

"Collins knew what I was going to do," said the witness, "because I had told him that we were going to place dynamite around Lawrence."

Collins put the bundles in a suit case and they entered a sleigh. "One bundle," said the witness, "was left at Assaf's (the tailor shop of a Syrian).

"Then we went to 726-A Lawrence street, where I told him to put a bundle in an Italian printing shop. The place was closed and no dynamite was left there."

The reason Breen selected the printing shop was because it was in the center of a district where the strikers and the police had had frequent clashes, he said.

He said dynamite was left in St. Mary's cemetery but denied that he told Collins to put the explosive near the Arlington mill.

The witness then telephoned Inspector Rooney of the Lawrence police that he had located two places where dynamite was hidden.

Breen testified that he met Atteaux in April and told him he needed more money, his expenses having been heavy. No sum was mentioned by either man but a few days later Breen received by special delivery an envelope containing four fifty-dollar bills. This was delivered to him at his office in Lawrence.

Cross-examined by Daniel H. Coakley, counsel for Atteaux, Breen said that he never conspired with Wood, Atteaux or Pittman to injure any persons or property.

"BRIEF STATEMENT" IS PASSED BY SOUTHERNERS

Statement Will Be Used as Circulating Tract—Few Changes Are Made

Shortly after the southern assembly of the Presbyterian church convened Tuesday afternoon, the "brief statement" as reported on by the special committee came before the convention and was passed by a vote of 119 to 64 with certain changes.

A brilliant discussion on the part of those in favor and against the report of the committee occurred before the question was called for. Dr. James I. Vance, of Nashville, Tenn., suggested that the brief statement be recommitted to a committee numbering three more members than the one which had already reported, and be reported on at the convention next year. This motion was lost by the close vote of 88 to 80.

Shortly after the motion of Dr. Vance was put, the previous question was called for, and the report adopted, with certain changes which had been passed at Tuesday morning's session. The statement will be circulated as a tract among the members of the church.

AS TO FEDERAL COUNCIL.

For the remainder of the session following the adoption o fthe "brief statement" commissioners of the southern assembly debated pro and con over the minority report of the committee on foreign correspondence. There were charges that the federal council is attempting to influence national politics and preparing to adopt a social service regime contrary to the belief of the Presbyterian church.

Champions of the report and those opposing it were about evenly divided, making it practically an impossibility to venture an opinion as to the outcome of the balloting.

Sharp attacks against the council of the Churches of Christ in America were made by Dr. T. M. Lowry, of Memphis, Tenn., who presented the report, requestion the assembly to withdraw from the powerful union, and by Rev. R. M. Hall, of Galveston, Tex.

The report of Dr. Lowry followed that of Dr. Thornton Whaling, president of Columbia Theological seminary, Columbia, S. C., and chairman of the committee on foreign correspondence. Dr. Whaling was free to admit that there were many things about the federal council which are disapproved by southern Presbyterians, but urged the assembly nevertheless to remain in the fold.

A Powerful Speaker

CHARLES LEMUEL THOMPSON, D. D.
Secretary of home missions for the Presbyterian assembly of the U. S. A. He was one of the speakers in the program of the union meeting at the auditorium Tuesday night.

SIMPLE EXPEDIENT OF DELAY TO RELIEVE AWKWARD SITUATION

groundless, and a tribute paid to the board and its officers. There had to be found some Jonah to be sacrificed to the storm, so the department of church and country life was thrown overboard. The Labor temple was turned over to the New York presbytery for support. A gradual withdrawal of field and district superintendents was advised, with a consistent respect for the authority of presbyteries and synods. This is looked upon as a manifestation of the present-day spirit, "Let the people rule."

When the report of the home mission board comes up today there is likely to be a threshing out of the whole subject, and the critics will have their inning.

The commissioners to the southern assembly also had a chance to sleep on one of the most widely debated subjects before them—that of relationship with the federal council of churches. This body includes all the Protestant denominations in America. It is supposed to represent the Protestant churches of the country. Various shades of doctrinal views are represented, and the president this year, Rev. Dr. Shailer Matthews, dean of the Chicago university, a brilliant scholar and writer and speaker, is looked upon by many as being advanced in his views. Some of his writings have been vigorously criticised in the press of the Presbyterian church in the United States. The contention has been put forward in print and in yesterday's lively debate that to remain in an organization of which Dr. Matthews is head is to compromise the doctrinal soundness of the Southern Presbyterian church. Criticism also is made of the activity of the federal council in matters affecting government and reform, for the southern Presbyterians hold rigidly to the complete separation of church and state.

CANNOT REGULATE OTHERS.

The view taken of the federal council relationship by other men in the as*sembly is that the church should make* clear its own doctrinal position, but that it should not withdraw from fellowship with all the other Protestant evangelical churches of America: southern Presbyterians are responsible for their own views, and not for those of other denominations. The feeling this morning was that the latter view would prevail, and that the assembly would remain in fellowship with the council, after unequivocally declaring its own doctrinal views.

The difficulty which was presented by the resolution in favor of organic union adopted Monday by the Presbyterian church in the United States of America is being got over by the simple process of waiting to turn over the papers in the case until the assemblies have adjourned. Thus the Presbyterian church in the United States will be relieved from the ambarrassment of having to inform the guest in its household that it is not yet ready for any closer identity with him.

Speaking of union, there has been a considerable misunderstanding about the negotiations between the U. S. church and the U. P. church. It was reported in this column, as elsewhere, that the basis of union is now to go to the Presbyteries and that the entire transaction may be consummated within a year. This is incorrect. The joint procedure was to approve of the negotiations up to date and to lay them on the table for consideration next year in order that the respective denominations may have fullest opportunity to consider them in the meanwhile.

Today the mooted question of graded lessons in the Sunday schools of the northern church will be up for decision. This issue has caused widespread debate. The graded lessons in use by the denomination in connection with an interdenominational syndicate were thought to be not in consonance with the teachings of the Presbyterian church. The special committee on the subject, in conference with the board of publication, had these objectionable lessons withdrawn, and arrangements made to substitute others more in conformity with the views of the denomination. The principle of graded lessons was endorsed. Probably this report will carry through the assembly, although there are some who are opposed vigorously to the whole scheme of graded lessons in Sunday schools, and they doubtless will be heard on the floor.

The psychological effect of the action of the U. P. assembly yesterday in continuing, after a debate, to keep the Sabbath school mission under the care of the board of Home missions instead of under the publication board, is being watched with interest by the commissioners of the northern assembly, for they have before them this afternoon the report of the publication board when it is possible that this same issue which has often been bruited in the press may be brought forward.

One memorable meeting in connection with the assembly was the brotherhood dinner at the Hotel Kimball last night, when three hundred men of the four denominations represented sat down together and heard brief speeches. The occasion was one of enthusiasm and optimism, and it was freely said that the future of brotherhood work in the Presbyterian churches is more roseate than ever.

ALABAMA RATE HEARING TRANSFERRED TO ATLANTA

U. S. Circuit and Federal Judges Will Hear Arguments in L. & N. Case

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 21.—United States Circuit Judges David D. Shelby and Don A. Pardee and Federal Judge W. I. Grubb, of Birmingham, will sit in Atlanta next Wednesday for the purpose of hearing arguments of counsel as to whether the Louisville and Nashville railroad shall be awarded a permanent injunction against order of the Alabama railroad commission requiring a 2 1-2-cent passenger rate in this state. Information to this effect was received at the capitol Wednesday. Pending this hearing the Louisville and Nashville was granted a restraining order by Judge Grubbs last week.

ATLANTIAN ENTERS ICE WAR IN CHATTANOOGA

W. B. Baker, President of A. I. & C. Corporation, Discusses Suit of Ridgedale

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 21.—W. B. Baker, of Atlanta, president and general manager of the Atlantic Ice and Coal corporation, is in Chattanooga to consult with his local managers and attorneys about the litigation started against them by the Ridgedale Ice company to force him to raise the price of ice in Chattanooga. When seen Mr. Baker did not appear to be perturbed in the least over the outcome of the war on his company, which his competitors declare has only begun.

He appeared to be amused at the allegations that the Atlantic Ice and Coal corporation and the Southern Ice company are in a conspiracy to eliminate the smaller companies of the city, declaring that the Southern Ice company is the strongest competitor his company has in at least three cities in the south.

Maitland Alexander, of Pittsburg, chairman of the committee.

The report closed with four or five resolutions, of which the following two are worthy of mention:

That the assembly go on record as approving and commending the board and its secretaries.

That whereas the question has frequently been raised concerning the authority of the board's supervising agents in the field, the assembly, therefore, resolve that these agents have no authority over individual missionaries in matters where the missionaries are responsible directly to presbyteries or synods.

Action on the resolutions was withheld, pending the report of the board itself, which was presented by Rev. Ernest McAfee, one of the associate secretaries.

Dr. Alexander prefaced his introduction of Secretary McAfee by urging the assembly to quit talking about and criticising the board and to act instead, if action were necessary. He said the assembly should remove every semblance of an obstacle from the free and abundant flow of Presbyterian money into the coffers of the board, so that the great work may be pressed forward without handicap.

Secretary Metfee reviewed in detail the aims, plans, policy and methods of the board, and the conspicuous results of its work. He defended the board in answer to its critics, and praised it unstintingly as the "greatest home mission agency of all the Protestant churches in America."

He was followed by Rev. Charles L. Thompson, D. D., senior secretary of the board, a venerable man, who stepped to the front of the rostrum with fire in his eye, to be greeted by a storm of applause.

He thanked the executive commission for exonerating the board of "malfeasance in office and usurpation of authority."

He said the board had chafed under the delay in getting the commission's verdict.

He said the board felt the general and unfounded criticisms, given publicity in advance of the assembly, to be extremely unfair.

He said the board is sailing uncharted seas, to be sure, and facing new problems, but that it has undertaken no work except as specifically directed by the assembly.

"We may give the slow-down signal," said he, "and we may even stop. But there's one thing we will not do, and that is to back up."

Of the west, where the board has made an especially vigorous evangelistic campaign, Dr. Thompson said the board felt the west rather ungrateful in heading the list of critics.

In conclusion, Dr. Thompson said if the assembly would join hands with the board it would make this year the "greatest of all in this, the most strategic work on the planet."

The assembly gave Dr. Thompson a tremendous ovation, to which he responded by kissing his hand to the great audience before him.

DR. MATTHEWS SPEAKS.

Dr. Matthews, as chairman of the executive board, followed Dr. Thompson with a brief and forceful speech in commendation of the board.

Rev. J. W. Lee, a negro minister, of Philadelphia, made an appeal for the assembly to direct the home mission board to extend its work definitely among the negroes in northern and western cities. He declared the move*ment of negroes from the south to* other sections of the country is giving the negro problem a new extent and seriousness. An overture embodying Lee's petition was referred to the home mission and freedmen's boards jointly.

The assembly then went back to the report of the standing committee on home missions, and took it up at Seriabim.

A number of overtures recommended by the committee were adopted. The committee's resolutions, of which the two important ones are mentioned above, were adopted.

On motion of Rev. C. A. R. Janvier, D. D., Philadelphia, there was added a resolution urging the president of the United States to forbid the wearing of a badge or uniform distinctive of any religion in schools supported by the federal government.

This resolution, which is patterned after the resolution adopted by the U. P. assembly on Tuesday, is aimed at the Roman Catholic priests and sisters in Indian schools.

Moderator Stone at this juncture was about to proceed with the stated order, when half a dozen commissioners interrupted with a demand that they be allowed to more reconsideration of the executive commission's report, which was adopted Tuesday afternoon.

"When the assembly took up this matter two hours ago you promised, Mr. Moderator, that we would be given this opportunity at the proper time. We consider this the proper time."

To which Moderator Stone replied that their matter would be given the right-of-way at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and they accepted this in the interest of aiding the moderator to adhere to the docket as closely as possible.

The assembly then passed to the report of the standing committee on Presbyterian Brotherhood presented by Rev. W. N. Sloan, D. D., Helena, Montana, chairman of the committee.

The committee indorsed the brotherhood in the highest terms; recommended a plan of permanent organization; and suggested that the brotherhood's work be devoted specially to evangelism, Bible study, social service and public morals, missions and boy's work. The report was adopted unanimously and heartily.

Was it a reputation for high mileage?
United States Tires to-day yield an average mileage from 25 to 50 per cent. above the highest point ever reached by any tire maker previous to the organization of the United States Tire Company.

Was it protection against rim cutting?
United States Dunlop tires bear the first and only guarantee against rim cutting ever issued by any tire maker.

Was it extra size?
Compare cross section for yourself. Make a few caliper measurements, or ask any dealer or tire manufacturer who has investigated the matter, and you will find that no tire made has a larger average air capacity or larger diameter measurements than the United States Dunlop. USE YOUR OWN EYES!

Was it ease of manipulation?
The round toe, an exclusive feature of our Dunlop tire, makes this the most easily manipulated tire on the market.

Most Important of All—
We have perfected and control a process that has practically doubled the fabric strength of United States Tires and reduced blow-outs to a minimum.

Four-factory co-operative methods of manufacture (used exclusively in the manufacture of United States Tires) have enabled us to take every feature of superiority it is possible to put into a tire and combine them all in one tire.

The Answer Book As An Investment in the $7,000 Booklovers' Campaign

Looking at the matter of buying an Answer Book to submit your answers in The Journal's Booklovers' Campaign from a business standpoint, you cannot fairly decide against getting one.

You are certainly in this great home game to submit the full result of your skill and not one-fifth of it. As the rules allow you the right to ten answers with a picture and coupon for every answer, or only one of each picture, and the Answer Book only costing you 80c at the office or 90c by mail, it is certainly to your interest to get one of them before it is too late.

To submit 750 answers under the old system would cost you $15.00. If you use the Answer Book your only expense will be the cost of pictures 36 to 75 inclusive, as we give the Nos. 1 to 35 free with the Answer Book.

As The Journal is giving $7,000 worth of prizes in this delightful campaign there is no good reason why you cannot come in a winner. Don't forget that The Journal does not ask you to solicit or beg your friends to vote for you in order to win in this campaign. Just select the most correct titles to the 75 prize pictures that The Journal is publishing and you will receive $1,000 in gold. If you do not get first prize you certainly ought to get one of the 747 prizes that will be distributed among Journal readers at the close of the campaign.

See the prize pictures on page 2, and read details of the plan. Then come in and get our new catalogue and our four-page circular giving you full details. Get in the game now, while you still have plenty of time to select titles.

You will find the Booklovers' Game the most enjoyable one you ever took part in.

It is the great home game that pays you a dividend!

UNION SEMINARY MATTER IS POSTPONED ONE YEAR

U. S. A. Assembly Refers Vexing Controversy to New Committee to Report In 1914

After an hour's fruitless debate, with no solution in sight except an abrupt and un-Christian termination of negotiations and with speeches getting more and more acrimonious, Dr. Mark A. Matthews, ex-moderator of the northern assembly, came forward at the psychological moment Tuesday afternoon with a happy solution of the whole vexing Union Theological seminary matter.

Rising at the rear of the middle table, his tall form attracting immediate attention, his voice carrying to all corners of the auditorium, he said:

"Mr. Moderator: I move that this whole matter be referred to a special committee of seven, to be appointed by the moderator, and that this committee be empowered and directed to thoroughly canvass the legal, ecclesiastic and doctrinal phases of the question and report back to the general assembly of 1914."

In less than ten minutes the assembly adopted Dr. Matthews' motion almost unanimously, and when Moderator Stone proposed that the assembly sing "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow," everyone joined with full-throated enthusiasm. And at the close of the hymn Dr. Stone gave a prayer of thanks to God for His divine guidance.

THE SEMINARY DEBATE.

Dr. William McKibben, president of Lane Theological seminary, Cincinnati, opened the debate Tuesday afternoon on the Union Theological seminary.

He spoke in favor of minority report No. 2, presented by Dr. F. C. Monfort.

He said it was evident if the Presbyterian church and the seminary were to get together, the church would have to go to the seminary.

He declared the seminary is legally bound by its charter and morally bound by its constitution, as well as by the conditions attached to a great many gifts to the seminary to conform to the Westminster Confession of Faith in its teachings.

Mr. Jessup, of New York, a director of Union seminary, spoke against minority report No. 2, and in behalf of the seminary.

He said the legal status of the question, as stated by Dr. Monfort, was not sound, and that Dr. Monfort, furthermore, had omitted important facts.

He said the scope of the committee's function did not include doctrinal questions.

He said the "ethics of war" had been violated in the assembly's conduct toward Dr. Brown.

"GLIB ORTHODOXY" SCORED.

Dr. Wilton Merrill Smith, of New York, for twenty-three years a director of the seminary, spoke in support of the majority report.

He said he had watched for twenty-three years with microscopic intensity for heresy in the seminary, and had failed to find it.

He said there is too much "glib orthodoxy" among young ministers, who "sometimes, perhaps, have not read the Confession," and too much "cock-sureness" among ministers concerning the great mysteries of God.

He said the seminary is sending out young ministers who, above all things, are sincere.

He said there is no serious difference between the assembly and the seminary on the essentials of faith.

Dr. C. A. R. Janvier, of Philadelphia, spoke against the majority report, because it proposed to put a "Presbyterian annex on the seminary, and nothing more," whereas, the church, if there be any relations, demands that the seminary shall entirely conform to the standards of Presbyterian doctrine.

Dr. W. S. Plumer Bryan of Chicago, spoke in favor of the majority report, but insisted on a new committee, because he thought the present committee, in treating with the seminary as an independent institution, made the mistake which complicated the whole matter.

DR. MATTHEWS' MOTION.

As Dr. Bryan closed, Dr. Mark A. Matthews rose in the rear, his tall form attracting immediate attention, and moved that the whole matter be referred to a new special committee of seven, ~~appointed by the moderator~~, to thoroughly canvass the legal, ecclesiastical and doctrinal questions involved, and report back to the 1914 assembly.

Dr. S. S. Palmer, who signed the majority report, suggested that to get the whole matter on a better basis the assembly reject the majority and first minority reports and take up the second minority report as an original proposition.

But the previous question was called, on Dr. Matthews' motion; the call was sustained, and the motion was adopted by an overwhelming majority.

Whereupon the assembly sang "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow," and Moderator Stone gave a prayer of thanks to God for His divine guidance.

GREETINGS FROM U. P. CHURCH

Rev. J. K. McClurken, pastor Union church, Pittsburg, Pa., brought greetings from the United Presbyterian general assembly, now in session in Atlanta. When he said a basis of organic union between the U. P. and the U. S. assemblies had been practically agreed upon, and was as broad as the Bible because the U. S. A. assembly was going to be asked to stand upon it also, the assembly applauded him to the echo.

HOME BOARD MATTER

As the regular order of the docket was about to be resumed, Dr. Mark A. Matthews asked unanimous consent to present at this time the report of the executive commission on the Home mission board matter, which ranks almost with the Union seminary matter in importance and interest.

About 25 Presbyteries having filed overtures with the assembly complaining against the administrative methods of this board, the executive commission appointed a sub-committee of three to make a thorough investigation.

W. P. Fulton, D. D., chairman of the sub-committee, presented the report, which previously had been submitted to the executive commission and approved by that body.

The substance of the complaints was that the board spends too much money for supervisory purposes, in proportion to the amount spent for actual home mission work.

SUBSTANCE OF REPORT

The essential features of the report were as follows:

That the pastor and synodical evangelists and the field secretaries have done efficient work, but that their number should be reduced as rapidly as the board can put trained and competent home missionaries in the field to work without supervision, except supervision by Presbyterial and synodical home missionary committees.

That the Indian and Mexican departments should be discontinued as soon as this work is organized.

That the department of "church and country life" is unnecessary and should be discontinued, and the field in rural communities recommended to presbyteries instead, for evangelistic and missionary work.

That the department of immigration has done good work and should be continued.

That the bureau of social service has likewise done good work and should be continued, with, however, such changes in methods as will "magnify the church as the body of Christ."

That the board should discontinue contributing to the maintenance expense of the Labor temple in New York, and delegate this matter to the New York presbytery.

These recommendations were each and all adopted by the assembly.

COLLEGE BOARD REPORTS.

Getting back to the stated order of business, the assembly took up the work of the college board during the past year, as reviewed by the standing committee on colleges, Rev. G. W. Bull, chairman.

The committee recommended, among other things, the following:

That the board be encouraged to arrange a campaign throughout the church to place the great cause of Christian education prominently before the people.

That the churches send their college board collections undesignated, as the board knows its obligations and where the money is most needed, better than the churches.

TEMPERANCE BOARD.

After the college board, came the report of the work of the permanent committee on temperance, reviewed by the standing committee on temperance.

The review closed with a number of recommendations, among which were the following:

That the permanent committee change its name to the temperance board, now that it has obtained a charter.

That the assembly commend the temperance board to persons contemplating bequests to worthy agencies of the church.

That the Sunday schools of the church be urged to contribute regularly a part of their collections to the temperance board.

That the assembly congratulate all public officials who have taken a decided stand against alcoholic indulgence.

That the assembly favor federal enactment to prohibit the manufacture, sale and importation of alcoholic beverages.

That the assembly recommend to the Inter-church Temperance federation and the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, the calling of a national joint conference to take steps to banish the national evil of alcohol, by the particular means of national legislation.

The recommendations were each and all adopted.

The last thing of the afternoon was the reading of a letter from Booker T. Washington, the negro educator, inviting the commisioners to visit his school at Tuskegee, Ala.

SIX ARE DROWNED IN AN ALASKAN STORM

Pile Driver and Barge Breaks Six Anchors and is Hurled Against the Shore

CORDOVA, Alaska, May 21.—Nine men were drowned Sunday night when a storm blew a pile driver and a barge ashore near Katalla, according to advices received here last night.

The men were building a fish trap for the Northwestern Fisheries company at the mouth of Martin river, near Katalla. A furious storm came up Sunday night and broke six anchors with which the pile driver and barge were made fast. They were driven eighteen miles along the shore, where they struck on the beach.

DIRECT ELECTION OF PRESIDENT ASKED

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Constitutional amendment to provide direct election of the president and vice president for a single six-year term was proposed in a resolution today by Representative Britten, of Illinois.

Several other "single term" amendments have been introduced in the house. The senate has passed one.

ATLANTA OLD GUARD HEROES AT ANNAPOLIS

Fifth Regiment Entertains Old Guard in Baltimore Before Trip to Naval Academy

BY LUCIUS J. HARRIS.

BALTIMORE, May 21.—The Old Guard reached dear old Baltimore at 9 o'clock this morning, and were met at the depot by the officers of the Fifth Maryland regiment. As the Guard disembarked from the train headed by Miss Bessie Brady, or better known as the "Daughter of the Battalion," we sang the following to the air of "My Maryland:"

"Oh Baltimore, Oh Baltimore,
We're glad to see you all some more.
Although the years have passed away,
Since we first made that pleasant stay,
Oh Baltimore, dear Baltimore,
We hope to see you all some more."

At noon the Guard were entertained at a most delightful dinner by the officers of the Fifth Maryland in their armory. This afternoon they were taken to Annapolis, where the United States navy boys witnessed an exhibition drill executed by a picked squad of the Old Guard in the spectacular movements from Upton tactics.

Later in the afternoon the Fifth Maryland, headed by the Old Guard and the Annapolis band, paraded the principal streets of the city amid the applause and cheers of a most enthusiastic crowd.

At 8 p. m. the entire Fifth Maryland will entertain the Old Guard at their armory, where an inspection will be held, after which a dance will close one of the most delightful occasions of the trip and among a people noted for hospitality.

Thursday morning the Guard will take an early train for Philadelphia, where they will join the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the State Fencibles.

It will be remembered that it is in Philadelphia that the forces are to be united and the celebrated military organization who visited us in 1911 together with many others from all parts of the country will participate in the grand parade and other functions covering a period of four days.

Order a Selection of Diamonds and Buy Before Prices Advance.

Polished and uncut diamonds will have a ten per cent additional duty levied on them as soon as the new Tariff Bill goes into effect.

In addition to this, the diamond syndicate has advanced prices since January $15.00 to $30.00 per carat.

Both the advances will be felt in this market within the next few months.

Naturally, it is a most favorable time to anticipate your purchases. Our present stock will be sold at the old prices.

Selections sent prepaid for examination. Attractive monthly payments allowed.

Call or write for our booklet, "Facts About Diamonds," and 160-page catalogue. They quote net prices and tell all about our plan.

GREAT SOCIAL SERVICE BEING URGED BY CHRIST

Dr. McClurkin, Speaker at the Presbyterian Union Meeting, Urges Wider Activity

Greater social service was urged upon the church, by Dr. J. Knox McClurkin, of the United Presbyterian church, Pittsburg, Pa., at the sixth popular meeting of the Presbyterians Tuesday night in the auditorium.

"You may call some men hunkies or dagoes or niggers, but you cannot forget that they are your brothers in Christ," said he. "It is the voice of Christ which is urging this great social service program. It is the voice of this great master of men which is calling to us to lift the load of the weak and the wearying and bring to them the hope of a new life."

Dr. McClurkin paid a compliment in passing to J. K. Orr and Marion Jackson, of Atlanta. "Would that we had more of them," he finished.

Dr. McClurkin praised the abstinence preached by the example of the secretary of state, W. J. Bryan, in his famous grape-juice banquet. "Thank God that we have a great secretary of state who in his social life invites the highest ambassadors of the world to get on the water-wagon with him," said Dr. McClurkin.

Rev. S. L. Morris, of the home mission board, Atlanta, presided over the meeting.

Rev. Dr. William McF. Alexander, of the southern Presbyterian assembly, New Orleans, talked on "interdenominational cooperation in home mission work." He urged that overlapping in the home mission field by the various Presbyterian denominations be done away with; but, said he, he would not advocate one united church for America at the present time.

"I think that the Lord must have willed it that we have the denominations which we have today," said he.

Rev. C. L. Thompson, of the northern Presbyterian assembly, New York, spoke on "home missions and exceptional populations." The negroes, the mountaineer populations, and the foreign immigrant population merit the especial attention of the church, said he.

"And I would not have you forget Latin American," he added. "You cannot have an enlightened civilization north of Panama and an unenlightened one south of the isthmus, and expect great progress in the western hemisphere."

Dr. Ralph Atkinson, of Seattle, Washington, again directed the music of the meeting. His work has been almost sensational in its success. For years he traveled with Moody, and Torrey, and later with Chapman, on their great evangelistic tours of the world, directing the songs of their meetings. It is the experience he gained then, and the great personal magnetism that is his naturally, that have combined to make him an impelling force in the Atlanta meetings. The musical committee of the assemblies brought him to Atlanta especially to direct that part of the gathering's work.

FELLOWSHIP KEY NOTE OF MINISTERS' MEETING

Presbyterians Hold Love Feast Around Banquet Board at New Kimball

A booster meeting for fellowship, inspiration and co-operation was held by the Presbyterians who gathered nearly 500 strong for a conference and supper at the New Kimball Tuesday evening.

The program will go down in history as one of the most inspiring on record for the practical way in which those present advanced their ideas for a movement to unite workers in all branches of the church work.

Dr. Stanley B. Roberts, of Minneapolis, outlined the great value of Bible classes; and Dr. William B. Roberts, of Houston, sent a message to ministers and laymen.

The speakers of the evening were selected at random from among those around the tables, and their talks were limited to two minutes.

Other speakers were Dr. A. L. Phillips, secretary of the board of education of the Sunday schools of the U. S., who spoke on "Presbyterian Brotherhood;" Dr. Will W. Derby, of Clarksville, Ark., delivered a message from his native state; Dr. T. S. Merrill spoke of the work of the men's organization in New York; Dr. Marion Hull (introduced as the "Man Who Cleaned Up Atlanta"), made an interesting talk of the work of the Presbyterians in this city; Moderator Russell, of the U. P., gave an entertaining talk; A. T. Sharp spoke of "Team Work," and Congressman James Morrison told those present of what good he had received from attending the meetings of the assembly.

The meeting closed with all rising and singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

AUTO TOURISTS HIKE FROM HERE TO GOTHAM

Tuesday morning J. H. McCoy and Mrs. McCoy steered their five-passenger touring car out of Atlanta and hummed into The Journal-Herald highway for New York City.

Before them lies a 3-000-mile trip before they get back to Atlanta. They will follow the national highway all the way to New York, returning by a western route which will take them through Buffalo, Cleveland, Cincinnati and cities of the middle west.

Road Responsible

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 21.—As the result of a friendly suit brought by the Southern railway against the city of Chattanooga, Chancellor T. N. McConnell has ruled that the railroad is entirely responsible for viaducts and bridges over its tracks that the city is not liable for any part of the upkeep or the original cost. In case the supreme court sustains the chancellor the city will be saved in the neighborhood of $25,000 pro rata on viaducts now under construction.

Chattanooga Sells Bonds

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 21.—Chattanooga has sold $150,000 public improvement bonds at par, despite the fact that in the past sixty days no other city in the United States with a population of this city has been able to sell, or even receive bids, on 4 1-2 per cent municipal bonds. The bonds are to be distributed among banks comprising the local clearing house association.

Drawn Birds Banned?

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 21.—An ordinance is to be passed prohibiting local dealers from handling drawn poultry, or in other words, fowls which have not been eviscerated. In the past local dealers have been allowed to sell fowls which were merely beheaded and picked, but the city physician is of the opinion that fowls kept in such a state are not healthy when finally eaten. There has been an agitation for the new ordinance for some time.

ICE INJUNCTION IS VACATED IN CHATTANOOGA

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 21.—Federal Judge Sanford has sustained the motion o fattorneys for the Atlantic Ice and Coal corpoartion and the Southern Ice company to vacate the order of injunction granted last week by Chancellor McConnell in behalf of the Ridgedale Ice company restraining them from selling ice in Chattanooga at a price less than the cost of manufacture and delivery in addition to a reasonable profit. This ends the local ice war.

"Pied Piper of Hamelin"

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 21.—Under the joint auspices of the reunion committee and the city park commission the "Pied Piper of Hamelin" will be staged here on May 29, the final day of the reunion. A huge artificial mountain has been erected under the direction of Prof. C. A. Moone, playground instructor, and hundreds of school children will participate. The pageant will be one of the most pleasing features of the reunion.

Visitors' Rest

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 21.—Agitation has been started here to have the grounds of the Hilton county court house which is now being erected at a cost of approximately $500,000 cleared off so that they be used as a resting place for visitors during the reunion. Every effort was made to finish the structure before May 27, but it was found impossible.

DALTON PLANS TROLLEY LINE TO CHATTANOOGA

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DALTON, Ga., May 21.—Dalton people are enthused over the prospect of getting an interurban line from this city to Chattanooga. J. W. Adams, of Chattanooga, representing the capitalists interested in the project, was here Tuesday afternoon and discussed the matter at length with local business men.

The chamber of commerce will get behind the proposition and do everything possible to secure it. The company plans four lines, with Dalton, Cleveland and Dayton, Tenn., and Bridgeport, Ala., as terminals.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH IS IN ANNUAL SESSION

Christian Ministers From All Over State Are in Convention Here

The annual convention of the Christian ministers of the state of Georgia is now in session in this city, the meeting place being the First Christian church, corner Pryor street and Trinity avenue. The convention began Monday evening, with an opening address by Rev. H. T. Gree, of Augusta, Ga. An all day session was held Tuesday, and many interesting addresses were made.

Among those who addressed the assemblage Tuesday afternoon were: Rev. John Roberts, of Dublin; Rev. L. M. Omer, of West Point; Rev. E. A. Osborne, of Griffin; Rev. T. G. Linkous, of East Point. Rev. A. R. Moore, of Savannah, and Rev. L. O. Bricker, of Atlanta. President H. T. Gree presided.

The city was so taken up with the gathering of the Presbyterians from all points of this country that the Christians, coming unheralded, had their convention in full blast almost before Atlanta awoke to the fact that another gathering of able leaders of Christianity was in session.

The ministers at this convention adjourned Tuesday afternoon to attend the Presbyterian gathering at the auditorium, and no night session will be held on Wednesday for the same reason.

The day program Wednesday is as follows:

9:30—Devotional, Dr. J. Hopwood.

NITED ASSEMBLY TO GO NEWCASTLE NEXT YEAR

castle, Pa., was chosen as the 1914 ng place of the United Presbyterian bily, at the assembly's session in entral Presbyterian church Wed- y morning.

invitations for next year's meeting extended Tuesday afternoon and continued Wednesday morning. The taken shortly after 10 o'clock, stood llows:

wcastle, Pa., 135.
nmouth, Ill., 59.
Xenia, Ohio, 35.

The assembly heard with regret a elegram announcing the sudden death of Mrs. M. R. Mitchell, wife of one of the commissioners from Kansas City.

Reports of the committees on ways and means, finance and correspondence were read and adopted with little discussion, and unimportant routine business consumed the morning session.

SECRETARIES TO BE NAMED BY ASSEMBLY OF U. S. CHURCH NOW

large salaries, they have been granted the right to nominate such men as they see fit for such positions and place those nominations before the general assembly for final action. Aside from this, it will be permissable for any commissioner to make additional nominations for the several positions. In other words the selection of secretaries is a matter of popular choice before the entire Presbyterian church in the United States.

The moderator, Dr. J. S. Lyons, announced that the assembly would be asked to act in this capacity before final adjournment of the conference here. No date for the election was set, however.

KANSAS CITY FOR 1914.

By virtue of a special order set for 11 o'clock a. m., the choice of a meeting place for the 1914 general assembly came up.

Though opposed by three other cities bidding for the gathering, Kansas City, Mo., was chosen unanimously by the assembly, amid applause and congratulations from champions of Waco, Tex., Rock Hill, S. C., and Newport News, Va.

Dr. E. T. Wellford, of Newport News, named his city and pleaded for the conference to choose the historic site of his church. He was seconded by Dr. Thornton Whaling, of the Columbia Theological seminary. Waco was represented by Judge John W. Davis, who drew a vivid word picture of the beauties of the great west. Dr. Thomas S. Clyce gave the second.

Then came the address of Judge William H. Wallace, of Kansas City. Before he was half through with his allotted ten minutes, it was manifest that Missouri had won.

A UNIQUE APPEAL.

He appealed to the assembly on the grounds that Kansas City was the most immoral city in the United States today and is in dire need of the good influences that are bound to arise out of such a gathering. In the name of church and morality, he appealed to his heares with telling effect. The applause that lasted for several minutes after he had concluded and calls that more time be extended to him, portended the result.

Finally Rock Hill was heard from, through Dr. Walter L. Lingle. As a former resident of the little city he told of the great strides of the Presbyterian church there, and declared that despite its size, the following there is the largest in the state of South Carolina.

By unanimous consent a rising vote was taken on each city in the order named. Before the announcement of the result of the ballot, Dr. Whaling arose and moved that Kansas City be the unanimous choice of the assembly. It was seen at a glance that Judge Wallace had won over the commissioners, and no count was really necessary. To a man the members of the assembly rose to their feet in favor of the motion.

At 12:30 o'clock the conference adjourned for lunch, to reconvene at 2:30 p. m.

YOUNG SCHOLARS PRESENT

A feature of the devotional exercises held at the opening of the sixth day's session of the Southern Presbyterian was the presence of one hundred and eighty children, scholars at the North Avenue Presbyterian school, which adjoins the religious edifice on Peachtree street.

The little ones took an active part in the services and repeated, standing, in Menison, several verses of scripture. Memorizing parts of the old and new Testament is one of the requirements of the school.

Dr. J. S. Lyons, the moderator, called attention to the slow progress in the work of the assembly, and made especial reference to the sessions of Tuesday that were consumed entirely with sharp debates on the "brief statement" and the report of the committee on foreign correspondence touching relations with the federal council.

MUST ABBREVIATE SPEECH

"If we cannot sacrifice our desire to make long speeches," said Dr. Lyons, "we will be here through next week. Therefore I urge upon you the necessity of refraining from long and unnecessary debate." The moderator had announced on a former occasion that it was hoped the conference would be able to adjourn sine die Friday afternoon. His admonition was greeted with smiles and a general laugh. The assembly apparently welcomed even a hint that real progress would be made in the future.

Dr. Thomas S. Clyce, chairman of the committee on bills and overtures, read the reports of the committee, all of which were adopted.

These overtures come for the most part from certain synods and presbyteries and touch on matters of personal privilege. There was practically no debate, and the long list of overtures was quickly dispensed with.

TOBACCO NOT DENIED.

General satisfaction and pleasure was written on the faces of the commissioners and pastors when the committee answered in the negative an overture forbidding the use of tobacco among Presbyterian ministers.

The recommendation of the committee was passed without a dissenting voice.

The choice of the meeting place of the southern general assembly come as a special order at 11 o'clock, setting aside action on the final report of the judicial committee, headed by Dr. R. S. Reed, of Columbia, S. C.

The following clause of the committee's report caused a general discussion and was finally displaced:

"Your committee recommends that the general assembly decline the request of the memorialist on the ground that our general assembly has no authority to correct the records of a previous assembly as to facts."

NO BETTER INFORMATION.

The substitute for this section of the report declaring that the general assembly decline the request of the memorialist "on the ground that this assembly is not in a position to judge of the facts complained of by the Rev. W. Sumat," was adopted in place of the phrase "on the ground that our general assembly has no authority to correct the records of a previous assembly as to facts."

The final section of the report upon which action has not yet been taken, recommends that the synod of Alabama which has failed for three successive annual meetings to review the minutes of the presbytery of north Alabama, appear before the general assembly in 1914 by representation or in writing to show what it has done or failed to do in the question.

REUNION OF MUSKINGUM COLLEGE HELD MONDAY

One of the pleasant features of the U. P. assembly was the reunion on Monday afternoon of the alumni of Muskingum college, located at New Concord, Ohio. President J. Knox Montgomery, presided, and the meeting opened with the singing of a number of the college songs. This was followed by addresses from as far west as California, south as Texas and east as the New England states.

Muckingum college is the largest college of the U. P. church, and has been growing by deaps and bounds during the last five years. One-third of the graduates of the technological seminaries of the church this year are graduates of Muckingum.

Since President Montgomery came to the assembly the representative of his institution has won the tri-state oratorical contest, and also the interstate, winning over the leading orators of eleven states.

FINANCE COMMITTEE TO CONSIDER SHEET FRIDAY

Clerks in the comptroller's office at the city hall are busily at work preparing the June sheet for the finance committee, which meets Friday morning to go over the sheet. The committee will report on it at the next meeting of council.

The work at present consists mainly in getting stock of the sums now at the city's disposal. The comptroller's task is a heavy one, but he declared Wednesday that the sheet would be in good shape to present to the finance committee by Friday.

NEW SEATTLE P. M. HAS RELATIVES IN GEORGIA

Hon. Edgar Battle has been appointed by President Wilson as postmaster at Seattle, the largest city in the state of Washington. Mr. Battle won this appointment over formidable opposition because he had the indorsement of the best Democrats of his state and of all the bankers and most of the business men of Seattle.

Mr. Battle is a son of the late Judge N. W. Battle, who removed from Monroe county, Ga., to Waco, Tex., in 1848. In Waco he reared a large family. His wife was the oldest daughter of the late Judge E. G. Cabaniss, of Forsyth. Several years ago Judge Battle removed to Seattle with his two sons, Alfred and Edgar. The former is a leading lawyer of Seattle.

The Battle family in Monroe county is one of the oldest and most influential there. Many members of the third and fourth generations live there now.

The newly appointed postmaster has a host of other relatives in Georgia, among others Hon. T. B., H. H., J. W. and E. G. Cabaniss, his uncles, and Henry, Thomas, J. Edward and Howell Peeples, his cousins.

ingly unimportant incidents in her life just before her murder.

Tobie is conducting a vigorous probe of the case, and Attorney Thomas B. Felder, who is responsible for the employment of the Burns people, is well pleased with the progress of his work up to this time.

SEES NEWT LEE.

Mr. Tobie spent an hour interviewing Newt Lee, the negro suspect, at the Tower Tuesday, and according to Attorney Felder, the detective developed an important fact from the negro, which was not brought out when Lee was on the stand at the coroner's inquest.

As the result of his interview with Lee and subsequent developments, it is authoritatively reported that the Burns man is convinced that Lee is eliminated from the case as a suspect, and Mr. Tobie is of the opinion that the negro made a truthful statement to him, telling all he knows of the tragedy.

Acording to Mr. Felder, the Burns interrogator will be able to establish beyond any doubt the theory that Mary Phagan met her death between noon and 1 o'clock on the Saturday of April 26.

The Burns man, according to Mr. Felder, has devloped several additional facts of importance in the case.

"There is no doubt about it, Mr. Tobie will deliver the goods," said Mr. Felder.

Gordon Bailey, the negro elevator boy, who has been held at police headquatrers since a few days after the tragedy at the National Pencil factory, where he worked, was "sweated" again by the detectives at headquarters Wednesday morning.

Like James Connolly, the negro sweper, Bailey has been held since the crime largely because it was thought that a continued incarceration might result in the negro giving information, which the detectives think he has probably withheld. The detectives, who examined the negro Wednesday, made no comment, but it is authoritatively stated that he threw no light on the tragedy.

Rumors that Mary Phagan was seen in the afternoon of April 26 have again occupied the attention of the city detectives during the past twenty-four hours. Mrs. A. A. Smith, of 198 West Peachtree street, declares that on May 5, she heard three women discussing the tragedy on Whitehall street, and one of them stated positively that she saw Mary Phagan about 4 o'clock on Memorial day.

The revival of the rumors of the "red dress girl" about Kennesaw have resulted in the detectives again going over the territory between Atlanta and that place in hopes of finding a woman, who is supposed to have gone to the pencil factory with Mary Phagan.

PINKERTONS BUSY

It was rumored Wednesday that there had been important developments in the Pinkerton investigation of the tragedy. When asked about this rumor, officials of the Pinkerton agency here, who have been actively in charge of the probe, stated that there are no developments of unusual importance.

"We have," said one of the officials, "found evidence recently which we consider material to the case, but its nature will not be divulged as it is against the policy of Pinkertons to try their cases in the newspapers."

The Pinkerton men have not dropped the probe by any means and several men are devoting practically their entire time to the Phagan case.

Separate Skirts Coming Into Their Own

Wash Skirts, Silk Skirts, Woolen Skirts In Greater Favor Than In Many Seasons.

The finger of Fashion has touched separate skirts.

As is usual in such cases, you will find a generous wealth of them at Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.'s.

We have not waited—we have anticipated and made preparations.

Now things are ready.

The skirt styles new to New York are here. And they are bright, fresh, attractive affairs.

Among the wash skirts are piques, linens—French linen, ramie linen, basket-weave linen—and ratines.

The shepherd checked woolens are prime favorites; and Bedford cords, and always serviceable serges. Moire silks and silk poplins are charming in fashioning and in colors.

You will enjoy choosing yours where there are so many fine styles shown!

Wash Skirts

At $2.45 But $2.45 does not tell the full measure of their worth, they are $3.00 skirts. Wide wale pique is the material. Plain straight lines; fastens at side front with large pearl buttons; finished with a narrow belt at the high waist line.

At $3.19 Of pique, in extra sizes—thirty to thirty-eight inch waist, plenty of fullness; fastens in a side plait with large pearl buttons. Made very attractive with little tucks under the belt—a two-piece belt.

At $3.95 Skirts of heavy, yet very soft ramie linen in cream white. Pearl buttons trim them becomingly. Skirts of great service and attractiveness that will make many trips to the laundry without hurt.

At $5.00 Novel white ratine skirts, of straight lines, but made unusually smart by the way the seams are finished—inverted—and by the patch pockets. The back is tucked at the waist line and belted. Pearl buttons are used generously as trimmings.

At $6.50 Navy and tan ratine skirts in simple, but very pretty styles. Some have belts of self-material with rather large and heavy gilt buckles. They are in fact as well as in name—wash skirts.

Woolen and Silk Skirts

Where there are so many styles and materials worthy of special note, it is hard to choose just one or two for your particular attention.

But here—

At $5.75 Skirts of shepherd checks—two styles, one rather plain, fastening at side front with black horn buttons, finished at back with belt. Another, a draped skirt—very slightly draped near bottom of skirt. Buttons in back, undertucks placed lengthwise of the skirt.

At $7.50 Skirts of shepherd checks, rather elaborate with pipings and buttons, slight yoke effect in front, deep pointed gore running down over hips.

At $13.50 A novelty of moire poplin silk—these in black only—a style sure to find favor among those who have until now always turned to a black taffeta skirt.

Fifty $5.00 & $6.00 Wool Skirts at $2.50

A fortunate pick-up here. Fifty new styled skirts of striped worsteds and Scotch mixtures, in black and white, grays, tans and browns. We selected the styles in which they should be made. They are GOOD!

SHORT COVERING CAUSED THE ADVANCE IN COTTON

Market in New York Closed 5 to 7 Points Higher Than the Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 21.—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 3 to 5 points on higher cables than expected. There was ome talk of too much rain in Arkansas and Oklahoma. But generally speaking, weather condtions were considered very favorable and the market slipped off 2 or 3 points right after the call. This seemed largely the result of overnight selling orders, however, and after their execution the market steadied again. Trading was quiet after the first few minutes and the market held steady with active months some 4 to 5 points net higher.

The market showed continued steadiness later in the morning. July seemed to be offered more freely than of late and sold only 6 points above yesterday's closing as compared with net gains of from 8 to 9 points on new crop months, but this was attributed to undoing of old straddling rather than to any increased offerings against cotton in the south. Business fairly active with shorts considered the largest buyers.

Trading was less active during the early afternoon and prices sagged off slightly from the best under realizing, but the market showed a steady undertone and held some 4 or 5 points above yesterday's closing.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, May 21.—Cotton futures opened steady at an advance of 1 to 3 points on good cables. The weather map showed scattered showers and warm temperatures over the cotton region, which were favorable to the crop, but no great amount of selling resulted. Quiet buying, especially of the new crop months, was put down to spinning interests. The gossip of the floor was that continental traders were buying the late months in the market on this side of the water. At the end of the first half hour of business prices were 5 to 7 points over the close of yesterday.

The market was quiet, but very steady throughout the morning session. Moderate short selling, based on favorable crop reports, was in evidence at all times, but the offerings were quickly absorbed and prices maintained in advancing tendency. While sentiment appeared to be bearish among professionals, a small but strong element appeared to be buying for long account.

At noon the trading months were 6 to 9 points over yesterday's last quotations, the new crop showing more strength than the old.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices, Expert Opinions and Newspaper Comment

COTTON GOSSIP

Times-Democrat says: Continued favorable weather gave the bear a good talking point, and he talked some courage into shorts generally. At the close the talent expressed the belief that price opponents were engaged in an effort to bring about a reaction downward. Students of the market are convinced that the speculative short interest is relatively large in spite of the covering which, bears claim, has weakened the technical position during the past few days. In New Orleans there was some gossip to the effect that f.o.b. cotton had been sold at concessions under Monday. But Houston advanced spot values 3-16c on sales of 1,005 bales, which suggests strength rather than weakness, in the actual cotton devision. Meanwhile the market draws a lot of support from the stream of adverse reports coming from the fields, showing replanting with the consequent delayed start, rather general over some sections of the belt. The result is the talent has begun to reach the conclusion that insofar as the month of May is concerned the crop is too spotted for the comfort of the monster yield folk. No matter how favorable the weather may be from this time on, it is believed in some quarters that the delay in securing stands will be made apparent by a later movement than usual. All of which, coming on the heels of scarcity of tenderable cotton at New York during July, it is argued, will play havoc with October, if not with December shorts.

Forecast: Louisiana—Unsettled, showers tonight or Thursday cooler in north portion, light southerly winds on the coast.

Arkansas—Unsettled, showers tonight or Thursdya, cooler tonight.

Oklahoma and West Texas—Tonight fair, cooler: Thursday fair.

East Texas—Tonight and Thursday unsettled, showers in east portion tonight or Thursday, cooler tonight in the interior, cooler Thursday except in northwest portion; light to moderate southerly winds on the coast.

Georgia, North and South Carolina and Alabama—Showers tonight and Thursday.

Kentucky—Showers tonight or Thursday, cooler.

Tennessee—Showers tonight or Thursday, somewhat cooler Thursday in northwest portion.

Mississippi—Showers tonight or Thursday.

11 a. m. bids in New York were as follows: January, 11.04; May, 11.52; July, 11.63; August, 11.43; October, 11.06.

10 a. m. bids in New Orleans were: January, 11.19; May, 12.32; July, 12.10; August, 11.65; October, 11.18.

Map very favorable, showers cloudy, warm western two-thirds of the belt, part cloudy eastern third, rather general showers, mostly light, except northeast portion of Texas, north Louisiana, southern Arkansas, where heavier.

Indications are for unsettled, rain northwest Texas; central west Texas, western Oklahoma, part cloudy, scattered showers rest of the belt.

Riordan a good seller. Mitchell and Hentz offering July and buying new crop. New Orleans brokers, Mohr and Waters buying. O'Connor, Rothschild, Schill, Shearson and Flinn among sellers.

Trading rather light, McFadden probably best buyer. Schill best seller, spot people again apparently buying July.

Mitchell good buyer, shorts look nervous and covering. Looks higher on short covering. Strength of spots said to be causing strength in market.

Talladega: Crop condition this county generally in excellent condition, most cotton up to good stands, chopping under way; weather could not be better if it had been made to order; .77 inch rain on 16th and good shower yesterday.

The New Orleans cotton exchange will be closed Saturday, May 31.

STOCK GOSSIP

Dow Jones' summary: New York city sells $45,000,000 bonds at average of 100.15, average basis of 4.49 per cent. Bulgarian minister says Balkan states will ask war indemnity of $400,000,000. President Mudge says Rock Island is in better shape now than at any previous time. Two million dollars in gold engaged for Paris tomorrow. Union Pacific directors deny report that new plan has been agreed upon. Westinghouse expected to report 8 2-10 per cent earned on common stock in 1912, against 6.12 last year. Twelve industrials advanced .33. Twenty active rails advanced .37.

The consensus of opinion regarding sale of New York City bonds was that it was a moderate success. Look for a gradual improvement in prices. Am told that arrangements have been made to take care of all the Southern Pacific stock held by Union Pacific and that the announcement is withheld until the government and railroad attorneys come together on plan that is satisfactory. On any moderate recession would conservatively accumulate standard railroad issues, Copper and Brooklyn Rapid Transit.—Potter.

GRAIN GOSSIP

Chicago Inter Ocean says: It is the gossip of the wheat trade that Lichstern is the largest short in May wheat. Early in the season he was said to be long over 15,000,000 bushels, but got short several months ago. It was said yesterday that he was the largest seller of the deferred futures and has been selling them on every strong spot of late. Corn traders believe there is plenty of time in which to plant corn and while the country traders in the west have been buying futures freely for several days through commission houses corn should have a break. Many oats traders believe that oats have had enough bulge for the present, but regard the market as a weather proposition. Winter wheat condition in Illinois is 92, or 38 points higher than May 1 last year, according to the state report. Area abandoned was six per cent, leaving 947,000 acres for harvest. Spring wheat area reduced 7 per cent with the average condition 94. Oats condition May 1 was 86, while the area has been reduced 3 per cent from last year.

Bartlett, Frazier & Co. say: Map shows further rains in northwest and general precipitation east of the river. Local sentiment is again very bearish and short sellers are pressing that side.

Corn—Considerable short covering during the past two days' sessions but a good part of the offerings have been absorbed by new buying of a more or less investment character.

The market can in no way be called weak.

Provisions—Cash trade is of good proportion.

Grain belt forecast: Illinois, Iowa, Dakotas, Nebraska and Kansas, fair, cooler; Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin, showers; Missouri, fair, cooler.

Barrell buying July wheat. Commission houses sellers of September wheat. Jackson Bros. leading buyers of July wheat.

Hetman and Wagner selling July corn. Country is offering corn freely again. Lots of inquiries for bids on corn here to arrive.

Kalb wires from Larned, Kas.: Harper, Kingman, Stafford and Pawnee, counties have gone back about 40 per cent in last two weeks owing to the lack of moisture. The acreage of these four counties is about 750,000. Need light showers here but even with most favorable weather until harvest will scarcely make half crop. Not headed around here but further south heads very small. Am told Barton, the banner county also very spotted.—News Bureau.

NEW YORK COTTON LETTER

NEW YORK, May 21.—The map was favorable and the ring disposed to sell, but the demand for both the new and old crop coming from brokers who usually represent the spot interests caused nervousness among shorts and a wave of covering followed, helped the advance along. Commission houses were prominent among the sellers, also some of the ring operators who believed prices too high. Continental and trade buying was said to cause the strength. Sentiment is very much mixed at present but the majority seem to favor further advance. Reports coming in from the belt indicate very favorable conditions so far, but with the volume of trading so small no material change in prices is looked for, until after the June report.—Anderson.

KANSAS CITY, May 21.—Butter, eggs and poultry unchanged.

HAYWARD' & CLARK'S COTTON LETTER.

NEW ORLEANS, May 21.—Weather conditions continue very favorable, partly cloudy to cloudy weather over the belt; temperatures rather above normal except in Oklahoma, where it is cooler. Showers were general overnight, but mostly light except in northeast Texas, north Louisiana and southern Arkansas, where they were heavier. Indications are for unsettled and rainy weather in west Texas; partly cloudy and scattered showers in the remainder of the belt. Operations in New York to advance the market on technical conditions can be noticed in all the markets.

Liverpool was poor at the start and quotes spots 1 point lower sales only 6,000 bales, but futures advanced in the last hour. First trades here were at 2 points higher on the strength shown in New York and as that market made further gains prices here advanced to 11.21 for October. Cotton facts and weather conditions are considered against an advance, but professional action in New York is a powerful factor, forcing the smaller shorts to cover. The plan seems o be to look up all selling in the neighborhood of 11c and to wait for a short scare which cmes every summer no matter how good crop prospects may be. The New Orleans cotton exchange will be closed Saturday, May 31, and New York will be closed May 30 and 31. For the past eight days New York advices have reported that the McFadden interests were buying, thereby forcing the market. The pull continued throughout the early hours today, forcing October here to 11.22. There is little for sale.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET WAS DULL AND IRREGULAR

Canadian Pacific, Rock Island and Missouri Pacific Up, Union Pacific Off

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 21.—Stocks were firmly held at the opening of the market today. Steel and Union Pacific started the session at yesterday's closing price and the other leaders ranged slightly higher. The best gains were made by Canadian Pacific, wich rose 1⅜ and Rock Island common and preferred, which advanced about a point each.

Initial advances were not retained and several leading stocks reacted to below yesterday's closing figures. The new city 4½ per cent bonds sold at 100.

The tone list was quiet at a trifle over the forenoon lowest. California Petroleum dropped 4½ to 47, a new low figure. Mexican Petroleum lost 2¼. Dealings in the certificates for the new city bonds were inaugurated by a sale of $1,000,000 of bonds at 100⅛, after which a block of $100,000 changed hands at 100.

Several stocks, the most conspicuous among which was Pennsylvania, sagged to new low marks under pressure of short selling and liquidation. The cheerful feeling in London and reports of the success of the Chinese loan abroad were reflected in the firm undertone of the early market but efforts to bid up prices were ineffectual, and the trend became downward.

Sentiment was depressed by renewed liquidation of some industrials, which was regarded as evidence that these stocks were being thrown out as collateral for loans. The continued lack of investment demand, which it was hoped might be stimulated by the New York and Chinese bond flotations restrained bull operators.

Bonds irregular.

Dealings in stocks were virtually suspended and scarcely any of the active shares fluctuated more than ⅛ in the course of the hour. St. Louis and San Francisco general 5's broke ¾ to 68¾c, selling under the refunding 4's quoted at 69c.

New York City new 4½ per cent bonds sold at a discount. Several sales of small amounts occurred at 99⅞. Upwards of $1,000,000 sold at 100 against the average award by the city of 100.159. Weakness was also manifested by various railroad bonds. St. Louis and San Francisco general 5's dropped nearly 5 points to 67. Stocks reflected these unfvorable conditions in a mild fashion, the leaders ending the day at small losses.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Financial bureau says: Information channels are favorable to general conditions. We would look for buying opportunities for fair profits. Cotton regraded as a purchase on good declines. Wheat and corn are sold on strength of moderate turns.

LONDON STOCKS

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, May 21.—The stock market was quiet and irregular.

American securities opened steady and unchanged. The list advanced from ¼ to 1⅛c over parity under the lead of Canadian Pacific during the early trading. Later light Wall street support sustained the market and the closing was quiet and steady.

NEW YOR STOCK LETTER

NEW YORK, May 21.—The market was slightly reactionary early in the session on account of a few sales of the new issue of New York City bonds at 100 on curb. Rear operators tried to make capital out of this and sold a few stocks. Do not look for any decline of consequence at present and expect a quiet market something definite announced regarding the dissolution of Southern Pacific and Union Pacific.—Potter.

WHEAT IN CHICAGO WAS STRONG IN AFTERNOON

Wheat Closed 1 1-8 to 1 1-2c Up—Corn and Oats Higher, Provisions Lower

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, May 21.—Good rains eased wheat. It was still cool in the Canadian northwest, however, and there were unfavorable advices from India. Accordingly shorts covered and checked the decline. Opened same as last night to ¼@⅜c lower. July started at 88⅝@88¾c to 88⅜c, a loss of ⅛c to ⅜@¼c, railed to 88⅞@89c and then fell back to 88⅝@88¾c.

Wheat drooped, but export sales and southern Kansas reports of crops deteriorating brought about a sudden rally. Closed strong with July 90⅜c, a net rise of 1½.

Small offerings steadied corn. July, which opened unchanged to a shade off, at 56¼@56⅜c to 56⅝c, touched 56¾c and reacted to 56½c.

Corn followed wheat. Closed steady, ⅜c net higher for July at 57c.

Country selling of oats on account of the fine rains proved less than expected. July started 1-16c to ¼@¼c down at 36½@36⅝c, but gradually hardened to 36¾c.

In the provision pit demand exceeded the supply. First sales were 5@7½c lower to 2½c up, with September as follows: Pork, $19.60 lard, $11.05@11.07; ribs, $11.15.

Saving and Investing

Building an Estate.

BY JOHN M. OSKISON

My friend Richards is a second generation American. His father came across from the old country when he was a boy—when the father was a boy. That was about 1840. My friend's father went to do chores on an uncle's farm in Illinois, then became a farm hand. From Illinois he went to California, hoping to get rich in the mines.

My friend was born when his father was renting a farm in Kansas. Last year I looked after some of Richard's business in New York while he was in Idaho burying his father and arranging the small affairs connected with "the estate." When he came back Richards told me how pitifully insignificant that "estate" was, but how his stepmother tookw pride in using the term. Fortunately for her, Richards and his brother are able to piece it out.

"Going back there gave me a shock and fixed on me a resolution," said Richards. "It occurred to me one day when I was appraising the value of my father's teams and small stock of tools that he had spent over seventy years in a country of opportunities and had failed to cash in on a single one of them. He was a restless man; fortune was waiting for him just over the hill. Yet he wanted money and property, and the standing which they would give him among men.

"I am resolved," went on Richards, "to make the estate which I leave to my family one in reality. I'm going to train my children—all of them, my girl as well as my two boys, to think of what I shall leave them as an estate to be used wisely for their benefit and added to if there is any necessity to add to it.

"I'm never going to become a money-grubber, and I hope none of my children will—there are too many other interesting ways to spend time and energy to specialize on money getting. But don't you forget that the estate of this Richards is goipg to be a comforting reality to his family.'

I believe that Richards has exactly the right notion.

PRICE-CURRENT ON GRAIN

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 21.—Price-Current says: The chinch bug infestation of Kansas and western Missouri is a very important part of the wheat belt. The first brood is about due and with the prevailing large number of adult insects that came through the mid-winter, there is reason for apprehension. The natural enemy of the pest is wet weather. The northwest has had good rains and the spring wheat outlook is excellent so far as moisture is concerned and likely to show a very high promise at the end of this month. On the government method of forecasting crops the Just 1 report is likely to show a promise of 850,000,000 bushels of all wheat.

PRIMARY MOVEMET

Wheat receipts, 316,000, against 274,000 last year; shipments, 400,000, against 396,000 last year.

COTTON MARKET OPINIONS.

Logan & Bryan: We feel that caution should be exercised in making short commitments.

Atwood, Violett & Co.: We should not be surprised to see prices sag to below the old low level.

Hayden, Stone & Co.: The course of prices seems to be determined more by what the July shorts are doing than by the character of weather news.

MRS. OLIVE M. HEALEY DIES AFTER USEFUL LIFE

Pioneer Atlanta Woman Passed Away Tuesday Night. Funeral Thursday

Mrs. Olive Maria Healey, aged eighty-nine years, a resident of Atlanta since ante-bellum days, died Tuesday evening at 7:45 o'clock at her residence on the corner of Ivy street and Auburn avenue. She was the widow of the late Mr. Thomas G. Healey, and the mother of William H. Healey, one of Atlanta's foremost citizens. Besides her son and his wife, she is survived by two grandsons, William and Oliver Healey, her niece, Mrs. Robert J. Lowry and one nephew, Marcellus Markham.

For several months Mrs. Healey had been in ill health. Two weeks ago she began to grow weaker, but until the end came Tuesday night she was cheerful and smiling. Heart failure was said to be the direct cause of her death.

In all the many years since Mrs. Healey has lived in Atlanta she has taken a prominent part in the social and intellectual life of the city. She was a member of leading women's organizations and a charity worker whose philanthropies had won the heart of hundreds of Atlanta's poor and needy.

Mrs. Healey was born in Connecticut, in 1824. When a mere girl she came south, making her home with her brother, the late William Markham, a pioneer Atlantian, in this city. The Markhams were a staunch old New England family, but their descendants early grew to love the south, its people and its standards. So it was that during the years of war and the hard days which followed there was not a daughter of the south more patient, brave and self-sacrificing than was Mrs. Healey.

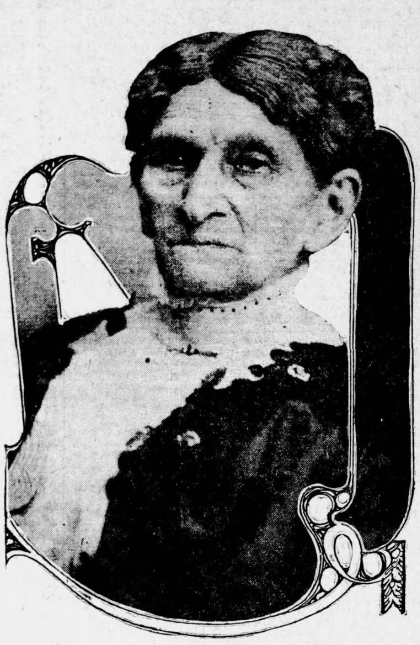
Mrs. Healey was a constant reader of history and the classics, and was noted for her knowledge of the former subject. She was a brilliant conversationalist and her own personal charm made her scores of friends in Atlanta and throughout the state.

She was a member of the Pioneer Women's society and the "Butterflies." The latter organization is composed of Atlanta women, all of whom are over seventy-five years of age. Mrs. Healey never missed a meeting of these societies until she was taken ill recently, and was the life and spirit of every assemblage.

Funeral services will take place at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon from the First Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Healey was a member. Dr. Hugh Walker will officiate. Interment will be at Oakland cemetery.

The deacons and elders of the First Presbyterian church will act as pallbearers.

PIONEER WOMAN CALLED TO BEYOND



MRS. OLIVE MARIA HEALEY,
Who died at her home on Ivy street Tuesday night at the age of eighty-nine years, leaving hundreds of friends throughout the state to mourn her loss.

COMMISSIONERS GUESTS OF D. O. SMITH, ORMEWOOD

One of the most enjoyable social functions during the general assemblies of the Presbyterian churches was at the residence of D. O. Smith, Ormewood Park, Saturday night, when a reception was given to Rev. S. F. Sharpe, present pastor, and Rev. C. C. Kyle, former pastor of Mr. Smith's mother, who is now nearing ninety years of age; and to the other commissioners being entertained in Ormewood Park.

Commissioners from all four assemblies were present, as well as Rev. David Gordon, Indian missionary, and Rev. Ballantine, of the Leprous asylum in India. One hundred of the neighbors and Sabbath school scholars met to welcome the visitors, and the children sang a number of psalms demonstrating to the visitors from the north with what earnestness and hearty good cheer they could render the metrical version of the psalms in the southland. Happy remarks were made by the visitors and missionaries and a number of the residents of Ormewood Park, after which refreshments were served.

L. J. JOHNSON IN AN OPEN-AIR SHOW

A recent scene of Decatur street which appeared in The Journal contained a picture of L. J. Johnson, of the Johnson Show and Advertising company, selling his wares on the street. By an unfortunate accident the picture was marked "the fakir."

Mr. Johnson says that this term does him an injustice, as he does a legitimate business, and claims that his medicines are of known merit throughout the country. He says that he has sold to some of the most reputable dealers in Atlanta and bears a good reputation wherever he has been for fair dealing in a high-class line of goods.

Mr. Johnson's is an advertising method, conducted in the form of an open-air show. He sells the well known Miller line of the Rego Chemical company.

Many of the patients are expert writers and will be contributors to the publication.

PRISON ASSOCIATION IS WORKING FOR BETTERMENT

State Organization Hopes to Win Legislature's Favor With Proposed Bills

The Prison Association of Georgia is hoping to see the legislature this year take definite steps toward the improvement of prison conditions throughout the state.

The attitude of the association toward the present system, however, is not radical or extreme. The association does not disapprove the working of convicts on the public roads. It simply disapproves of the manner and conditions under which the convicts are worked now.

The association is attacking evils that have resulted from the system, but it is not attacking any individual connected with its management. It is charged that the Georgia penal system is immoral because it gives no thought to the future welfare of the convict, and that it is extravagant because the state, in delegating to the counties the duty of employing the convicts at road building, is suffering a useless expenditure of public money without receiving adequate returns.

It is charged further that the present system does not protect society, because the average convict goes away from the chaingang worse than when he went in, with a distaste for honest labor, and his evil tendencies accentuated.

The association is indorsing several measures which will put the situation more squarely up to the incoming legislature.

STATE MUST PROVE BOY CAPABLE OF CRIME

In reversing the superior court of Bibb county for having found Gus Brown, an eleven-year-old boy, guilty of voluntary manslaughter and sentencing him to ten years in the reformatory, the Georgia court of appeals Tuesday held that "under the statute of the state, a person bettween the ages of ten and fourteen years cannot be legally convicted of a crime unless it appears from the evidence that he was capax doli (capable of committing a crime), and the burden of proving that he was so rests upon the state."

Gus Brown stabbed another boy to death. The court of appeals rules that the lower court, in trying him, should have first established his capability and responsibility.

DR. ELLIOTT TO LECTURE LAST IN ETHICAL SERIES

Head of Hudson Guild, New York, to Address Big Audience Wednesday

The last of the series of lectures provided for the public by the ethical lecture committee of Atlanta will be given in Cable hll Thursdy evening by Dr. John Lovejoy Elliott, head of the Hudson Guild of New York City, and associate worker with Dr. Max Adler in the activities of the Ethical society of that city.

The members of the Mystic Shrine of Atlanta already have signified their intention of attending the Thursday evening lecture in a body, while the members of the Atlanta Typographical union have reserved a large number of seats for their own use. The leding colored thinkers of the city will have special reservations in the gallery of Cable hall and according to the responses received will attend in large numbers.

The Atlanta Parents' association of the city, through its officers, have asked for accommodations at Cable hall for the lecture. It is believed that a record attendance will greet Dr. Elliott.

Dr. Elliott is one of the most forceful men in uplift circles in the country. A record of his life's work reads like a page from fiction.

The lecture, which is the last of the 1912-13 series in the ethical course, will end the activities of the Atlanta ethical lecture committee until next fall.

MR. CHARLES GUYTON DIES AT HIS MARIETTA HOME

Mr. Charles A. Guyton, a retired capitalist and one of the best known and most influential citizens of Marietta, died Tuesday afternoon at his home on Powder Springs street.

Mr. Guyton had been in ill health for some time, and his death was not unexpected. He was fifty-eight years of age, and is survived by his widow. He was an ex-alderman and had occupied other civic positions.

The funeral was held at the residence Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. Duvall officiating, and the interment was in the Marietta cemetery.

COURT HOUSE FIGHT WILL BE DECIDED WEDNESDAY

Justice Girardeau Is Referee, Warrants Against Smith, R. R. Arnold, J. C. Cox

The fight in the courthouse Tuesday in which Burton Smith was the central figure, will be aired at 3:15 o'clock Wednesday in Justice C. H. Girardeau's court, where C. W. Walton and W. H. Byrd have drawn warrants charging assault and battery against Mr. Smith, Attorney Reuben R. Arnold and John C. Cox.

Walton and Byrd claim that Cox and Attorney Arnold joined in the fight to assist Mr. Smith, but this is denied by both of these. They declare they tried merely to stop the fight.

Mr. Arnold says that the statement that he knocked Byrd down is certainly correct.

"When I came out of the court room two men were trying to hit Mr. Smith, while Byrd had caught his legs from behind. I grabbed Byrd's shoulder, seeking to pull him off Mr. Smith. I couldn't pull him aloose, so I kicked. I kicked him several times, good and hard, and he let go. I was simply endeavoring to get him off of Mr. Smith and that was all I did.

"As to Cox's part in the trouble, he held John Crawford, one of the men who attacked and who was beaten by Mr. Smith, when he (Crawford) was trying with the others to keep the fight going."

Mr. Arnold characterizes the statement of Byrd and Walton that Mr. Smith made an objectionable remark to Mrs. Cora B. Cash and Mrs. Viola Whittimore, as an infamous lie.

"After the fight was over, I heard Mr. Smith ask Mrs. Cash if there was anything in his remarks to which she could object,," says Mr. Arnold, "and I heard her answer that there was nothing; that he had treated her very nicely."

Mr. Arnold states that Byrd and Walton, immediately after the exciting fray, made no claim except that the fight had been started by Mr. Smith.

Mr. Smith admits striking Walton the first blow in the face, and then, he says, friends of Walton rushed at him from all sides. According to several witnesses, Mr. Smith knocked his assailants down just as quickly as they reached him.

Mr. Smith states that his conversation with Mrs. Cash was pleasant in every way, and that Mrs. Cash afterwards told him that she greatly regretted the fact that Mr. Walton has assumed the attitude which he did, by objecting to Mr. Smith talking to her.

Byrd and Walton have issued a joint statement about the affair. They are both among the heirs of Nancy E. and Joshua B. Crawford, over whose estate litigation has been in progress for years, and a phase of which was being heard before James N. Anderson, as auditor, when the fight occurred in the court room corridor.

They assert that Mr. Smith's remarks to Mrs. Cash and Mrs. Whittimore were insulting, and that Walton came up and told the ladies to move to the other side of the corridor. When this statement was made Mr. Smith asked what he (Mr. Walton) had to do with the matter, and the latter replied that these were his "women people." Then Walton says the lawyer struck him full in the face, knocking him down. Walton got up, and grabbed Mr. Smith in the collar, he says, and was holding him, when Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford, Mr. Smith's client and defendant in the case, and John C. Cox grabbed him (Walton) and held him while Mr. Smith struck him again.

Then, they claim, Byrd came from the court house and tried to part the combatants.

Smith turned on him, according to the claim, and knocked him down. Then, they assert, Mr. Arnold came running from the court room and kicked Byrd before he could get up.

WASHINGTON SEMINARY GIRL RUN DOWN BY CAR

Miss Charlotte Taylor Narrowly Escapes Death Under Wheels Near Five Points

Charlotte Taylor, the fourteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor, of 806 Piedmont avenue, was knocked down by a trolley car and slightly bruised about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning as she crossed Peachtree street, near Walton street. She was on her way to the Atlanta theater, where she was to attend a rehearsal of the graduating class of Washington seminary, of which she is a member.

Eye-witnesses are said to declare that the accident was unavoidable.

Miss Taylor was taken to her residence in an automobile. It was said that no bones were broken.

JOHN P. BURN RESCUED CHILD FROM DROWNING

The man's name who rescued three-year-old Isaac Janko, of 127 Cooper street, from drowning in a catch basin in front of his house last Monday was John P. Burn, of 123 Cooper street, and not John T. Burns, as was at first stated.

The basin was twenty-two feet deep, says Mr. Burn, asking that his name be corrected.

Henry M. Flagler, a Builder of Florida.

There has passed in the death of Henry M. Flagler an industrial genius who towered in an age that was peculiarly rich in masters of finance and builders of mighty enterprise. Had he done nothing but forge his way upward from the ranks of the humble and obscure to a station of great wealth and influence, his career would be wondrously interesting as an example of what sheer brain and character can achieve in a land like America. But far more than this, he did; he applied his energy and fortune to constructive tasks that left those among whom he labored more prosperous for his having lived.

It is not essential that a man be born in a cabin or buffeted by hardship in order to win success and renown but it is one of the glories of the United States that from just this type of men its leaders in public or material affairs have so often sprung; and of this type was Henry M. Flagler. His childhood was spent in a little New York village whence he ventured forth to seek his fortune, as a boy of fourteen, in order that the family burdens might be lightened. He was next heard of as a clerk in a country grocery shop in Michigan. Later he established himself in a manufacturing business at Saginaw, Michigan, and from that time forward his rise to fortune was rapid. Mr. Flagler was among the first to discern the varied and far-reaching possibilities of the petroleum industry. It was through his initiative that the company of Rockefeller, Andrews and Flagler, engaged in refining oil, was organized; and from that venture evolved the great Standard Oil company.

Mr. Flagler was in his fifty-fifth year when he became definitely interested in Florida, the State that owes such a vast deal of its development to his generous faith in its resources. It was he who drew the world's attention to the rare advantages of Florida as a winter resort and opened the way for a tremendous inflow of population and wealth. He spent millions unhesitatingly in the building of hotels and transportation facilities, notably the East Coast railroad and, later, the extension of that line over the sea from Miami to Key West. This particular piece of work is considered one of the rarest engineering achievements of the age; it stands as a monument not only to the scientific skill of those who wrought it out but also to the bold genius of him who conceived it and who, despite predictions that such an effort would prove vain, continued to support it with his means until his dream stood fulfilled.

What Mr. Flagler did for Florida is beyond reckoning. The development of that commonwealth has benefited not only its own people but the Southeast as a whole and has opened new opportunities for thousands of men and families throughout the United States. The cities of Florida are now thriving wondrously; its farm lands are among the most promising fields of agriculture and investment; currents of fresh energy and progress are astir throughout the State; it has caught the entire country's attention.

It is due to the vision and power of Henry M. Flagler as well as to the responsiveness of an energetic people that these resources are being turned to such splendid account. He lived a creative and useful life. For his brilliant talent he was admired by the entire country; and he was cordially esteemed by the South for his constructive work in its behalf.

The Tragic End of a Picturesque Turk.

The assassination of Essad Pasha, one of the most famous and picturesque of Turkish generals, adds another red episode to the recent treacherous chapters of Ottoman history. Essad Pasha commanded the garrison at Scutari throughout that city's long and stoutly resisted siege. Whatever may have been the inner circumstances or motive of his final surrender, the resourcefulness and hardihood with which he defended his trust during the heat of the siege won the admiration of the Montenegrins themselves.

Shortly after the city fell, there was much gossip to the effect that the Turkish commander had reached a secret agreement with King Nicholas whereby the former, on the condition that he surrender, would be permitted to withdraw his troops unmolested and proceed southward into Albania for the purpose of establishing at Tiran a distinct kingdom. However that may have been, he proclaimed himself king and met his tragic end at the hands of enemies in his own camp and among his own people.

The incident recalls the assassination at Constantinople some months ago of Envey Bey, by far the greatest general the Turkish army has owned in recent times, and divers attempts to make way with other leaders in the military or political affairs of that country. The fact is the Turkish army seems undermined with a spirit of mutiny and treachery has become so common as to threaten the very life of the existing government.

Neither the Young Turks nor the reactionary party seem to have any grip upon the masses of the people. There is no authority which can be counted upon to steer and control the nation in its present crisis.

The New President of Cuba.

General Mario G. Menocal who was inaugurated yesterday as the third president of the Cuban republic begins his administration under cheering auspices. True, the tasks that confront him and his associates in the new government are many and difficult. But he has given evidence of the integrity and insight that are needed to meet such responsibilities and he seems to hold the confidence of the island's thoughtful people.

The besetting weakness of Cuba's internal affairs thus far has been the lack of square and efficient management in its administrative departments, particularly in matters of public finance. There has also been a plague of adventurous politicians who have sought to bestir trouble and disorder for the purpose of pushing forward their selfish fortunes.

President Menocal pledges himself to "devote all his energies to giving the country a clean business administration that will foster the industries of the island and develop its splendid resources, that will welcome foreign capital and immigration and maintain friendly relations with all nations and especially with the United States, to which Cuba is so closely linked by bonds of mutual interest and affection."

It is said that the new administration will devote itself particularly to a land-tax reform to the end that vast holdings of property which now lie idle and contribute nothing to the country's wealth may be opened to agricultural enterprise.

The United States is peculiarly interested in the stability and progress of Cuban affairs; for, our government rightly feels a sense of responsibility to its little neighboring republic and to other nations that have dealings with the island. It is hoped that the new government will be peaceful and prosperous.

Now for Prompt Results In Closing That Underpass.

There are cheering indications that the long delayed but important task of closing the Forsyth street underpass will now be pressed to speedy completion. The resolution offered in Council Monday by Alderman Ragsdale and Councilman Haverty, providing for the appointment of a joint committee of Council members and citizens to deal conclusively with this matter, is seasonable and well advised. One of the inpediments to this enterprise has been the fact that it has been nobody's particular business, though it has been unanimously favored.

An energetic committee with definite ends in view can take up the plans already devised for closing the underpass and forge them into prompt and practical results. There are no serious difficulties to be overcome. Council has appropriated the funds necessary for this work. The State has consented that it be done under conditions that can easily be met. The general public and the property owners directly concerned are eager that it be done. It is to be hoped that the proposed committee will get promptly down to business.

THE INCOME TAX

XIV.—The Fight in France.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

France is as yet without an income tax law, but this is neither due to the lack of a demand or the lack of effort to secure its passage. Rather it is due to a hitch between the senate and the chamber of deputies. The sentiment in favor of such a tax began to rise at the time of the revolution of 1848, grew more insistent after the creation of the third republic, and culminated, after a half century of agitation in 1909, in the passage of a bill creating such a tax by the chamber of deputies.

It seems inevitable that at no distant date France will join the procession of fifty-odd nations which have income tax laws, and if it falls in behind the United States it will be the fifty-fourth nation to have such a tax as a part of its fiscal system. Then more than two-fifths of the earth's population will live under income tax laws and the total collections from such taxes will go far up past the billion dollar mark.

The French program as adopted by the chamber of deputies borrows from every source, and it is said that no nation which ever attempted to enact an income tax law went so minutely into the whole matter as the French have done. The bill as adopted divides incomes into seven classes or schedules, as follows: incomes from lands, incomes from houses, incomes from movable capital, incomes from business profits, incomes from agricultural profits, incomes from wages and salaries, and incomes from professional earnings and all other sources not otherwise provided.

On the first three classes of incomes the rate is fixed at 4 per cent, with 3 1-2 per cent on incomes from business profits, and 3 per cent on professional earnings, agricultural profits, and wages and salaries. In the case of the house tax the income is considered to be the rental value of the property, less one-fourth in the case of dwellings, and less two-fifths in the case of factories. These deductions are made so as to allow for repairs and depreciation. In the determination of the income from land it is to be considered as the rental value of the land, less a reduction of one-fifth for maintenance. The incomes from houses and lands are to be determined every ten years. Where the incomes are small various abatements are made.

Movable capital profits are considered as the income from personal property, including nearly all government securities. Wherever possible the tax on this class of incomes is collected at the source, for instance, on the corporations and associations that pay interest or dividends. Mortgages pay their tax by means of a stamp, and securities taxes are collected through bankers.

Business profits are regarded as those which arise from industrial or commercial operations. The assessment is made upon the basis of an average of three years' income, and taxpayers are invited to make returns of such incomes. Those having incomes in excess of 5,000 francs, or approximately $1,000, are required to make their reports to the comptroller of taxes. If he is not satisfied with a report he may ask a modification of it within twenty days. If this is not forthcoming the comptroller may make an assessment, which shall stand unless changed by the courts. The taxpayer cannot be required to show his books, but if he is caught attempting to dodge the tax it is doubled. Incomes of this nature up to 1,250 francs are exempt, and there is a sliding scale of abatements on incomes up to 3,000 francs. Where the income goes above 12,000 francs there are no exemptions allowed.

In the case of wages, salaries and pensions, the tax is advanced by the individuals, associations or governments which pay them. Every employer is required to hand in a list of employes with the amount paid them. In case of incomes under 5,000 francs, or approximately $1,000, two-thirds of the income is exempt, and above that amount certain abatements are made, calculated partly on the basis of the size of the income, and partly on the basis of the size of the family.

The last schedule, relating to professional incomes, is the only one in the whole list where compulsory declaration applies to all having such incomes. And even here they cannot be compelled to reveal any professional secrets in making their returns. There is a liberal exemption, and above that there are the usual abatements up to the point where the tax ceases to be burdensome.

In addition to the regular income tax levied on all incomes whether of natural or of artificial persons, there is provided what is known as a "complementary tax" levied only on natural persons who have an income of more than 5,000 francs. This bears a close resemblance tothe English supertax. It is levied on those who reside in France without having their domicile there, as well as upon those who are domiciled there. In the case of the sojourners their income is rated at seven times their house rent. There is no tax on the first 5,000 francs, and thereafter each successive 5,000 francs income pays an additional 1 per cent until an income of 25,000 francs is reached, when the tax becomes 5 per cent on the income. If any one who is required by law to pay this supplementary tax tries to dodge it, or any part of it by false declarations the penalty is one-half of the income concealed. If he fails to make any returns at all the penalty is three times the amount of the tax.

It will be seen from this account of the French plan that it borrows what are perhaps the best features of both the English and the German laws. Its schedules follow to a large extent the ideas incorporated in the English law, but it differentiates more markedly between the income that is the sweat of the brow and the income that is the product of invested capital. It establishes a lower exemption than the English law, and follows the German idea of taxing the entire income after it reaches a point where the taxpayer incurs no hardship in paying it. There is great care to have the necessity of inquisitorial proceedings.

After the bill had passed the chamber of deputies it went to the senate where it was defeated. This served as a rallying point for the forces opposed to income tax legislation; several societies in opposition were formed, meetings were held throughout the republic, and at least a semblance of public opposition to the measure was made. Most observers believe, however, that the income tax legislation has received only a temporary setback, and that the French senate will be forced to do with it just what the American senate was forced to do with railroad rate legislation.

Meantime, there are some parts of existing French laws which represent the growing determination of the French people to levy taxes upon the basis of ability to pay. There is a real estate tax, a business tax, a door and window tax, and a capitation and personal property tax. The real estate tax is assesssed on the basis of the rental value of the property as determined by a periodical survey. The business tax is designed to hit the income of the business, and is levied on a basis of such outward appearances as the rent paid, the number of clerks employed, and the like. The door and window tax is levied on all openings for doors and windows, a man's ability to pay being measured by the number of such openings in his house or factory he may have. This is a rather odious tax and has been declared to be a tax on light and health.

DIVORCE AND PUBLICTIY

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

A Mrs. Scott, in England, had been found guilty of contempt of court by the Court of Appeals for having circulated among her friends some of the report of the case heard in "in camera," in which she had been charged with infidelity, but vindicated.

She appealed to the highest court, which consists of the House of Lords. Here the Lord Chancellor rendered judgment reversing the decision of the Court of Appeals, and made this significant statement:

"Every court of justice in the land is open to every subject of the king, and a court has no power to sit otherwise than with open doors."

This raises the question as to the advisability of publishing the proceedings in divorce cases. There can be no doubt that such news-matter in a newspaper is prurient and unpleasant, and that its effect upon the reading public is, to a degree, harmful. It is a common thing to hear expressions of condemnation regarding newspapers for lending their columns to such offensive matter.

But there is another side to the case. It is this: That the real punishment which the social sinner dreads is not the penalty adjudged by the court, but the publicity caused by the public press. He does not so much mind paying his fine and alimony, particularly if he is rich; and it is the affairs of the rich that the reporters are fondest of exploiting and readers are most eager to follow.

After all, ours is a government by public opinion. Say what we will, it is the printed word and not the Judge before whom all tremble who value their reputations. The powerful offender with his skilled lawyers is not alarmed at the prospect of a legal trial; it is the terrible newspaper that gives him that gone feeling.

Supreme Court Justice Ford says:

"Severance of the marriage tie concerns the well-being of society as deeply as criminal prosecutions, and secrecy is as objectionable in the one case as in the other. Publicity in judicial proceedings should be preserved so far as practicable."

Justice Greenbaum: "For my part, I should like to see every divorce action tried in open court."

Justice Guy: "In my judgment, everything which occurs in court should be open to public hearing. The fact that an action for divorce is pending should be given the widest publicity to prevent fraud and injury to those who are innocent. I do not think, however, that the loathsome details—more humiliating generally to the innocent than guilty—should be published. This, however, is more properly, within the wise discretion of publishers of newspapers than within the control of courts."

To the credit of metropolitan journals, with few exceptions, it must be said that disgusting as are the bare facts in the case that are printed, the facts unprinted, the facts they suppress from a sense of public decency, are far more appalling.

Those who condemn newspapers, therefore, for their open accounts of domestic scandal, should think twice, and reflect that it is the very medicine of publicity that most restrains divorce. It is bitter medicine, but effective.

Looking Ahead

To slip into the righthand seat,
To grip the throttle, and to feel
The answer in the measured beat
Of plunging rod and whirling wheel—
To watch the slipping, flashing steel—
To coax her to the schedule, flat,
As on she roars with heave and reel—
Now, where's the life compares with that?

Yet, sometimes, as with steady eye
I scan the stretch of track ahead,
I think the rails on which we fly—
Which here have just the proper spread—
Out there are but a single thread
That sure as fate will ditch the train,
And fill the right of way with dead—
An instant's fancy of my brain!

Suhc thoughts as that all pass me by
While we are on a grade or curve;
It's where the level reaches lie
That they come flicking at my nerve.
But do I think to check or swerve?
No, no! I've learned I can depend
On those two rails; they always serve
Straight on to the division's end.

It's like that on the road through life.
Ahead it seems to narrow so
That, when we glance up from the strife,
Beyond there'll be no room to go.
But from experience we know
That there'll be room in plenty—quite.
So keep on moving, fast or slow—
We'll make the terminus, all right!

Plan First; Then Build Roads

(New York World.)

The sober public opinion of New York state will approve Highway Commissioner Carlisle's declaration that until he is "satisfied that roads will be built which will give the people a dollar in value for every dollar invested," he will not approve further construction.

The people have twice voted for good roads. They have never voted to condone waste or invite fraud. Mr. Carlisle found a department spending $50,000 a day, yet without "facilities for making a scientific study of road construction." It had no information "except what it gained by experience." It was being bled through bids based on erroneous estimates. Its best roads, often located for politicians and not for the people, were crying for repairs almost as soon as finished.

It is bad bookkeeping to bond the state fifty years for roads that will not last five years. It is bad economy not to get brains to direct muscle and money. It is bad morals to permit fraud.

Davy Crockett was a good Democrat. Mr. Carlisle should be sure he is right; then go ahead.

"That Nerve Dissolving Melody."

Then methought I heard a mellow sound,
Gathering up from all the lower ground;
Narrowing in to where they sat assembled
Low voluptuous music winding trembled,
Wov'n in circles; they that heard it sigh'd,
Panted, hand in hand with faces pale,
Swung themselves, and in low tones replied;

* * * * * * *

Then they started from their places,
Moved with violence, changed in hue,
Caught each other with wild grimaces,
Half-invisible to the view,
Wheeling with precipitate paces
To the melody, till they flew,
Hair, and eyes, and limbs and faces,
Twisted hard in fierce embraces,
Like to Furies, like to Graces,
Dash'd together in blinding dew;
Till, kill'd with some luxurious agony,
The nerve-dissolving melody
Flutter'd headlong from the sky.

Proving that the tango and the trot were not unknown to Tennyson. The above excerpt is from "The Vision of Sin." . . . Short for syncopation, belike.

May 15.—To luncheon with Jack Reed the poet and he told me of the four days he was in prison in Paterson, and of the dreadsome, noisome condition of the place and its horrible uncleanness, and of one man 80 yrs. of age and ill, that was imprisoned for six months for begging five cents. Also he told me how great a man is Bill Haywood, and it may be as Jack saith. Also he told me that the Industrial Workers are sorely misjudged and that the tayles in the publick prints of their bloodthirstiness are lies told by the scriveners. And out of it all I wish I did know how to appraise what is true and what is false, but I am too ignorant, and ill-fitted to judge truly. To-day I heard how that Will Aulick hath been stricken with a great illness, which made me heavy to hear, and I pray Heaven he may soon be whole again. JUDGES CANNOT SUSPEND SENTENCE OF A PRISONER

So Holds State Court of Appeals in Case From Moultrie

According to a ruling made by the state court of appeals Tuesday in the case of Albert Norman versus L. F. Rehberg, a deputy sheriff of Colquitt county, a judge has no authority to suspend a sentence imposed by himself or by another judge. Only the governor can change a sentence after one has been declared.

Norman pleaded guilty in the city court of Moultrie on August 14, 1911, to the charge of larceny and was sentenced by Judge J. D. McKenzie to a fine of $50 and costs and eight months in the changang, the sentence of eight months to be suspended upon the payment of a fine and pending good behavior.

An accusation charging a new case of larceny against Norman was sworn out in the city court in July, 1912, whereupon Judge McKenzie ordered that the defendant be taken in custody and made to serve his original eight months' sentence.

Norman filed a writ of habeas corpus, alleging that he had never been convicted of the second offense charged against him and that he had not known of the charge until he was rearested. His petition was denied and he appealed to the state court of appeals, which held that the judge was without power to suspend the sentence in the first instance and that he must serve it.

CONFEDERATE SURGEONS WILL ATTEND REUNION

All Confederate surgeons, assistant surgeons, hospital stewards and all sons of Confederate surgeons are being invited to attend the annual meeting of the medical officers of the Confederate army and navy, which will be held at Chattanooga May 27, 28 and 29.

The invitation is being sent out by Dr. A. A. Lyon, of Nashville, secretary of the Association of Confederate Surgeons, and by Dr. Edwin D. Newton, local secretary of the association. This organization was born in Atlanta, and it is especially desirable that this city be represented well.

FORBIDS CORPORATIONS TO LEND THEIR CREDIT

Illegal According to Decision sion Handed Down Tuesday by State Appellate Court

Passing upon the case of the Savannah Ice company vs the Canal-Louisiana Bank and Trust company the state court of appeals Tuesday morning held that no corporation without authority or same having been expressly granted in its charter can lend its credit for the accommodation of another corporation.

In this connection the appellate court held that "though one corporation may own all the stock in another corporation, the two do not become merged, but remain separate and distinct legal entities."

The decision, which in part reverses the judment of Judge Davis Freeman, of the city court of Savannah, in effect holds that the Savannah Ice company was without authority to give an accommmodation indorsement to a note made by the Crescent Ice company of New Orleans, to its own order and indorsed by that company. Therefore, the Savannah Ice company is not liable for the note.

The Canal-Louisiana Bank and Trust company of New Orleans, brought suit against the Savannah Ice company for $5,000 due on a promissory note executed by the Crescent Ice company and indorsed by the former company. It was shown by the Savannah Ice company that it simply indorsed the note as an accommodation and did not benefit in the least from the transaction.

According to the evidence in the case the Savannah Ice company and the Crescent Ice company are both owned by the Central Ice company, of New Jersey, which has a number of similar subsidiary companies throughout the country. It was also contended that it was customary for these companies to provide accommodation indorsements one for another.

The Savannah Ice company answered the original suit by contending that it had merely indorsed the note for accommodation of the Crescent Ice company and that it had no charter authority to do this. This plea was demurred to by the Canal-Louisiana Bank and Trust company, and the demurrer was overruled. However, after hearing the case, Judge Freeman rendered a verdict in favor of the bank. He is sustained in overruling the bank's demurrer but reversed in granting it a verdict.

COSTS MOTORIST $10, TO RUN OVER POLICE

J. A. Brigman, of Decatur, who narrowly missed running over Detective Carter, of the Atlanta police department, at Forsyth and Marietta streets, Monday evening while driving an automobile, was fined $10 and costs by Recorder [illegible] R. Broyles Tuesday afternoon. Detective Carter escaped being run over by the car by jumping to the hood of the machine when it approached him. He immediately placed Brigman under arrest.

FOR DELICATE CHILDREN

A Mother's Letter to Mothers.

Mrs. E. W. Cooper, of Bloomfield, N. J., says: "My child, seven years old, had a bad cold and was weak and quite run down in health. She had been in this condition for about six weeks, when I began giving her Vinol. It was a wonderful help to the child, breaking up her cold quickly and building up her strength besides. I have also found Vinol a most excellent tonic for keeping up the children's strength during a siege of whooping cough."

Vinol is a wonderful combination of two world-famed tonics—the medicinal body-building elements of cod liver oil and iron for the blood—therefore it is a perfectly safe medicine for children, because it is not a patent medicine. Everything in it is printed on every package so mothers may know what they are giving their little ones.

Therefore we ask every mother of a weak, sickly or ailing child in this vicinity to try Vinol on our guarantee. Elkin Drug Co., Atlanta, Ga.—(Advt.)

Pickpockets Continue Robbing Commissioners Despite a Unique Plea

Despite the appeal of Presbyterian conventioners "not to rob the hand that is trying to uplift them," pickpockets continue to ply their work in Atlanta. The Rev. R. N. Adams, of Mintaples, Minn., is the latest victim of the light-fingered artists. He reported to the police Wednesday that he had been robbed of a pocketbook containing $100 in cash and a ailroad pass, while riding from the capitol to his temporary residence, 84 West Peachtree street, Tuesday night. During the ride he was jostled by seveal negroes and he suspects one of the blacks of the theft.

BARLEYCORN TO BLAME FOR DIVORCE SUITS

Old John Barleycorn was made the basis for two suits for divorce filed in the superior court Tuesday morning; one was that of Mrs. Nina Johnson against J. F. Johnson and the other Robert S. Franks versus Mrs. Amanda Ella Goode Franks.

Mrs. Johnson in her petition stated that she married J. F. Johnson in 1904, and separated from him in July, 1912, on account of his intoxication which led to his abuse of her, as well as his failure to provide for herself and six-year-old son, Julian. She wants a total divorce. Her attorneys are Moore & Branch.

The petitioner, Robert S. Franks, alleged that he was married to Mrs. Amanda Ella Goode, then of Birmingham, Ala., in 1902, and that they lived together until November, 1911, with the exception of one week when he quit his wife on account of her drinking to excess. Afterwards he returned to his wife, and they became reconciled, the petition says, until the final breach in November, when they separated and his wife moved to Mobile.

His petition states that it was November 21, 1911, that he returned home about 6:30 o'clock in the afternoon to find his wife and a young man intoxicated in the dining room of his residence, 80 West Cain. The couple were taken to the police station, the petitioner alleges, and fined for drunkenness and for disorderly conduct.

He asks for a total divorce.

Deputy Comes Back

Deputy Sheriff Tom Curtis, of Canton, Ga., returned Tuesday from Athens, Tenn., where he went to deliver Charles Turner, alleged moonshiner, who escaped from jail at the latter place after assaulting United States Marshall Sam Welch. Curtis, with A. L. Goble, of Jasper, Ga., captured the fugitive in Gilmer county, Georgia, after he had been at liberty several months. There was a reward of $100 for Turner's arrest.

WIFE IN COURT EXTOLS HUBBY FOR HIS FIGHT

"I Wouldn't Have Husband Who Wouldn't Lick Masher," Said She

C. C. Downs, a local safe expert, was fined $5 and costs on a charge of disorderly conduct as a result of what he maintains was an attempt to punish a "masher" who attempted to flirt with his wife in a Whitehall street moving picture theater. The detailed accounts of the episode were recited to City Recorder Broyles Tuesday afternoon by the defendant and several witnesses.

Downs got through work Monday night, he testified, and sought recreation looking at the "movies" before he went home to dinner. Seated in the theater he saw two men trying to "get acquainted" with two women two rows in front of him. One of the women turned around and he saw that she was his wife.

Downs took immediate action. He reached one arm over two rows of audience and grasped the offender by the coat collar with such suddenness that the latter cried out and dashed for the exit. Downs followed, but got twisted up with another spectator's feet and lost a few yards at the start. He pursued his man to the door. But the "masher" didn't stop. He kept right on going down the street. Downs abandoned the chase and went back to look for the fleeing man's companion. He found him and was about to give him a few mementos of the occasion when the manager of the theater incerceded. The "movies" man said he thought he had better call a cop and have an investigation made. A policeman appeared and placed him under arrest.

"I don't care what you fine my husband," said Mrs. Downs, in police court Tuesday afternoon. "It was just fine of him! I wouldn't give a cent for a husband that wouldn't try to lick a masher."

Agnes Scott Has Its Annual Commencement Exercises This Week

The annual commencement exercises of Agnes Scott college at Decatur, Ga., will begin Thursday night, ending the following Wednesday at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Thursday and Friday afternoons, from 4 to 6 o'clock, will be given over to the exhibit of the art department, and Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock there will be a song recital.

The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered at the college chapel Sunday morning by the Rev. Charles H. Erdman, D. D., one of the well known divines of the east, who arrived in the city Wednesday for the Presbyterian convention.

Monday night will be the concert by the glee club, which is always one of the most pleasing features of the graduating exercises. Tuesday night the two literary societies hold their annual celebration, and Wednesday night the young ladies of the senior class will be presented with their diplomas.

C. C. CLUB TAKES FORMAL LEASE OF BROOKHAVEN

Capital City Club Will Assume Possession of Country Club June 1

A lease for a year of the Brookhaven club was signed on behalf of the Capital City club Tuesday. The city club will take possession of this beautiful country club on Peachtree road on June 1, making the latter its own country club feature. It will be known as the Capital City Country club, and will be for the exclusive use of the members of that organization.

The property of the Brookhaven club consists of 150 acres of land, which includes a club house, a fresh water lake, tennis courts and a golf course. The grounds are surrounded by rolling pine clad hills, making it an ideal spot for outdoor recreation.

The lease gives the club authorities the privilege of a renewal of two years at the expiration of the present lease, and the additional right to purchase inside of three years the property for $100,000, same to be paid in first mortgage bonds at 5 per cent.

The Capital City club recently has increased its membership from 700 to 800, and now has a waiting list.

The following committee from the Capital City club made the present lease of the Brookhaven club possible: Robert F. Maddox, chairman; Edward H. Inman, John E. Murphy, Jack J. Spalding, Dr. W. S. Elkin, Preston S. Arkwright, Madison Bell and W. G. Humphrey.

RESINOL CURED ITCHING ECZEMA

Too Terrible to Describe. Tortured by It Since Childhood.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12, 1913.—"Since early childhood I have suffered untold misery with that terrible torture eczema, on the backs of my hands and fingers. I have spent hundreds of dollars on treatments and consultations and bought every known remedy, but could not be cured. My hands would crack open, oft times showing the ligaments, and the skin would stick to the inside of my gloves.

"The itching was too terrible to describe and sleep was possible only when in an exhausted condition. This winter I had given up all hope of ever finding a cure, when I heard of Resinol and purchased some. The results were perfectly marvelous. I used three jars of Resinol Ointment, with Resinol Soap, and my hands are perfectly cured. I cannot find words strong enough to praise Resinol and what it has done for me. I wish everyone needing relief from that stubborn and torturing affliction would give Resinol a trial. I shall be pleased to answer any inquiries." (Signed) Mrs. Harry O. Jarboe, 621 E St., N. W.

You can try Resinol free, for skin eruptions, pimples, dandruff, stubborn sores, boils, or piles. Sold by practically every druggist, but for trial write to Dept. 24-S, Resinol, Baltimore, Md. (Advt.)

Miss Estes to Entertain

Miss Ruby Lee Estes will entertain at a matinee party Friday afternoon in compliment to Mrs. Grady Estes, a recent bride.

Dinner to Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bancker's dinner Tuesday evening at the Piedmont Driving club was a lovely compliment to Miss Lorna Carr, of St. Louis, and Miss Caroline Scott, of Arkansas, who are the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Bates Block.

Dinner was served on the terrace, the table having for its center an artistic wicker basket holding quantities of pink sweet peas, slender pink tapers were tipped with rose and crystal shades, and each guests place was marked by a French nosegay.

Mr. and Mrs. Bancker's guests included Miss Carr, Miss Scott, Dr. and Mrs. Bates Block, Mr. Brooks Morgan and Mr. Arthur Clarke.

Mrs. Rice Entertains

Mrs. Frank P. Rice entertained very pleasantly this afternoon at her home on West Peachtree street, her guests being the members of the Pioneer society.

The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and the event was most enjoyable.

Roses, sweet peas and old fashioned garden flowers were used in decorating the house.

In the parlor only the flaming masses of the Rambler rose were used. White lilacs formed the decorations in the reception room, and also in the rooms, pink sweet peas were used, many clusters being gracefully arranged in vases. Hollyhocks gave a quaint decorative touch to the sitting room, and Dorothy Perkins roses were used in the dining room. Mrs. Joseph Morgan, Mrs. Anthony Murphy, Mrs. Sid Holland and Mrs. Joseph Wusthoff, officers of the Pioneer society, assisted Mrs. Rice in receiving.

Miss Mary Rice, Miss Georgia Rice and Miss Helen Smith served punch in the library.

MRS. WILLIAM OWENS.

Mrs. Owens is a talented member of the Players' club, and as Cecily, in "The Importance of Being Earnest," will be seen at the Grand on the presentation of the play at an early date.

Miss King's Five o'Clock Tea

Miss Carolyn King was hostess at tea Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock at her home on Peachtree street in compliment to her guest, Miss Elizabeth Boyd, of Clearwater, Fla.

The house was decorated throughout with quantities of pink sweet peas and many lovely Paul Neyron roses.

The table had for its center a French basket filled with pink sweet peas, and the cloth on which it rested was embroidered with sweet peas.

Miss King wore a lovely gown of white net, the draped skirt was formed of shadow lace.

Miss Boyd's gown of white shadow lace was draped over white chiffon and a tunic of pale green crepe completed the effective costume.

Mrs. King assisted in receiving and was gowned in black brocaded chiffon.

Twelve young girls assisted in the entertainment of the guests.

The occasion was a very pleasant one and assembled a large number of the younger set, including a number of young men.

Judge Hammond's Dinner

Judge W. R. Hammond's dinner to members of his college class of '69 assembled a group of prominent men Tuesday evening at the Driving club.

The occasion was one of much interest and pleasure.

Those present were Mr. T. W. Baxter, Judge B. H. Hill, Judge W. H. Fish, Mr. Henry H. Cabaniss, Mr. Samuel Barnett, Dr. W. S. Bean, of Clinton, S. C.; Mr. James T. White, Mr. Gus Hawes, of Alabama; Mr. E. H. Alfriend, Judge Lumpkin and Judge Beck.

Diamonds
Economically Handled

We have made it a point to acquaint ourselves with every detail in the handling of diamonds from the time they are mined until they go into possession of the individual. Information thus gained has enabled us to lop many of the expenses connected therewith. We do not, therefore, believe that there is anyone that can offer greater values for the money.

We exercise unsually careful attention in the selection of our stock, in addition to buying in quantities, and as a consequence, get them much below what they would cost us were we to buy in smaller lots.

In addition to these reasons there are many minor ones to bear out our contention that no better values are to be had than here.

For those who do not wish to go into ready cash, or disturb other investments, we are glad to extend our partial payment plan whereby a small amount cash can be paid at the time of purchase, and the remainder extended over a number of months best suited to the purchaser.

WEDDINGS

Cook-Houze

The marriage is announced of Miss Annie Houze, of Roswell, Ga., and Mr. W. M. Cook, of Atlanta, on Sunday afternoon, May 18, at the home of the bride in Roswell.

Riddle-Willet

The marriage is announced of Miss Laurie Willet and Mr. James Riddle on Saturday, May 17, in Leesburg, Fla., at the home of Dr. E. Z. F. Golden.

The bride, who is the daughter of Dr. J. E. Willet, long associated with Mercer university, is a sister of Mr. Hugh Willet, Mrs. Chas. A. Davis, and is well known in Atlanta.

Afternoon Recital

A reception and recital was given on Tuesday afternoon by the younger members of Miss Alice Cox's piano class.

Organized into the "Apollo club," they, as such, entertained their parents and friends. Miss Cox played Listz' Polonaise, and Miss Robin Trimble, of East Point, a pupil of Miss Sallie Stakely and a guest of honor, also played.

Delightful refreshments and a social hour followed the afternoon program.

A Sale of Silks and Woolens
A Sale of Wash Fabrics

Hurry is every one's remedy for neglect. Whoever neglects getting Summer Clothes now, will have to hurry later on.

$1.00 Tub Silks at 79c a Yard

These Silks are so good they'd be highly desirable at even more than the regular price. The very heaviest; best quality—for women's suits, dresses, waists, and men's shirts; a full assortment of colors, striped effects on white ground. Their price here every day is $1.00—you may buy them at 79c yard —36 inches wide.

Silk Poplins that are New and Beautiful

We have waited days for these; they are just received. Small wonder this pretty fabric is one of Fashion's chosen favorites this season. It has the suppleness of crepe de chine and the shimmer and beauty of charmeuse. All the wanted colors are here; taupe, wistaria, golden brown, navy, tan and Copenhagen; priced at $1.50 yard.

79c Foulards at 49c yard

There is nothing that gives the real service and satisfaction afforded in Silk Foulard dresses. They are ready to slip into on any and all occasions; and are good several seasons. Here is an assortment of beautiful Foulards in all fashionable color tones, figured, dotted and small flowered patterns. Priced for this sale at 49c instead of 79c yard.

Stylish Wool Suitings at 55c yard

Novelty Suitings in gray, tan and blue mixtures, or Serge Suitings in pretty blues, browns, grays and tans. They are new and are highly desirable at this price for Thursday —55c yard.

Popular Checked Suitings

The demand for black-and-white checked Suitings increases daily; so popular are they for suits, tailored street dresses, separate coats and skirts. These new checks are beautiful—several different sizes—they do not remain in stock long; 54 inches wide; $1.00 and $1.50 yard.

Novelty Bordered Dress Patterns
$9.50 Instead of $15

They are superb, and just the fabrics that are being employed by modistes for some smart and exclusive dresses for the fashionable resorts.

These are imported serge, cream or ecru, with exquisite border in colors, satin or plain weave; only one of a kind, and only a few remaining. They are regular $15 dress patterns; you may buy them Thursday at $9.50.

Popular Wash Fabrics Are Much Lower Priced

Here are some of the needed cotton fabric—white and colored—on which you may save tomorrow:

Yarn-dyed, Renfrew Madras, fast colors; pretty striped effects, and plain colors; 31 inches wide; priced here regularly at 15c; for this sale only at 10c yard.

Hydegrade Rugby Galatea; stripes, checks and plain colors, or black-and-white effects; values 15c; special for Thursday at 11c yard.

Fashionable Bedford Cords; white with colored stripes; pink, blue, lavender, green and tan; the regular price is 25c; they are marked for this sale at 15c yard.

Renfrew silk-and-cotton mixed novelties; stripes, checks, plaids; a varied assortment of pleasing color combinations, also black-and-white; priced regularly at 25c; for this sale at 18c yard.

25c yd. for these 69c Bordered Seco Silks—beautiful fabrics, and very popular; 40 inches wide; light shades; dainty patterns.

39c yd. for 50-inch Shepherd Check Cotton Suiting with wool finish; checks in two sizes.

27-inch printed Crepe Plisse at 12½c yard.

12½c Percales at 8½c yard—light and dark colors; 3[illegible] inches wide.

45-inch White Ramie Linen, of beautiful quality; priced for this sale at 59c yard.

12½c Pajama Checks at 10c yard—36 inches wide.

One of the most attractive booths will be the housekeepers', in charge of Mrs. David Morgan and Mrs. Allan Whitaker, where preserves, jellies and household supplies will be sold. Flowers and vegetables, fresh from some of Atlanta's finest gardens, will be in charge of Mrs. John Slaton.

In the afternoon amusements for little folks will be provided and in the evening one must not miss the art gallery, under the charge of Mrs. Satterlee. The music, both instrumental and vocal, will be in charge of those from the "Old Homestead" and they will also give a country dance. An admisison fee of 10 cents will be charged and a good time is assured.

Commencement Exercises

The twenty-one graduates of the Washington Seminary will receive their diplomas at the Atlanta theater this evening at quarter after 8 o'clock. In addition to the delivery of the diplomas to the seniors will be the delivery of the D. A. R. medal to the successful contestant.

The members of the student body will be heard in the several choruses.

Dr. Walker of the First Presbyterian church will deliver the address to the class. The public is cordially invited to be present.

Evening Party

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Jenkins entertained their card club very pleasantly Tuesday evening at their home on Gordon street.

"Forty-two" was played. The house was attractively decorated with roses and sweet peas.

The club members are Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Byers, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Booth, Mr and Mrs. George Dowman, Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Lair, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McEachern, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Harper, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Poole and Mr. and Mrs. R. H. White.

To Miss Lippmann

A beautiful party was given last Sunday night by Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Field at their home on Cooper street.

The honor guest of the occasion was Miss Edith Lippman, of New York, Mrs. Field's sister, who is here on a visit and in whose honor many parties will be given.

Masses of carnations in pink and white, artistically arranged in cut glass vases, decorated the dining room and reception room.

Punch was served throughout the evening.

"Play Ball" His Text

THE DANGER OF TEETHINGTIME

Teething time, the second summer, is the most critical and dangerous period of a baby's life. You must guard its health and life carefully by abating the pain, fretting, and feverishness.

Teethina (TEETHING POWDERS) soothes and relieves the child and makes teething easy

It is the original prescription of Dr. C. J. Moffett, a graduate of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, and was used by him throughout his long practice to ward off and overcome children's diseases and summer complaint, especially during the teething period.

Don't let your baby suffer—use Teethina.

The Lilies of the Field

Children have often been likened to flowers. There is something beautiful about childhood as such; something wonderful about the plainest flower.

But unlike the flower, the children's clothing does not grow with them.

At this change of season every mother is anxiously going over her children's wardrobe. Hats, coats, dresses, underwear, stockings and shoes, any or all, may be needed.

The wise woman "takes stock" early in the season and keeps her eye out for opportunities to fill up the deficiencies. The wisest woman makes her task easy by following the advertisements of THE JOURNAL. She will find in them countless suggestions to aid her decisions, and corresponding opportunities to exercise her choice.

The Atlanta Journal

WHAT ANNE RITTENHOUSE SAYS

THE French dressmakers say that the Americans care more for linen clothes than the women of any other nation; even in tropical countries it is the men, and not the women, who daily indulge in the luxury of linen.

No one quite understands why the women of Paris do not take up the wearing of linen suits, for many of their summers are warm enough to need them. It is not expected that they would relinquish their sartorial tradition of wearing a coat of some kind in the street by adopting the American uniform of a white linen skirt with a thin blouse. Paris never quite understands why America goes in for this sort of dressing, but even without the French approval the custom continues over here.

The other nations insist that coat suits of dark thin materials are more economical and more dressy than the white linen suits, which easily crush and show soil. It is an amusing custom that the French dressmakers have of insisting upon serge suits for summer and crepe de chine frocks for winter; it is difficult to compel them to make thick, warm suits for Americans who are ordering winter clothes; and when this became easy enough through the kind of fabrics used, then it was difficult to persuade them to fasten the coat above the waist or draw its fronts nearer together than five inches over the chest.

The unwary American is always misled by the French dressmakers into getting clothes that are not suitable for her climate, and one may add for her method of living. To judge by the clothes that are offered and made for Americans, one might be led to believe that no one in France fastened her own frocks or walked on her own feet or caught pneumonia under any stress of weather. When you suggest that no one of the gowns offered is suitable for your kind of life in America, the designers give a shrug which conveys the words they dare not say. Madame Paquin once said that only an American woman was capable of asking for a gown suitable for church and bridge.

It is well for the American that she is what she is: an aggressive independent creature who absorbs everything that she wishes at its source and transmutes it into what she needs in her own environment. Therefore she wears thick suits in winter and cool suits in summer—therefore, linen as the first choice of the American for frequent street wear.

New Kind af Linen Coats.

THERE are fewer white coats with white skirts this season than there are colored oats. The dressmakers should be rewarded with a popular acceptance of this fashion because they have been so persistent in their advocacy of it, never letting up even under seeming failure. A year ago a mannequin wore a white skirt with a black coat and the costume caused comment on both continents, as it was instantly recorded by the cable, and this fashion was followed more or less by fashionable women in Europe last summer, but it appeared to the average American as too much of an innovation for her to adopt. She preferred suits in one color and she clung to them.

During the winter she adopted skirts of dull plaid with cutaway coats in solid color; then the fashion for brightly colored coats with white linen skirts came in overnight at the first breath of hot weather. Today the shops offer some fetching combinations which may not present themselves to the conservative mind as an improvement over the one-color suits, but they are eagerly taken up by those who care for novelty. And, after all, they are in good taste, which is a verdict that cannot be returned in every case this season.

In order to put the skirt and coat in harmony there is a band of the coat fabric used as the hem of the skirt; this is placed in a straight line or cut in battlements at the top. The skirt is cut on a stright two-width pattern with a seam down each side and the fastening put at front or side, whichever one prefers. It may be done with buttons that show or with hooks and eyes that do not show. If you choose the former method be sure to avoid flat buttons. The bullet-shaped ones are more fashionable than any. They are usually of bone, but sometimes of heavy crochet.

The coat may be of sulphur, of blue, bright or light; of pink, and especially of scarlet. It is usually without trimming and the only relieving touch is in the white collar and cuffs. There is often a belt of kid or patent leather, which is white or self colored, as one prefers. Sulphur is not an easy shade to wear, as even the amateur knows, but it is excessively fashionable, and one can sometimes be unaffected by its yellow tone if the white collar is very broad and the white shirtwaist shows in front.

The pink coats are the easiest for the majority of women to wear, and therefore they are the most popular. They should not be attempted by older women and none of these colored coats should be attempted by women with stout figures. Few of them are made on cutaway lines, and therefore the girlish figure stands them better than the woman who has heavy hips.

It is best to call these coats modified Russian blouses, for they have a long waisted belt effect and a fitted peplum which is cut away in front. You may have already noticed that there is no hesitancy in making the figure exceedingly broad across the front, below the waist. There is no rounded curve to it, but all the manipulation of drapery is toward that end; the present kind of cutaway coat gives that breadth in a marked manner by the way in which it is broadly opened in front.

Silk Coats With Linen Skirts.

ANOTHER novelty is to wear a figured silk coat with a white linen skirt. The weave of linen used is open and soft and goes by the name of crash. The glazed linen, which is artificially polished on the surface, is not the kind to get; in fact, it has fallen into disuse almost entirely because of the way in which it cracked and wrinkled.

The newest of these suits is made with a straight skirt open with slight fulness below each knee and held in with three buttons; there is a five-inch band at the hem made of Dresden silk in several colors with a thread of black running through it which is cut in deep battlements at the top.

The coat is high at the back of neck, is opened in a deep V in front and half filled in with folded cream lace. Outside of this is a plisse ruffle of white and black tulle. The three-quarter sleeves are broad at the base and turned back with silk cuffs, lace and pleated ruffle.

There are several color combinations used in these coats and one's choice should be made according to the hours in which the coat will be worn. Pale pink and white, for instance, is excellent for afternoon affairs in the open, and dull blue or copper with black and rose for street wear.

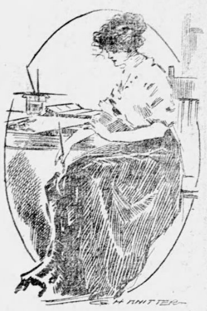
THE EVENING STORY

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Werner.)

THE CAPABLE ONE

MERCY, flying around the great kitchen, was putting up preserves. She measured and peeled and boiled and tested, her pretty forehead puckered anxiously, her fingers pink with juice. Preserving time always was a great trial to Mercy, though no one in the family ever guessed it. Mercy was the "capable one" and had been for more years than she could remember.



AT NOON SHE STOPPED REGRETFULLY.

Now and then she was slightly rebellious at the family dictum, but far oftener she agreed with it and thoroughly enjoyed doing all the things her clever fingers found to do.

The older sister, Prudence, taught each day from 9 to 3:30. She was the "studious one." Sometimes Mercy suspected that Prue might have been happier doing something else, but in the Taylor family, when judgment had been passed, the last word had been said.

Then there was Lola. Lola was, perhaps, the freest of them all, for Lola was an artist to her finger tips. She had some of Mercy's practical sense, too, for between the times when she was painting wonderful things to be appreciated in some happy future she made clever little drawings for advertisements and illustrated stories. On the whole, Lola's art education had been a good investment.

There was something patriarchal about the girls' father. He never meant to be arbitrary, but having decided what he thought each daughter cared most for, he educated her strictly along that line. For the most part, his choice had been happy. Prue, at least, was contented, and Lola was perfectly happy. But it went rather hard with the "capable one." She was happy enough in her way, but there were times when she envied Prue and Lola the chances they had to make money; it was a bit hard to be the only dependent daughter, however indispensable.

Today Mercy was thinking busily—thinking mostly of Lola, who was staying with cousins in the city to be nearer the reference books she needed, the pictures that inspired her—all the art life that was so necessary for successful work. Mercy envied her, not alone because she lived in the wonderful city, but because she worked with the colors and materials that Mercy adored. For deep in the heart of the "capable one" was as deep a love of form and color as the artist Lola ever felt. But even Mercy hardly suspected that. She only wished that she had been taught, too, and often accused herself of being just childishly greedy.

Confronted with the delicate task of filling jars, Mercy's thoughts broke off and hung suspended. Finally she lifted the funnel from the last jar and carried it to the sink. She frowned at her fruit-stained fingers and that brought back her train of thought, via a mental picture of Lola's pretty hands, white and soft, except for the palette thumb, which she often daubed as freely as the palette.

A sudden peal of the doorbell sent Mercy running to the door, pushing in hairpins and scrambling out of the all-embracing apron. It was the young architect who was planning the new schoolhouse, come, as usual, to consult Mr. Taylor. Mercy smiled adorably with pretty hospitality and led him to the cozy library while she went in search of her father.

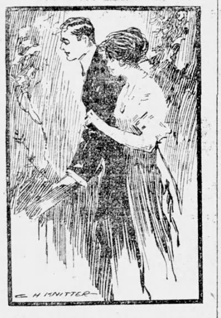
In a moment she came running down stairs again. The young architect caught a glimpse of her flying blue and white dress through the stair railing. There was a pause while she looked into another room and then she came to the door.

"He doesn't seem to be in," she said, with a little smile of regret. "Could you come again about half-past eight? I don't know where he is now, but he'll surely be back then."

Ferguson went rather reluctantly, and in less than five minutes found himself looking forward to half-past eight with undeniable eagerness. On her part Mercy slipped into her apron again and smiled when she remembered the unmistakable admiration in his eyes.

There was little more to be done in the kitchen and Mercy soon put up her apron and hurried into the library. From the table drawer she drew out thick sheets of paper, pencils, brushes and a paint box. Then, removing the magazines from the table, she drew up a chair. In five minutes she was lost to the world drawing, painting, testing.

At noon she stopped regretfully. She



"WILL YOU TELL ME WHAT YOU WANT TO TELL ME THEN?"

cleared off the table slowly, holding out the papers at arms' length, and smiled with satisfaction before she waved them dry and slipped them into the drawer.

Afternoon was always a busy time with Mercy. There was no more time to draw or paint. At 5:30 Mercy went upstairs to dress for dinner. At the dinner table Mercy suddenly remembered the caller. "Oh, father," she burst out, while the family gasped and laughed at her abruptness, "Mr. Ferguson was here this morning to see you and I told him to come again at 8:30."

Mr. Taylor shook his head regretfully. "Too bad," he said, "I can't make it. There's the elders' meeting tonight. You'll have to excuse me to him, daughter."

"Oh, I'm sorry, too," Mercy replied. "Shall I tell him to come tomorrow, dad?"

Her father nodded smiling, and left the table with a word of excuse.

After dinner the family scattered. Mrs. Taylor to the kitchen. Mr. Taylor to his church meeting. Prue to her room to mark papers, and Mercy to the library to sew sedately and wait for Mr. Ferguson. Her longing eyes traveled to the table drawer again and again until she could stand it no longer. The mantel clock said barely 7:15—an hour and a quarter! Mercy folded up her sewing and quietly opened the drawer.

A sharp ring brought her back to the every day world. For a moment she sat uncertainly, looking miserably at the chaos before her. There was no time to put it away, that was certain, and Mercy got up resolutely and went to the door, her face crimson.

"I'm so sorry, Mr. Ferguson," she said stiffly. "Father had an important meeting to go to, but he asked me to tell you that he'd surely be here tomorrow." She stopped, praying fervently that he would leave. But Ferguson lingered.

"Won't you come in?" she said, finally, with belated hospitality, and Ferguson came in eagerly.

"I'll call mother," Mercy went on, hurriedly.

"Oh, no, don't. Please don't disturb her," Ferguson said, making straight for the table. "I can only stay a moment. Oh—may I see what you're doing?"

Mercy nodded miserably and Ferguson picked up the half-finished sheet. He held it out at arm's length. After a minute's absorbed contemplation he whistled softly.

"Jove! that's good," he said, earnestly. "Wall paper designing. I didn't know that you went in for that sort of thing, Miss Taylor."

Mercy flushed to her throat with pleasure. "Oh, is it good?" she asked eagerly. "I don't know anything about it, but I like to do it."

"You haven't studied?" Ferguson asked, wheeling in surprise. Mercy shook her head. Ferguson regarded the sketch a minute in silence. "I tell you what, Miss Taylor," he said, finally. "My firm handles this sort of thing—in another department, of course. If you can trust me, I'd like to try to place it for you."

Mercy, too happy for words, smiled at him. Ferguson caught his breath and looked blindly at the plan again.

For two weeks they met each day, growing better and better acquainted—partners in a delightful conspiracy. At the end of that time Ferguson came to see Mercy, an envelope in his hand. She saw it as she came through the hall, and slipped out on the porch, closing the door behind her.

"They took, all right," Ferguson assured her. "I knew they would. "He gave the envelope into her hand. After a moment he said, wretchedly: "If you want my honest advice, I'd advise you to go to the city and take a course in designing. That's what I ought to tell you. What I want to tell you, dear"—He stopped abruptly and walked to the edge of the steps. After a moment Mercy followed him and put her hand gently on his arm.

"I think I'll go to the city, for a while at least," she said, softly. "But—Dick—when I'm home for Christmas—or Thanksgiving—won't you—will you tell me what you want to tell me then?"

Dressing the Spring Salad

Many cooks who understand salad making do not mix French dressing very thoroughly before applying it, and some do not mix it at all. They measure out the oil and vinegar in the bone or wooden salad spoon and either mix it slightly as they measure it out, or else pour it directly on the salad. If the dressing is to be mixed before it is put on the tomatoes, potatoes or cucumbers—the oil and vinegar should be chilled on the ice, and then the oil should be mixed slowly with the vinegar and beaten with a fork all the time it is mixing. Beat in salt, pepper and other seasonings. Then before the emulsion formed has had time to separate mix it thoroughly with the vegetables.

Mayonnaise dressing has probably been the subject of more rules, recipes and suggestions than almost any other article of daily diet. The truth about the matter seems to be that whether you beat the salt with the eggs or add it last, whether you beat the dressing with a spoon or a spatula or a wire whisk, whether you add the acid first or last you must beat all the ingredients until they are thoroughly mixed.

One housewife, whose mayonnaise is always a success, beats it ten minutes after it is, to all appearances, finished. She says that this extra beating makes it sure that the mayonnaise will not separate. Another cook says that if the beater, the bowl, the oil, the eggs and the vinegar are all the same temperature the mayonnaise will be smooth and proof against curdling. They may all be chilled on the ice or they may all be the temperature of the room where they are used, providing they are all of the same temperature.

"Nature's Gift from the Sunny South"

DO YOU know the difference between Cottolene and lard? Cottolene is a vegetable product; lard is an animal product. Cottolene is made from purest and choicest cotton oil, a product of Nature.

Lard-cooked foods tend to heat the system unduly, and cause discomfort and indigestion; Cottolene makes food rich but never greasy, and food which any stomach can digest with ease.

Cottolene

The better class of housewives often use butter instead of lard for cooking purposes. It's a mighty expensive and needless habit. Cottolene is every bit as good as butter for shortening; it is better than butter for frying. And Cottolene costs much less than butter.

Cottolene will not burn nearly as easily as butter or lard, and with its use the strong, irritating and indigestible acids found in foods fried in animal fats are avoided.

Two-thirds of a pound of Cottolene will go as far as a full pound of butter or lard.

Just think these facts over and let them sink in. Then order a pail of Cottolene of your grocer.

Doings of Royalty

BY JULIUS GABE

BERLIN, May 21.—The visit of the duke and duchess of Cumberland to thir imperial majesties at Homburg pased off very successfully indeed.

It has not thus far resulted in the betrothal of Princess Olga and Prince Adalbert, but the young people were very much together, and seem to have got on very well, so that perhaps the happy event will come off in time. One of the first things that the royal visitors did was to motor to the Saalburg, those fine Roman remains of which his imperial majesty is so justifiably proud. It has cost him a pretty penny to restore the fortress and build the museum, and every spare minute at Homburg the kaiser puts in there.

His majesty and the duke motored alone, the kaiserin followed with the duchess, Princess Olga and Prince Adalbert, in another automobile, and the betrothed lovers brought up in the rear with Prince and Princess Max of Baden. All the ladies were in black, and the men in uniform, the duke wearing, like his imperial host, hunting uniform with a feather in his hat. Arrived at the Saalburg, everything was inspected, the kaiser acting as guide. The duke, who was very much interested in the relics of the Roman dynasty, was presented with a very valuable walking stick made of oak 2,000 years old and mounted in old silver, the kaiser, trusting as he gave it to him, that he would use it for "many and many a year to come." The duke was very pleased with the gift, and made use of it at once.

The farewell was a very cordial one, the kaiser kissing the duchess on her hand and cheek and shaking the duke's hand heartily for several moments. The kaiserin and the duchess exchanged kisses, while the duchess took her prospective daughter-in-law into her arms and kissed her warmly on both cheeks. The lovers had to part again as Prince Ernst accompanied his parents to Karlsruhe; but the time is not far distant now when the matrimonial festivities begin. These, by the way, will last three days, and Berlin will be in a state of great excitement such as has seldom been the case. In addition to King George and Queen Mary, it is now predicted by those who are supposed to know that the tzar will come for his fair young kinswoman's wedding, but this has yet to receive official confirmation.

It was a great disappointment to us all that the prince of Wales did not come on to Berlin. We are consoling ourselves with the hope that he, too, may come to the wedding. Unter den Linden will be most superbly decorated for the occasion, and the wedding procession will be something very grand indeed. His imperial majesty has engaged two entire floors of a smart hotel whose front windows look on the "Linden." These are for the numerous guests from a distance.

Heidelberg will come in for a good deal of festivity this summer. There will be historical pageants galore, torchlight processions, and illuminations at the fine old Schloss up on the hills, all in memory of the union of the Stuart king's daughter with the elector. The duke and duchess of Sutherland have promised to give their patronage to the British festival committee.

The celebration will be held in the autumn of 1915.

Atlantic Beach The New City by the Sea

In the Hammock, March 4, (Actual Photograph.)

Atlantic Beach is the finest district on the entire Southern coast line. It will be better a year from now. Better still in 2 or 3 years.

Soon it will have no rival in Florida or elsewhere in the South. It has an incomparable combination of initial advantages in its electric lights, abundant cistern water, railway transportation, splendid paved road to Jacksonville and the finest beach in the world.

Bungalow Now Building in Same Hammock

The Present—A Fact

Twenty houses building, some nearly complete. Eight already sold, occupied next month. Fifty-two houses will be built, then fifty more. Every one with flowing water, electric lights, sewered, screened, finished to the last detail. Streets paved, sidewalks laid. These things actually being done--not merely promised. They will be homes to be proud of anywhere, but wonderfully attractive along this beautiful beach or back among the palms or oak forests. Sales have already reached $90,000 in only 30 days. It's none too soon to select your place.

Atlantic Beach Hotel

One of the really great resort hotels and the coming social center of the Southeastern States. This magnificent hotel property is close to Atlantic Beach and will forever add to its attractiveness and its value both as a home and a resort city. Right on the edge of the ocean---think of it. The bracing salt breezes, the cooling winds, the health giving air of the wide reaches of the sea. Go to the Beach and see why it is growing---why it must grow. Prices so reasonable that they are within reach of those who can pay modest house rent. There's money waiting for you at Atlantic Beach.

The Future—A Prophecy

Atlantic Beach property is a wonderful investment. It must increase greatly and rapidly. It is controlled by successful men of brains, energy and ample capital. They have spared no expense in employing the greatest professional experts to carry out their plans. These are in charge of architects, builders, sanitary engineers, and landscape artists who have made records of splendid successes. With its inimitable natural advantages, the great skill employed in its structure and the determination and financial strength behind it, Atlantic Beach cannot fall short of its builders' purpose---A model city.

Ty Cobb Begins to Pick Up in Race for Batting Honors

Ad Club Rules Ponce de Leon During Today

Big Parade Will Pass Through Streets and Get Up Enthusiasm—Game Is for Benefit of Atlanta's Boosting Bunch

Sure, we will all be on hand at Wednesday's ball game between Memphis and Atlanta and aid the Ad Men's club which has so often aided Atlanta in the enterprises which have placed this city at the top of southern industry.

The proceeds from Wednesday's game will go towards sending the ad club to the national meting at Baltimore and the more fans who attend the game the better showing the Atlanta representatives will make at this mammoth gathering in the Maryland city. You know full well that every citizen of Atlanta wishes Atlanta's representatives to make the best showing of the bunch and the more who attend the game Wednesday the better will be the showing which the local bunch will make.

The price of the game is no more than usual and reason for your presence is twofold. In the first place you will see a good ball game and then, too, you will be aiding a cause which should be helped.

There is no organization in the city that has done more to aid in upbuilding every known enterprise than the ad men's club and this every enterprising citizen appreciates. It is easy to appreciate the enterprise of an organization but to show this appreciation is a horse of another color. Many have never had the opportunity of showing the ad club that their work meets with general approval but Wednesday the chance presents itself. The ad men want you at the ball game and you should be on hand if you are able to get away from your business and you should make an especial effort to be present at Ponce de Leon park at 3:45. The ad men have often given up their business for a couple of hours to aid Atlanta and now it is up to you to make the same sacrifice for them.

Mayor Woodward is in sympathy with the move and has already given the city hall employes permission to leave off work for some two or three hours to go to the game. Many of the larger stores have made the same concession and it seems as if all are pulling hard for the success of the game. But anyway if you can't go get a ticket from one of the boosters as this will help just as much as if you go to the game.

Elliott Dent, Atlanta's new pitcher, will be an added attraction. He has not yet hurled a game for the Cracker team and you should welcome him when he makes his debut.

MOBILECLUB PLAYS HERE THREE DAYS

Mike Finn's Mobile club, right at present the league leaders, will be the attraction at Ponce de Leon park on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. This is to be the first real big series fought out at the local yard this season, the Crackers fighting overtime to pull down the Mobile bunch while Mike Finn will strive with all his might to take something like three in a row and recuperate from the severe setback he received in Birmingham.

When the Atlanta club visited Mobile some ten days ago the Gulls won four straight games and for this rather harsh treatment the Crackers want revenge. At that time the Cracker flingers were going decidedly punk while now they have reached some form and are twirling far better ball. About the hitting end there is no trouble and Billy Campbell, Cavet and Hogg will have to go at a rather good clip to get away with any more lucky wins such as those won when the Crackers were in the Alabama city.

Gilbert Price will probably work the Thursday game against Mobile with Brady coming back on Friday and Musser hurling the big Saturday fray. When these three are right they are good.

NO BERMUDA FOR CHANCE

NEW YORK, May 21.—The New York Americans will not train in Bermuda again. The extremely warm weather and the dampness there is believed to have caused a reaction when the players returned and began operations here.

This was the statement of President Frank Farrell, who is back in this city today after a trip to Chicago. Mr. Farrell said Mr. Chance could give no other explanation of the trouble his pitchers have been having with sore arms and lame backs since the opening of the season.

Despite the poor showing of the Yankees, President Farrell had only praise for Chance.

"With our pitchers terribly crippled and a big gap at short, I think Chance is working miracles on the western trip," he said. We are on the lookout for new men, but the desirable ones are hard to obtain."

Dent to Hurl On Wednesday

Today is the big day for Atlanta fans. This is the day that the Ad men will have charge of things, and they say there is to be a record-breaking crowd at the park to see the Atlanta team take the last game, and incidentally the series, from the Memphis Turtles. The Crackers are going good, and there seems to be very little doubt in the minds of the management that the team has really started the up-hill climb and that it is but a matter of a few days before the local team will head the percentage column.

Doc Newton, the big left-hander, will be on the mound for the visitors ,while Elliot Dent, the new man that was bought from Washington, will be given his first workout with the local team. All reports say that the new man is a good pitcher and that he should be a great addition to the local staff. The game will start at 3:45, and remember that the Ad men will be in charge.

Yale Shell Injured In Being Unloaded

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 21.—There was gloom in rowing circles at Yale today over word received from New York that the New England shell, ordered by Coach Kirby, who came here from England to put the finishing touches on the Yale crew, had been damaged in that city while being removed from the steamer on which it was shipped to this country. The boat was reported to have been stove in while being hoisted onto a lighter.

HURLING MOUNDS TOO HIGH; ORDERED PRUNED DOWN

Illegal pitching mounds will not be tolerated in the Southern league. This is the gist of an order just issued by President Kavanaugh as a result of complaints filed by five managers. Word has been sent Manager Elberfeld, of Chattanooga; Schwartz, of Nashville; and Finn, of Mobile, that the pitcher's plate will have to be built in accordance with Rule 9, Section 1, which says that the mound shall not be more than 15 inches higher than the home plate, and slope off gradually to the foul lines.

The Kavanaugh ruling reached Manager Elberfeld of the Chattnooga club Thursday. Complaint against the mound at this park is understood to have been made by Manager Molesworth of the Barons. Molesworth is also said to have protested against the Nashville plate, claiming his pitchers were at a disadvantage. Manager Frank filed a protest against the Mobile grounds, as did Dobbs of Montgomery and Bernhard of Memphis, but the league head took his time to give other clubs an equal chance at winning a game.

Whether the Chattanooga, Mobile and Nashville clubs will obey the order issued regarding illegal pitching mounds is something that will be determined shortly. Mique Finn will probably shave off the hill which gives his twirlers a big advantage, immediately. Elberfeld and Schwartz will probably get busy when they return home for a long series.

It is not known whether President Kavanaugh will instruct his umpires to forfeit games if his order is not obeyed, but it is within the power of the league head to enforce the rules. Four complaints gives him a majority in a meeting of the directors, and with these votes assured, it is probable he will proceed to have his umpires enforce the rule.

MOBILE BOX WAS ILLEGAL

Manager Frank was the first manager to file a complaint against the mound at Mobile. Umpires Hart and Wright agreed with Frank that the box Mique Finn constructed was not in keeping with the rule. For some reason or another, however, President Kavanaugh refused to take any action. Complaints from Memphis, Montgomery and Birmingham brought forth the order requiring the Chattanooga, Mobile and Nashville people to arrange the grounds satisfactorily.

New Catcher For Volunteers

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 21.—The purchase of Catcher Gibson from the Detroit American league club has been announced at the local baseball headquarters. Gibson comes under an optional agreement and will probably replace Ludwig. Outfielder Nicholson, who stole 111 bases in the Blue Grass league last season, reported today.

HOW GAMES WERE WON

Cree and Chase were the stars of the New York-St. Louis games yesterday in which the Highlanders got by with the score of 6 to 3. Both Chase and Cree got three hits apiece out of four times up. New York got a total of nine swats. This is going some in the face of the adverse criticism that some writers have been giving the New York first sacker.

Prysock was the feature of the Macon-Columbus game yesterday. He featured with a great one-hand stop, a pick-up and the catch of a sizzling liner. He also hit a home run and a single and stole two bases. However Macon lost the game, 3 and 2.

Connelly, of Boston, had the home run habit. He knocked his second circuit goer yesterday in the game with Chicago. Chicago scored seven in the second inning and Boston was never able to overcome the big lead and lost 7 to 3.

"Big Six" was knocked out of the box yesterday afternoon by the St. Louis team, who gave him the hardest drubbing that he has had this season. The Giants were shut out, Harmon holding them down to two singles. The St. Louis batsmen bunted on the big fellow throughout the game, seven of the eight hits being of the infield variety. St. Louis finally got the big end, 8 to 0.

Again Ty Cobb was the real feature of the game yesterday between the Athletics and the Tigers. He was there all the time getting two clean doubles, making a double out of a single when the ball was fielded slowly, walked twice and came in with the winning run in the tenth. For the games this week Cobb is batting an even 1.000. The game was finally won by the Tigers, 8 to 7. Murphy was the batting star of the Athletics, getting three hits out of five times at the plate.

Cleveland won their game from Washington yesterday in the ninth inning by the score of 10 to 9. Washington had a three-run lead until the ninth when the Cleveland team got together and put four runs across the plate. Both teams hit freely, twenty-three being the total number.

Despite the rumors that he is about done for, Wagner accompanied by the Pittsburg team took the game from Brooklyn yesterday mainly through the efforts of the great shortstop. He accepted nine chances and in the fifth with the bases full singled and made it into a triple on Stengel's fumble. The final score was 4 to 1.

Fromme working for Cincinnati was driven off the mound in three innings yesterday by the Philadelphia batsmen. Philadelphia won the game, 5 to 1. Packard relieved Fromme and was very effective. Fromme is considered a very good pitcher, but the other team got next to hi myesterday and confidentially put him out of the running.

It's a good thing that smallpox is not so seriously considered as it was in former times, else there wouldn't be anybody at all to see the Chicago Cubs play. The Cubs were "exposed" to the disease through playing a game with the Minneapolis team, several members of which contracted it at [illegible].

CONTROL

Sore Arms Have Caused Flingers to Pitch Inferior Ball

—BY JULIAN MURPHEY.—

The class of pitching in the Southern league is right now showing great improvement and you can bet there was plenty of room for the heavers of each club to put over a bit better class of work. During the first month of the season the class of flinging, taken as a whole, was decidedly off color but it now begins to appear as if all the slabbers are doing better.

ARMS WERE SORE.

One of the greatest howls let out by the flingers was that they were worried with sore arms. This in a large measure was caused by the early start when the weather was rather chilly and raw. The season began this year seven days earlier than usual and this was just early enough to run into some eight or ten days of the very worst sort of weather and the result was that many of the hurlers had to work on rainy days when they caught cold in their arms.

A sound arm is essential in good hurling. There is no denying that it is impossible for a man to go into the box and serve up his best class of ball when every motion of the arm hurts him. He forgets how to curve the ball and it is an impossibility for him to control the straight ones he serves up. He is lucky to even get them over in the groove and when he does it only serves to fatten batting averages.

One of the surest signs of the poor hurling is shown by the very large batting averages possessed by so many batters. Of course there are those in the circuit who will hit over the three hundred mark all year but the number will not be as great as is shown by the latest averages. Right now there are some twenty men over the coveted mark and many are known to be batters who do not belong so high. They have stuck to the high average this long just because the hurlers have been bothered with sore arms and have had to groove the ball to keep from issuing so many free passes.

Only a few days ago Umpire Theodore Breitenstein, who has seen many years as a mound artist, remarked on the large number of passes being issued by the hurlers. Now Breit has been in the pitching game for a score of years and when he remarks that the pitchers this year are walking more batters than he ever before noticed it is worth a second thought. It only goes to prove their poor condition which is a strong point in never again attempting such an early opening.

Of course the Cracker fans have followed closely the work of the Cracker flingers and have noticed the large number of passes they have issued. Well, hurlers on the other clubs have been just about as bad. Many games have been thrown away just on this one account and until better control is gained there isn't a chance for good, close games with the best batting and fielding winning out.

After ten years in the game as a magnate, during which time he has, according to report dropped a lot of money, Bert Annis, who recently sold his Grand Rapids franchise, announces that he is done for all time. Annis has been a pillar of the Central league and helped keep more than one club afloat.

COBB JUMPS HIS AVERAGE EACH BATTLE

Ty Cobb is showing up his critics in amazingly fast fashion by the manner in which he is now clouting the ball. His average through the game of Tuesday is .491, the mark having taken a big jump almost daily since Ty's return to the game.

When Cobb held out on the Detroit club many made the prediction that he would get away badly and encounter a big batting slump. At first he was a bit off, due to sickness, but during the past week he has been making from two to three hits almost daily, and right now he is leading the major league hitters.

Here is the present average:

	G.	AB.	R.	H.	Av.
Cobb	17	57	9	28	.491

TECH HIGH TENNIS PLAY

A most interesting tennis tournament has just been completed on the East Lake courts, by the students of Technological High school. A great deal of enthusiasm was manifested in the contests, which had a large number of entries. The following boys entered to contest for the trophy: Jernigan, Downing, Hawes, Day, Ponder, Park, H. Ingram, Montag, Woodruff Laird, Feibelman, Cobb, Moise, Hall, Beutell, Czintz, Moore and Hurt.

Excellent playing was done by Woodruff, Hall and Czintz, who figured in the finals. Hall defeated Czintz and Woodward defeated Jernigan. In the windup Hall beat Woodruff by the score of 6-0, 6-0, thereby winning the championship in singles. The doubles were won by Hall and Woodruff, who defeated Montag and Fiebelman. Fast, spirited games characterized the series. One of the most exciting contests was between Hall and Czintz in the single semi-finals. Those winning out well deserve the honor and have proved themselves good tennis players, although they had no easy walkover in most cases.

TODAY

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 21.—As a result of yesterday's tie, a doubleheader is scheduled here this afternoon between Nashville and New Orleans. Showers are predicted.

Wilson and Taylor will probably pitch for the visitors, with Robertson catching. Beck and Brackenridge will be on the mound for Nashville, with Noyes catching.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 21.—The first double-header of the season in Birmingham is scheduled for this afternoon between Birmingham and Mobile, rain yesterday interfering with the regular contest. The fans from Mobile, on an excursion, missed all games between the teams. Sloan and Prough will pitch for Birmingham today, with Mayer catching, and Cavet and Hogg will work for Mobile, Schmidt catching.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 21.—The third game of the Montgomery and Chattanooga series will be played this afternoon. Weather is warm and partly cloudy. Batteries: Chattanooga, Coveleskie and Street; Montgomery, Manning and Grebbens.

SCHOOL TEAMS IN BIG GAME

The championship game of the season will be played this afternoon between the teams of the Formwalt Street school and the Edgewood Avenue school. The game will be played on the Marist campus diamond at 3:30 o'clock. This is the third game of the series, Formwalt winning the first and Edgewood the second. There are loads of rooters for both teams and interest is at fever heat.

This game will decide the outcome of who is champion of the public schools of Atlanta. One of the teams is the champions of the north side and the other is the champion of the south side. The game will be some game if advance dope spells anything.

FILIPINO BALL TEAM WILL PLAY IN U. S.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—A small band of Filipinos are coming to the United States, the bureau of insular affairs has learned, to "knock the stuffin' " as they are reported to have declared, out of this country. It is to be on the baseball diamond, not on the field of war, that hthis hoped-for victory is to be scored.

The all-Filipino baseball team is expected in San Francisco about June 11, was the word that reached Brigadier General McIntyre, chief of the bureau of insular affairs, today. One of the four pitchers, Jarcpillar, a former star pitcher of the Iloilo High school, is reported to be a southpaw of no mean ability."

Near No Hit By Big Chap; Atlanta Won

Crackers Came Through With a Hit Whenever It Was Needed and the Final Count Was 11 to 0 in Six Rounds

The Atlanta batters hit in their customary form Tuesday, and, as Big Bill Chappelle pitched a grand article of ball, there was nothing to it but a decisive win for the home bunch. It might be mentioned that the score was 11 to 0 and the game went but five and a half rounds, rain interfering.

During the first five innings Chappelle did not allow a hit, and just two runners reached first. Just one of these got as far as second, and this was on an error. In the sixth, after Chap had been forced to take a long wait owing to a drizzling rain, his arm became cold and he gave up two hits, both of which were of the infield kind, and two runners got on. Neither got past second.

The game, as a whole, was the most weird exhibition ever seen on the local lot. Once it was stopped for thirty minutes owing to rain. All the while Pitcher Kroh was endeavoring to play for rain. The umpires, for some unknown reason, held it up for fifteen minutes in the sixth and then made the teams play another half round.

The big feature of the whole game was Kroh's bone play in the sixth. The bags were filled and one down, when Agler hit a swift bounder directly at the pitcher. Kroh didn't do a thing but grab the ball and then walk almost to the home plate and finally toss wild to Seabough. If he had but thrown quickly home, a double could have been completed. But maybe this line of work is why he isn't in the majors today.

Whitey Alperman and Irvington Bisland were rather around when there was any hitting being put over. Three times Whitey hit safely, and twice Bisland slammed out the pill. With two on the bags in the sixth, Bisland was ordered walked, but even this did not check the batting rally, which produced six runs in the inning.

Joe Agler pulled one of the best executed plays of his career in the fifth. Seabough hit to short, and when Bisland threw a bit wild towards first Joe timed his catch and managed to spear the ball in one hand and keep a toe on the bag. The play was made just so Doc could be retired.

Whitey Alperman made a grand stop in the third of Baerwald's hard roller, and nabbed this corking player at first. It looked at first as if it was a sure hit.

Harry Welchonce was right there at the bunting game. Twice he placed down neat ones on the third base and beat the throws to first. Shanley robbed him of a hit in the first by a great stab.

Pitcher Kroh is about as slow as they make 'em. He took up more time with his delivery than most any flinger who has worked here this year.

Bisland continued his hard hitting. In the first inning he shot out a triple that would ordinarily go for a home run, the wet field preventing the ball from having the usual roll. It was his single in the second that scored a couple of runners.

Golfers Work For Tourney

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 21.—Six American golfers are among the list of nearly 200 competitors who have entered for the amateur golf championship of the world, the play for which starts next Monday, May 26. The entries closed at noon today.

The Americans are Findlay S. Douglas, of the Nassau Country club; C. W. Inslee, of the Oneida Community club; W. Heinrich Schmidt, of Worcester, Mass.; Harold Weber, of Toledo, Ohio, and Douglas Grant and Campbell D. White, both of San Francisco. Grant, who spends much of his time in the British Isles, has entered from Richmond.

Chick Hartley, Sioux City, outfielder pulle a queer one. He was sent his railroad ticket and traveled as far as Colmbus, Ohio. There he became frightened becaused of the floods and hiked back home to Washington, Del. Then he wired Manager Holmes for another ticket, but Holmes has told him to pay his way or take the consequences.

PITCHERS ARE TOO WILD

—UMP BREITENSTEIN.

Quoth Theodore Breitenstein in Montgomery recently in reference to pitchers—and Theodore should know all about them, as he hurled with eminent success for some three-score years and ten: "I have never seen as little control among the pitchers as this year. I don't know of any particular cause, either. It's a puzzle to me.

"Not that there are so many more bases on balls being given, but the hurlers are almost constantly in a hole, the batter betting them three-one on three-nothing and compelling them to groove the ball. The pitcher who can get his stuff over is a rarity in the Southern league. My only explanation is that the hurlers have gone crazy on all these new freak deliveries.

"The success of the spitter was followed by the knuckle ball and a dozen other deliveries that are not natural. Every pitcher is trying to develop something that no one else has. They are probably trying to put too much on the ball, and therefore lose control. And what's the good of all this stuff if it all goes away from the plate and the hurler is compelled to shoot it right over the middle? I may be old-fashioned, but it seems to me that we had just as good pitching, maybe better, when a fast ball, a curve, a change of pace, control, and a head, were thought about all a pitcher needed."

Old Breit is a deep student of the pastime. He has another idea that is worthy of serious consideration. "The custom of catchers wearing shin guards is doing more to drag out the games than any other one cause. I would not be surprised if the average time of a game is lengthened fifteen minutes by this.

"When a side is retired the catcher has to load his big glove his protector, his shin guards and his mask back to the bench. He is called on to bat. Suppose he gets on base and is left there. He has to come all the way from the field to the bench. He has to buckle on his protector, turn about his cap and slip on his glove before he reaches the plate. Then the pitcher wants to throw three or four balls. All this takes time.

Suppose there are two men down and the man ahead of him at bat. He has already put on his protector and guards. Suppose the man gets on. The catcher has to shuck this stuff again before he hits. Then he has to put it all back on. Now, I know how much protection the shin guards are, and I do not advocate their abolition, but the magnates should arrange some scheme by which this extra time could be made up. For the average patron of baseball is dead against spending two hours at the park unless the game is thrillingly interesting."

THE SPORTLIGHT

BY GRANTLAND RICE

JOHNSON IN THE BOX.

The outlook wasn't over pink for Uncle Sam that day—
The Japs had captured Frisco by a snappy double play;
And when, five hundred thousand strong, they swept across the West,
The nation was astounded—not to say a bit depressed.

The slant-eyed legion ripped along—from village unto town;
The Rising Sun was hoisted as the Stars and Stripes came down;
Until, in one brown rushing horde across the gory lea,
It stood before the well-known gates of Washington, D. C.

Alas! for Lexington and such, we stood a conquered race,
But until—what lonely bloke is that in yonder space?
But when he started warming up, as pitching to the Sox,
Not a native in the town could doubt 'twas Johnson in the box!

They charged him in a serried sweep—but why waste further lines?
He beaned them on their shaven heads and soaked them in their spines;
He cut the old smoke ball across, and, aiming at their crowns,
He had them huddled in a heap below the Yanks and Browns.

That night the Jap commander wired back to Tokio:
"We've cleaned their bally army up and made their navy blow;
We'll beard the cannon in its lair, the Mauser in its den—
But facing Walter Johnson's smoke is something else again.

Whether Doc White pitched fifty-six consecutive scoreless rounds in 1904 we are unable to say. Some historians give the southpaw credit and others say that he was scored on by Cleveland. But truth, buried in dusty statistics though it be, will rise some day and the answer will then develop.

THE DELAYED PASS.

In the meanwhile, both Giants and Pirates are still delaying the appearance of their widely advertised act, entitled "Running Away with the N. L. Race." It may not be put on now until July or September—or it may be indefinitely delayed until the sketch is rewritten.

THE OLD REBUTTAL.

Criticism of the tennis committee's choice for the coming Davis cup preliminaries was to be expected.

Whether said committee has picked the best team possible is another matter. There would be a sufficient quantity to disagree with any selection made. Any one who has ever attempted to pick an all-American baseball team can understand the situation. Those who agree with you are always outnumbered by those who don't.

Comiskey's White Sox have stuck within striking distance of the top with Ed Walsh's hors de spitball most of the distance. With the Big Reel ready to work again the south side is in a buoyant position to start another rampage. If the Sox can win without Walsh they should be perpendicular favorites with the redoubtable Ed in harness—provided the rest of the cast holds up. Which also be something else again.

After three or four years of anxious waiting the White Hope situation stands now just as it did in the beginning. Which is to say that no expert has yet been found able to say just which one of the Hopes is worse than the other. The correct answer will probably never be obtained until some expert on cheese in its native state is assigned to the job.

Waltr J. Travis announces that no man will ever make a winning golfer unless he is master of the mashie pitch. Which is equally true of mastering the driver—the putter—and two or three or five other shots. In other words no man will ever make a winning golfer until he learns how to play the game.

Knocked Out But on Feet

Joe Mandot Is Severely Beaten by Bud Anderson—Twelve Rounds

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 21.—Bud Anderson, of Vaner, Wash., knocked out Joe Mandot, of New Orleans here last night in the twelfth round of a scheduled twenty-round fight. Mandot was knocked down in the twelfth round, but was still on his feet when the referee stopped the fight. Anderson was too much for the southerner, and landed blows at will.

In the first part of the fight Mandot tried to fight at long range, and for a half round did some very effectual work. Anderson, however, met him at his own game in the next round, and the fight was never in doubt from then on. Mandot took the aggressive in the sixth, but to no effect. In the twelfth Anderson rushed Mandot with a rain of lefts and rights to the face, and after a "mule kick" to the jaw, the referee called the fight to prevent further bloodshed.

Trainer of Sullivan

NEW YORK, May 21.—Edward Congalton, seventy-six years old, who says he was once head athletic trainer for the New York Athletic club, once trained John L. Sullivan and for a time was manager of "Kid" LaVigne, is in New York today looking for someone who knew him in the old days to aid him, after having been taken starving from a locked freight car in the Lackawanna freight yards in Hoboken yesterday.

Congalton said he crawled into the car in Buffalo on Sunday, fell asleep and was unable to make himself heard. He was too weak to give an alarm when the train finally stopped, and was in a state of collapse when found. Railroad men supplied money for him to come to New York.

Experience Is What Won Bout

Willard Was a Mere Novice in Infighting Game—Smith in Many Matches

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—Inexperience proved to be a big handicap to Jess Willard, of Kansas, in the heavy weight fight with "Gunboat" Smith, which the latter won last night on a decision at the end of the twentieth round. Willard had the strength and courage, but he was too good natured and too sluggish, and when Smith forced him in the tight places he did not know what to do.

In the periods when he might have won the fight he seemed to lack the determination to push through for a victory. But when Smith was in difficulty he always displayed ring generalship and covered up until the gong saved him.

Of the twenty rounds fought but six could be credited to Willard. In offense he showed exactly what the critics had predicted for him, a tantalizing straight left and a right uppercut. At in-fighting he was a novice.

Both men took a good deal of punishment. In the tenth Willard's ear was split wide open and for the remaining rounds blood streamed down his neck and over his chest. Smith's left eye was puffed shut.

Both were tired in the closing rounds and here Willard's inexperience and good nature developed, for when the crowd jeered him for inaction during a clinch, he stopped work entirely and smiled over Smith's shoulders at the bleachers. The crowd hooted again while Smith tore in.

Ring-side critics expressed the opinion that although Smith had won a just decision, with training and experience Willard might be developed into a formidable heavy-weight.

AMERICANS WILL RACE WITH LIPTON'S YACHT FOR HONORS

NEW YORK, May 21.—With almost universal satisfaction prevailing in yachting circles over the news from London yesterday that the New York Yacht club has accepted the latest challenge of Sir Thomas Lipton to race for the America's cup, gossip was busy today regarding probable plans for the defense of the trophy. While confirmation of the news was not forthcoming at the New York Yacht club last night the word is generally accepted as true.

The greatest satisfaction is expressed that the series of races will be held under the present rule of measurement and time allowance. It is freely predicted that with seventy-five-foot yachts, designed under this rule, good seaworthy boats will be the result instead of the flimsy racing machines which participated in the last contest.

One result of this change, it was said, will be a reduction in the cost of building and maintaining the yachts, and this is expected to bring about keen competition for the honor of defending the cup.

Yachting enthusiasts believe at least three, and perhaps four, boats will be built to contest in the trial races. It is understood that two individual yachtsmen will order seventy-five-foot boats, while it is said the nucleus of a syndicate to put afloat another yacht has been forming for some time.

Today the opinion was expressed that opportuntiy should be given American designers to see who can produce the best and speediest yacht. Herreshof, it was said, will build one, and perhaps two boats, and William Gardner, who has been very succesful with sailing craft under both the old and new rules, is expected to have one. Harry J. Gielow, who designed the Effort, winner of the first king's cup race, is also mentioned for another yacht.

The cablegram sent by the New York Yacht club to the Royal Ulster Yacht club, accepting Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge for the America's cup, was signed "G. A. Cormack." It says:

"We hereby confirm ours of the 14th which accepted your challenge on the terms therein stated."

Won Champ Race With Ankle Broken

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 21.—Raymond Haimbaugh, the University of Michogan crack two miler who won first place from Syracuse runners in last Saturday's track meet, ran the race with a broken ankle. This has been disclosed by an X-ray photograph of Haimbaugh's leg.

It is believed the fracture occurred during the two mile race at Cornell, two weeks previously. In spite of the pain caused by the injury Haimbaugh kept in training and was able to outdistance his opponents in Saturday's race, at the finish of which he collapsed.

Haimbaugh will not run again this year, and as he is a senior, his days as a college athlete are over.

JOURNAL
WANT AD HOROSCOPE
MAY 22.

Children of this birthday are highly nervous in temperament, very observing and should be reared out of doors and given every advantage of outdoor life.

Unless this is done, their little lives may not be of long duration.

Mercury is the ruling planet of this birthdate and rules the mind. Everywhere in myth and tradition, Mercury is symbolized as the messenger and interpreter of the understanding and reason of man. It also represents the victory of the understanding over fate.

Physically, people of this birthdate are well formed and handsome in appearance. The Zodiac presents no more generous, affectionate and pure-minded people than the German born, especially when educated and awakened to their higher life.

This present period gives many advantages to the placing of metal workers through The Journal Want Ads.

Salesmen, agents for household articles and domestics will read The Journal Want Ads with profit during the coming week.

Telephone your ad to The Journal, or ask that it be sent for—whichever is most convenient for you. Main 2000 or Atlanta 423.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

Some Breeders Who Have Made Poultry Raising Profitable

MRS. L. D. SINGLEY, of Jackson, Ga., a farmer's wife who has a large family has probably made more real money for the amount invested and has been a greater help to her family from the income from poultry than any other one person I know of. She has established a reputation for her White Indian Games that is growing day by day, and in addition to giving better value for the money received now than she did years ago she has better birds to do so with, more of them to select from, and naturally the per cent of profit is much greater and will continue to be year by year, and she and her family will hereafter be independent from the income of her poultry alone, even though their outside crops are a total failure. Mrs. Singley having only a limited amount of money to invest in poultry started out with not over $25, covering her total first year's expenses. While her buildings are rough and crude they are comfortable and answer the purpose, but naturally require more work to care for her fowls than if she was possibly better equipped, which would cost a lot more money. She, making a specialty of only one variety, she can keep them much cheaper and with far less expense than if she had several varieties. She has only been keeping poultry about four years, but naturally if her business grows in the next four years, as it has in the past four she will soon have a large and profitable business that will compare favorably in profit-making with any other lines where many times more money is invested.

Another very successful breeder and one who is on the right line and making money is Mr. H. A. Black, of Cartersville, Ga. He makes a specialty of White Orpingtons. Mr. Black invested something over $100 in five extra good birds to start with. The result was that every bird he raised was a good one. The world soon found it out and business came to him overwhelmingly. He is a clerk in a store in this little town and only has a small space to keep his fowls,, but he is nicely situated, has splendid yards and with his wife's assistance they have built up a business to be envied, and of course year by year his business will increase and if he should so desire now to give up his position his poultry would pay him handsomely and make a good living for himself and family.

Another man who has been very sccessful with his poultry and enjoyed a splendid trade until this season has been Dr. R. B. Watson, of Chamblee, Ga. He has made a specialty of selling day-old chicks and for the past three or four years has possibly done a larger business in this respect than any other breeder in the south. He has just moved to the country, built him a beautiful home, fitted up a splendid lot of poultry houses and is equipped now to do a large business and take care of his trade in splendid shape. However, this past season, from some cause, the demand for day-old chicks has not been so good as in former years. However, such things will happen, and he has a large lot of young chickens now on hand that will make up in egg production the coming season what he has lost in sales for young chickens. These things will come not only in the poultry business but in all other lines of industry. Some seasons will be good and some bad, and the man who is able to hold on in the poultry business and keep up his stock to the highest standard cannot help but win, although he has some off seasons.

Mr. J. L. Reinhardt, of Colbert, Ga., who started in a small way with White Leghorns, Indian Runner ducks and several other varieties has gotten down to real business now and has equipped at Colbert, Ga., one of the best and most up to date poultry plants in the United States. This place covers seventeen acres of land, he has a Mammoth incubator, holding 6,500 eggs, brooder houses, laying houses, colony houses and everything else necessary for convenience in handling the large number of fowls. The best of all is his plant is stocked with some 2,500 to 3,000 magnificent White Leghorn hens of the laying kind, and possibly 5,000 head of young White Leghorns coming along to produce eggs this winter. Mr. Reinhardt is supplying one of the hotels at Athens, one at Macon and several parties in Atlanta with daily shipments of fresh eggs. They are packed clean and nice in an attractive manner and he is giving to the public something that is being appreciated, and they are paying a profitable price for these products that a few years ago it was impossible for them to secure. His business, by being worked on a business basis has been very profitable and has practically paid its own way and the plant built itself from a small beginning to a business now amounting to something like $1,500 a year. Two men are employed to look after this plant, and with the spare time that Mr. Reinhardt can give and his business ability as a successful business man has made this plant a great success.

Very truly yours,

Loring Brown

POULTRY FEED POULTRY FEED

Indianapolis, Ind., April 29, 1913.

Aunt Patsy Poultry Feed Co., Memphis, Tenn.

Dear Sirs:—Until a few months ago I lived in Atlanta, Ga., and while there I fed my hens and baby chicks Aunt Patsy Poultry Feed, and had no trouble in raising my young chickens or getting plenty of eggs from my hens.

Since moving to Indianapolis, I have not been able to get Aunt Patsy and have had lots of trouble with my baby chicks and my hens have not laid well at all, so I am writing to know if you won't ship me 500 pounds of Aunt Patsy at the best price you can delivered. If so, I will appreciate it very much. I have just got to have Aunt Patsy or sell my hens and I don't want to do that. So please let me know if I can expect the feed, and oblige,

Respectfully,

Mrs. S. M. Smith.

Ask your dealer for Aunt Patsy Poultry Feed, the Egg producer.

If you are a Hen Eat Aunt Patsy Poultry Feed—the Egg producer.
If you are a Baby Chick Eat Aunt Patsy Poultry Feed.
If you are a Rooster—Well! Be gallant and tell the hen she should Eat Aunt Patsy.

PLYMOUTH ROCKS

Barred

BARRED ROCK cockerels, $1.00 each, 8 weeks old, just right for raising yourself. H. H. Murray, Newnan, Ga.

A BIG BARGAIN—I have 8 of the best Barred Rock hens I have ever raised. They are birds that have won the Blue in such shows as Georgia State Fair, Macon, Ga., Griffin and others. Not a bird in the lot worth less than $5 and on up to $25 each. They are all laying and there is plenty time to raise winners from them this season. I am forced to sell, and first check for $15 gets them. If you want something good this is your chance. Mrs. J. B. Wood, Brooks, Ga.

White

WHITE PLYMOUTH ROCKS, Fishel strain. Two pens for sale, $10 each. This stock came direct from Fishel, and is very fine. Good reason for selling. Allen M. Norris, P. O. Box 68, Westminster, S. C.

ORPINGTONS

WHITE, Black and Buff Orpington eggs, half price remainder of season. My birds win at the leading shows. They are the massive, close to the ground kind. Heavy layers. Get my price list. Mrs. L. P. Eberhardt, Elberton, Ga.

Black

S. C. Black Orpington eggs for hatching. Write for my mating list. J. W. Stephenson, Decatur, Ga.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Work Will Be Started on West Mitchell Street Regrading in About Ten Days—Eugene V. Haynes to Spend $10,000 on Alterations on New Store on Whitehall Street in the Shopping District—Hapeville Sale Reported

Street improvements are following each other in rapid succession these days. On the heels of the announcement that the Whitehall street project has been approved, comes another announcement that work of regrading West Mitchell street will be started in about ten days.

This announcement came at the close of a conference between Captain R. M. Clayton, chief of construction, the committee of the county board and owners of property on the street.

The entire street will come in for a new grade. S. M. Inman and George S. May, who pushed the project, went with Captain Clayton and the commissioners on an inspection tour of the street.

Meanwhile the city and county have made the fill on Ivy street between Peachtree street and Edgewood avenue, and the mains are being laid.

The Whitehall and West Peachtree street regrading projects have been approved, and work on them is a question only of a short time.

WHITEHALL IMPROVEMENT.

Eugene V. Haynes, the jeweler, was granted a permit on Wednesday for extensive alterations he will make on his new store at 49 Whitehall street, in the heart of the shopping district.

These alterations will cost $10,000, and Mr. Haynes' new quarters will be patterned on the style of the best shops in Berlin, which he inspected on a recent trip abroad. Hentz & Reid are the architects and Hard & Worm the contractors.

Mr. Haynes' present quarters at 37 Whitehall street will be occupied by a motion picture theater, which will also make alterations.

HAPEVILLE SALE.

Mr. Mayfield, of the Harris G. White agency, has sold for F. M. Bullock to W. G. Lovell a six-room house on a lot 300x200 on Fairview avenue in Hapeville for $5,250.

Plot of Guggenheims To Grab Alaska Land Is Bared to Senators

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Delegate Wickersham, of Alaska, startled the senate territories committee today by declaring that Senator Chamebrlain, a declaring that Senator Chamberlain, a member of the comittee, had inadver- previous congress which would have turned over to "the Guggenheims" ab*solute control of the harbor of Cordova* and the entrance to the Bering river coal fields.

"There was a little inoffensive looking bill introduced in congress, I believe you were the author of it, Senator Chamberlain," said Wickersham, "giving the right of way to the Guggenheims from Mile Twenty-five on the Copper river road to Three Tree point. You did not know what that bill meant. It passed the senate but when it reached the house I killed it. If it had passed it would have given the Guggenheims title in fee simple to all of Cordova harbor and they would have had a monopoly like that of Mr. Ryan on Controller bay."

Senator Chamberlain made no reply.

Mr. Wickersham told the committee that the Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate had Alaska "by the throat."

VOTES-FOR-WOMEN ISSUE ENTERS ALABAMA SENATORIAL CAMPAIGN

Senator Johnston Is Opposed by Hobson, Hero of Santiago, Who Is Advocate of Equal Suffrage for Fair Sex

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 21.—The racial question as it relates to woman suffrage will be the issue upon which the Alabama senatorial campaign between Senator Joseph F. Johnston and Representative Richmond Pearson Hobson will be pitched next year. Hobson is an ardent believer in equal suffrage. Mr. Johnston, who has served on the woman suffrage committee of the senate, is opposed to suffrage for the fair sex.

Mr. Hobson declares that woman suffrage is not a legitimate issue in the campaign he plans against Mr. Johnston, but the sagacious old senator sees great political possibilities in the question, and will keep it before the people of Alabama. He believes of course that the people of Alabama, women as well as men, are against woman suffrage.

The Chamberlain resolution, which proposes to confer suffrage upon the women of the United States, will be used by Senator Johnston as a means of bringing the issue squarely before the voters of Alabama. The resolution is now pending in the senate, with a favorable report from the woman suffrage committee. Its consideration will not be reached at the extra session, nor is it likely to be passed during either of the other sessions of the sixty-third congress. But the advocates of equal suffrage, including the coterie of senators from western states, where women vote, may be relied upon to renew the agitation of the question in the sixty-fourth congress.

Should Mr. Hobson be elected to the senate from Alabama, he would be in the senate of the sixty-fourth congress, and his vote would be cast for the Chamberlain resolution or some similar measure, conferring upon the women the right of suffrage.

Mr. Johnston contends that the passage of the Chamberlain resolution, to be followed by ratification of the constitutional amendment it proposes, would nullify the suffrage laws of the south, and confer upon negro men and women the right to vote in all elections. He thinks that the mere suggestion is abhorrent to the southern people, and he expects to rally the moral support of the white women of Alabama in his fight against Mr. Hobson.

THE FIRST GUN FIRED.

The first gun of the Alabama campaign was fired today when Representative Blackmon, of Anniston, one of the able lawyers of the Alabam delegation, and a friend of Senator Johnston, gave out an interview, pointing to the danger of the Chamberlain resolution. He said:

"The forefathers evidently contemplated that conditions might arise which would render it imperative that each state should have the right to regulate suffrage within its own borders. Therefore, they reserved to the states the right to fix the qualifications for voters, and the supreme court of the United States has almost without exception upheld the states in dealing with this important question.

"For instance the supreme court has upheld the suffrage qualifications of the state of Alabama.

"Our best citizens for many years wrestled with this perplexing question and finally, by the constitution of 1901 legally deprived a large majority of the objectional portion of our population of the right of suffrage, which, as exercised by them, had been a constant menace to the best interests of our people.

"The Chamberlain resolution, if passed by congress, approved by the president and ratified by the states, would, in effect, repeal the wise provision of our preesnt constitution, which leaves the important question of suffrage to the states. This resolution, in section 1, provides as follows: 'The right of a citizen of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any state on account of sex.'

"In view of the difficulties hitherto experienced in Alabama and other southern states in dealing with the suffrage question, should it not behoove the thoughtful citizen to think seriously before giving his indorsement to so radical a departure from the wise provisions of our preesnt constitution, or to any advocate of this departure?

STATE WEEKLY PRESS TO INVITE WILSON

Will Ask President to Deliver an Address at Their Convention

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

EASTMAN, Ga., May 21.—Mr. C. M. Methvin, president of the Georgia Weekly Press association, has extended a most cordial and urgent invitation to President Woodrow Wilson to attend the next meeting of the association to be held in LaGrange on July 15-16, and deliver an address before the members of that body. Mrs. Wilson is also invited to accompany the president on this occasion.

A similar invitation will be extended by the chamber of commerce of LaGrange and the municipal authorities of that city, and Hon. William J. Harris, chairman of the Democratic executive committee of Georgia, will interest himself in the matter in an effort to secure the president's acceptance of the invitation. The United States senators from this state and members of congress from Georgia, have also been asked to urge upon the president that the invitation be accepted, and they will no doubt exert all influence possible in this direction.

As the general assembly will be in session at the time specified, it also proposed to introduce a joint resolution in that body inviting the president to deliver an address to the legislators, which resolution will no doubt be gladly adopted unanimously provided the president is able to visit the state at that time.

It is earnestly hoped by the Georgia newspaper men and the people of LaGrange that the president will be able to visit the Empire State of the South on the occasion mentioned, and the people of the entire state would greatly appreciate a visit by the truly Democratic president of the world's greatest nation, accompanied by his queenly wife.

GRADUATE NURSES MEET IN ATLANTA IN 1914

Mrs. A. C. Hartridge, Augusta, president; Miss Jane Van de Vrede, Savannah, first vice president; Miss M. H. Stevenson, Augusta, second vice president; Miss E. L. Dozier, Augusta, corresponding secretary; Miss M. A. Moran, Augusta, recording secretary. Miss Eva Campbell, Augusta, treasurer; Miss J. M. Candlish, Atlanta, chairman legislative committee; Miss M. E. Burgess, Savannah, credentials committee; Miss Jane E. Hall, Augusta, public health committee; Miss Mary E. Simpson, Augusta, nominations committee; Mrs. L. B. Talbott, Augusta, publicity committee, and Miss Emily R. Dendy, Augusta, arrangements committee.

PROPRIETARY MEDICOS OPPOSE FEDERAL BOARD

Sharp Attack Made on Plan to Establish Department of Health

WASHINGTON, May 21.—A sharp attack on the plan for a federal department of public health as recently outlined by Dr. George H. Simmons, of the American Medical association, and Mr. Harvey W. Wiley, was made here today before the convention of the Proprietary Association of America by O. C. Pikney, of New York, secretary and treasurer. The association is composed principally of proprietary medicine manufacturers.

The speaker disclaimed any opposition to a federal department of health, and declared that the association had no place in its membership for "quacks or purveyors of fraud," and that it was in thorough accord with the pure food and drugs law.

Whitfield Singers Meet

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

DALTON, Ga., May 21.—The Whitfield county singing convention attracted more than 1,000 people to Rocky Face for the annual spring meeting. Officers for the year were elected as follows: J. W. Williams, president; J. L. Buchanan, vice-president; H. Coyle, recording secretary; A. J. Sims, corresponding secretary, and J. M. King, treasurer. The convention will hold its fall meeting at Tilton in October.

PEACHES ARE SHIPPED BY MIDDLE GEORGIA

Entire Crop Is Estimated at Not Over Fifteen Hundred Cars

MACON, Ga., May 21.—The first carload shipment of Georgia peaches from the middle Georgia territory was shipped east from Macon Tuesday afternoon going to New York. The peaches came from Houston county, around Fort Valley and Marshallville. The majority of them were small and by no means in the same class with those which were being shipped at this time last year, though the price was somewhat better.

Monday a good-sized crate shipment went to New York from the Bateman orchards at Byrom, and there will be daily shipments from there from now on.

Growers declare they do not expect the Georgia peach crop this year to total more than 1,500 cars, where last year there were 5,200 cars. Last year though the price was low and the crop so large it was impossible to handle it properly with the result that many cars were lost en route through deterioriation and in many cases the freight amounted to more than the shipper received from the fruit.

Good prices are expected to prevail throughout the present season and that grower who has prospects of a good crop considers himself exceedingly fortunate. As it is, many of the growers will make more money this year on a small crop than they did last year on a large one.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY—In the matter of the application of The Prudential Insurance Company of America for the acquirement of its capital stock for the benefit of its policyholders.—Order fixing hearing on Application for Appointment of Appraiser.

It appearing to the Court that The Prudential Insurance Company of America has heretofore filed its duly verified petition, from which it appears that the said petitioner is a stock life insurance corporation, incorporated by the State of New Jersey, and that the Board of Directors of said Company have determined that it would be conducive to the welfare of the corporation and in the interests of the policyholders thereof to change the corporation from a stock life insurance corporation to a mutual life insurance corporation, and said corporation now applying to the Chancellor to appoint two or more disinterested persons to appraise the value of the capital stock of the said corporation, and also to appoint one or more counsel to represent the policyholders before such appraisers and in such further proceedings as may be taken under or in pursuance of said petition.

It is, therefore, on this twenty-second day of April, A. D. 1913, on motion of Edward D. Duffield, Solicitor of said petitioner, ORDERED that said application be heard by the Chancellor at the State House in the City of Trenton on the tenth day of June, 1913, at ten thirty o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, at which time and place the Chancellor will hear all parties in interest who may then appear.

It is further ordered that notice of such hearing shall be given to the Commission of Banking and Insurance of this State by serving a copy of this order upon him within fifteen days from the making thereof, and that notice of said application be given to the stockholders of said corporation by mailing a copy of this order to each of said stockholders at his post-office address, as the same appears upon the books of the said corporation, within fifteen days from the date hereof; and that notice of said application be given to the policyholders of the said corporation by publishing a copy of this order in one or more newspapers printed and published in the capital of each and every State of the United States in which the corporation does business, and in a newspaper printed and published in the cities of Edmonton, Alberta; Victoria, British Columbia; Win*nipeg, Manitoba; Fredericton, New Brunswick;* Halifax, Nova Scotia; Toronto, Ontario; Quebec, Quebec; and Regina, Saskatchewan, in the Dominion of Canada, once a week for at least four weeks, the first publication to be made within fifteen days from the date hereof. In case no newspaper is published in the capital of said States of the United States, then said publication may be made in a newspaper having a general circulation within said States.

IMPORTANT CHANGES

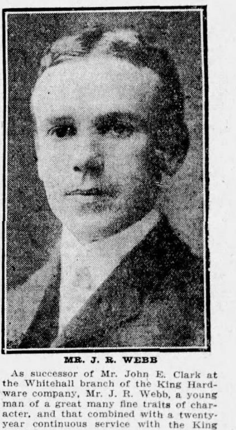
Made by One of Atlanta's Largest Retail and Wholesale Concerns

KING HARDWARE CO.

Advance Some of Their Men One Retires With Sufficient Competency

There is hardly a man, woman or child in the Atlanta territory, who does not know very well Mr. John E. Clark. He has for twenty-four years come on up with the King Hardware company. Year by year, month by month, almost week by week, with but little vacation; with but one specific desire in mind, to render a service most loyal to his associates and at the same time render unto himself a substantial sustenance gained by loyal service that would sufficiently compensate for a retirement whenever he so desired.

For twenty-four years Mr. Clark was at the post of duty, early and late; he had no thought for anything but the duty he owed his company, the tire of working was not in his vocabulary. In fact, so diligent were his endeavors that some few years ago he was made manager of the Whitehall branch of the King Hardware company at 87 Whitehall street. Mr. Clark was extremely proud of this promotion, and immediately put into action his many pleasant ways and means to attract the south side trade. So ardent and for so many years was Mr. Clark's ambition to reach the highest point of salesmanship and success that he very recently confronted the stern reality that he had greatly overworked himself. Immediately on this discovery, he announced to the management of the King Hardware stores the date of his retirement, and ten days ago Mr. Clark went out to his country home feeling that he had gained a competency which would insure a long needed rest, and one that everybody knows he will so richly enjoy. As to the future, Mr. Clark will not make comment, as a long rest may assist in the solution of his future avocation.



MR. J. R. WEBB

As successor of Mr. John E. Clark at the Whitehall branch of the King Hardware company, Mr. J. R. Webb, a young man of a great many fine traits of character, and that combined with a twenty-year continuous service with the King people, signifies that he is covering the trail very closely as was blazed by Mr. Clark.

Mr. Webb is almost as well known as the King Hardware people. He is naturally a born salesman and to be a born salesman, one absolutely must possess the highest degree of alertness, truthfulness and tenacity. Those who know Mr. Webb very well or even casually, will consider him well equipped with all this outfit and possibly more. A perfectly natural surmise is that he will make a great success of the 87 Whitehall street department house of the King people.

MR. WM. SCRUGGS

And now comes Mr. William Scruggs; one would almost infer by the name which has stood in many families for years in Georgia for nobility and mastership. In keeping with the name, no doubt, Mr. Scruggs will most substantially fill the vacancy made at 53 Peachtree street by Mr. Webb, who succeeds Mr. Clark as manager at the Whitehall branch. Mr. Scruggs has for several years been in the employ of the King Hardware people and his efficiency now places him in charge of a very important department.

The many friends of all these gentlemen will be pleased to know of the separate and distinct successes which they have won by real merit.—(Advt.)

HOHENZOLLERN WEATHER FOR ROYAL WEDDING

King George and Queen Mary of England Arrive in Berlin for Great Event

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, May 21.—True "Hohenzollern weather"—brilliant sunshine and cloudless skies—has set in for the wedding festivities of Princess Victoria Louise, daughter of the German emperor and empress, and Prince Ernest August of Cumberland, which takes place on Saturday.

The official receptions started this morning with the arrival here of the bridegroom and the state entry into Berlin of King George and Queen Mary of England.

There was no ceremony to greet Prince Ernest August when he reached the station at 8:25. He drove at once in an automobile to the castle, where he took breakfast with his bride-to-be before returning to the station to meet the British royalties.

At the station, awaiting the arrival of the royal train, were Emperor William and Crown Prince Frederick William, in the uniforms of their British regiments, together with the empress and the crown princess. All the royal personages and princes assembled in Berlin, and a mass of brilliantly uniformed naval officers and ministerial and court functionaries surrounded them.

King George and Queen Mary, when they alighted from the train, were greeted with the customary cordial embraces by the emperor and empress and the other members of the imperial family.

King George and Emperor William then jointly passed in review of the guard of honor drawn up on the platform. This completed, the two monarchs together, and the queen and empress side by side, drove in open state carriages through the Avenue of Victory and Unter den Linden to the castle, each carrige escorted by a squadron of cavalry with pennoned lances. The wide thoroughfares were lined with troops of the guards army corps, and behind them all Berlin seemed to have gathered.

The dirigible balloons Zeppelin and Hansa, flying the British colors, accompanied the royal train from Rathenow, about fifty miles away, and hovered over the carriages as they drove toward the castle.

PISTOL BATTLE FOUGHT ON BERLIN STREETS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MOULTRIE, Ga., May 21.—The town of Berlin, between Moultrie and Valdosta, had excitement of an unusual sort Sunday when one Frank McKenney, from the country, came to town and proceeded to paint it red. McKenney soon ran into the marshal of the town, who undertook to arrest and imprison him, but the arrest was resisted and the drunken man drew his pistol and opened fire on the marshal and on the town generally.

Others were drawn into the affair and pistols were used freely and ineffectually before McKenney was finally overpowered and locked up. One report says that 300 shots were fired, and that women and children and many timid men were locked in doors for some minutes while the noisy but harmless battle was being fought.

DINING ROOM BUFFET HELD MAMMOTH SNAKE

(By Associated Press.)

ST. MATTHEW, S. C., May 21.—Mrs. J. H. Hennegan, member of a prominent family, last night opened the drawer of a buffet in her dining room and placed her hand under a deadly copperhead moccasin snake which was snugly coiled up among the tablecloths.

Mrs. Hennegan was terribly frightened when the reptile moved, but withdrew her hand before it had time to strike. The snake was killed.

DEMURRER FOR HUFF OVERRULED BY COURT

Dismisses T. S. Felder's Contention That Letters Were to Speer and Not Court

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MACON, Ga., May 21.—W. I. Grubb, who is presiding in the contempt proceedings against Colonel W. A. Huff, the eighty-three-year-old Macon citizen who is being tried on a charge for contempt of court in that he wrote two hot letters to Judge Emory Speer, this morning overruled the demurrer of Attorney T. S. Felder.

Mr. Felder's demurrer for Colonel Huff was to the effect that the writing of the letters by Colonel Huff was to Judge Speer as an individual, and not as judge, and that the contempt, if any, was not in the presence of the court nor so near to the court as to obstruct justice.

Judge Grubb held that the sending of the letter to Judge Speer was sufficient to warrant an investigation for contempt in the letter referred to pending in court to which Colonel Huff was a party, and it was now up to Colonel Huff to show whether or not contempt was meant by his letter or if his letter was intended to influence or intimidate the court in any future decision it might make.

A number of witnesses have been subpoenaed by the government against Colonel Huff. The chief witness will be Judge Speer himself. It is understood that in event Judge Speer takes the stand, and he probably will in order to show that he actually received the letter, he will be subjected to a vigorous cross-examination by Hon. T. S. Felder, attorney general of the state, who is defending Colonel Huff.

After overruling the demurrer, Judge Grubb adjourned court until 3 o'clock this afternoon for the purpose of allowing Mr. Felder to prepare his case.

TANGO AND TROTS SET ENGLISH MASTERS WILD

Turkey Trot, Boston and Tango Described as Beginner of Evil

NEW YORK, May 21.—Invasion of the British Isles by the "turkey trot," the "tango" and other modern dances has so stirred the British public that a spirited discussion of the diversions in question is now in progress in the newspapers, according to cable advices from London here today. Editorial writers have taken up the topic and are treating of it freely.

"Some of the attitudes in the new dances are strange, we admit," says the Standard, "but surely the important point is that the dancers see nothing curious in them."

Now, if any of the London dancing masters seem to regard the "turkey trot" as suitable to the ball room, the cabled comment indicated, but opinion regarding other dances generally grouped with this is not so nearly unanimous.

The "Boston" and the "tango," which a correspondent of the Times who signs herself "Peeress" describes as "the beginner of evil," are regarded by Charles Dalbert, vice president of the Imperial Society of Dancing Masters, as two of the most graceful dances invented since the time of the minuet. Other opinions are as widely at variance.

SENATE WILL CONFIRM W. J. HARRIS ON JUNE 25

Georgian Will Succeed E. Danna Durand as Census Director on That Date

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—With a unanimous consent agreement to confirm William J. Harris, of Georgia, as census director on June 25, the deadlock in the senate over President Wilson's nomination was broken this afternoon. Following which two Tennessee postmasters were confirmed along with a large number of others.

The Tennesseeans were E. L. Connor, at Chattanooga, and J. W. McKinney, at Etowah. Their nominations were among the first sent in by the president.

TRAINMEN PLAN TO FORCE LIABILITY PAY

(By Associated Press.)

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—One of the important questions touched upon at the morning session of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen was compulsory compensations for injuries sustained in the course of duty. It is stated the whole matter porbably will be placed in the hands of the executive committee with instructions to urge action by congress.

A change in the constitution discussed today, provides that the conventions of the organization be held triennually instead of every two years. It was announced that W. G. Lee, president of the body, would be a candidate for re-election.

FIRST WATERMELONS OF SEASON ARE IN ATLANTA

Atlanta negroes never smiled so broadly this spring as they did last Monday morning, a flashing watery smile that spread from ear to ear. It was the same smile that ceased a short while back when all the 'possums roundabout took to their dens and the rabbit season passed into history.

The smiles were watermelon smiles, and they will be with us until early next September, when the watermelon's reign is done. The smiles came as a big carload of luscious green fruit pulled into the Central railroad melon yards, where they are now on sale. It was the first carload of the season.

T. F. Goodwyn & Co., brokers, of 28 Inman building, Watermelon King of Atlanta, have the distinction of bringing the first carload of melons to Georgia. They are the Tom Watson and Florida Favorite varieties. Mr. Goodwyn says that the melons cut red and are very ripe and sweet.—(Advt.)

NEW YORK MAY NOT HAVE SANE JULY 4

City Has Failed to Appropriate for Expenses and Public May Not Subscribe

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 21.—The proposed safe and sane celebration of the Fourth of July in New York may be abandoned through the failure of the city to make an appropriation to bear the expense. The finance committee of the board of aldermen yesterday voted unanimously not to approve the proposed appropriation of $50,000 on the ground that the city could not afford at this time to deplete its special revenue fund for celebration. There is still a chance that the board of estimate will act, but if that body fails to make the appropriation there may be no celebration as Herman Ridder, president of Mayor Gaynor's Fourth of July committee, has declared he will abandon the scheme rather than appeal for public subscriptions.

MOULRIE CHAMBER PLANS BIG BANQUET

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MOULTRIE, Ga., May 21.—The Moultrie chamber of commerce launched a big campaign of advertising and development at a smoker given at the Hotel Colquitt Monday night. A large and representative gathering of business men entered enthusiastically into the movement and subscribed freely to a fund that will put the body on a good financial footing.

John W. Greer, the newly-elected secretary, was present and outlined the work for the summer. The coming of Mr. Greer to Moultrie has put a good amount of enthusiasm in the chamber Bubonic Plague Cure?

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Surgeon General Stokes, of the navy, has received a letter from a woman whose name was withheld, in which she informed him that she had a weed which would "cure bubonic plague, also snake bites, tarantula bites, all kinds of poison insect stings, centipede sting, and has been said to have cured hydrophobia. It is quite probable that it will cure the bubonic flea bite. It won't do any harm if it don't do any good," she says, and closes her letter with a request to hear from the surgeon general on the matter.

PYTHIANS FLOCK TO WAYCROSS CONVENTION

Grand Lodge Draws More Than 500 Delegates to Ware County Seat

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

WAYCROSS, Ga., May 21.—Over 500 delegates are attending the forty-fourth annual convention of the grand lodge Knights of Pythias, which convened here this morning. With the delegation here for the sixth annual convention of the Pythian Sisters the number of visitors to the city goes over 700.

Public exercises at the Grand theater featured the opening of the convention. In behalf of the citizens of Waycross, Mayor Harry D. Ree welcomed the delegates, the response being made by Jas. W. Austin, of Atlanta, grand chancellor. For the local knights, J. Lee Crawley delivered the address of welcome, Miller S. Bell, of Milledgeville, responding.

Elaborate preparations for tonight's donkey parade in which several hundred will appear, have been made.

ODD FELLOWS HOLD TAR HEEL MEETING

(By Associated Press.)

GREENSBORO, N. C., May 21.—With an attendance of 400 delegates, representing 261 lodges and a membership of more than 16,000, the seventieth annual session of the North Carolina grand lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, convened here Tuesday night for a two days' session.

In session at the same time will be the ladies' auxiliary, the Rebekahs, with delegates in attendance representing seventy lodges and a membership of 2,000. Following the addresses of welcome and responses tonight the grand lodge concerned itself with routine business including the appointment of committees and hearing of reports.

KENTUCKY MOONSHINER PARDONED BY WILSON

President Allows Man in Last Stages of Tuberculosis to Go Free

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Compassion for a prisoner said to be in the last stages of tuberculosis, and fear that his presence in the Magoffin county jail in Kentucky, might endanger the health of other inmates, caused President Wilson today to commute to expire at once the six months' sentence imposed on Bryant Combs, at Covington, Ky., for working in an illicit distillery.

Nervous Wrecks from Sore Feet; Gives Cure

The nagging irritation from daily foot torture causes thousands of nervous break-downs. Besides there is the pain, the haggard face and peevish disposition. Don't waste an hour, here is a treatment that will cure your feet quickly. No matter how many patent medicines you have tried in vain this treatment, formerly known only to doctors, will give prompt results. "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for fully fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effects are marvelous. All pain goes instantly and the feet feel simply delightful. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off; bunions, aching feet, sweaty smelling feet, get immediate relief. Use this a week and your foot troubles will be a thing of the past. Calocide works through the pores and removes the cause. Any druggist has it in stock or will quickly get it. A twenty-five cent package is said to be enough to cure the worst feet.—(Advt.)

Diabetes No Longer Feared

Peculiar Action of a Remarkable Remedy in Controlling Liver Action.

S. S. S. Quickly Puts Vim and Energy Into You.

There is no need to feel any alarm over the symptoms of diabetes. This disease is apt to be purely a digestive trouble, and for this reason the liver is held largely responsible. The liver is the largest organ of the body, and is not only a mass of thread-like blood vessels, but throughout its entire fabric is intimately associated with the digestive system.

The thing to do is to so stimulate the action of this myriad of blood vessels that each cellular part selects its own essential nutriment by healthy and judicious divine discretion. This is accomplished by S. S. S., the most potent, the most active and the most naturally stimulating blood medicine known. You do not need purgatives; do not be alarmed at the presence of sugar nor of so-called sediment.

Just stick to S. S. S. and bear in mind that this celebrated remedy has such a specific stimulating action on the local cells of the liver as to preserve their mutual welfare and give a proper relative assistance, each cell to the other.

Dropsical tendencies are thus overcome, biliousness soon becomes a memory and jaundice, malaria, afflictions of the spleen and glandular swellings will be entirely eliminated. You will find S. S. S. on sale at all drug stores and for competent medical advice, free, consult by mail the laboratory of The Swift Specific Co., 137 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.
